

CRACK HUNTERS ENTERED IN FIRST ANNUAL FIELD TRIALS

Getting Wind of a Monogolian.

All arrangements have been completed for the first annual field trial to be held in Oregon and among the entrants there will be a number of the best hunting dogs in the west and some which have won championships at big eastern meets.

That the meeting is one of prominence is attested by the number of visitors who have gathered here for training at Harrisburg, near the scene of the trials.

While there are several blue-blooded hunters here to enter the trials, perhaps attention is being directed most largely to Sport's Rip Rap, a grand dog which won the championship in the North Dakota trials and at Mandan, N. D.

Relative to the exhibition of Sport's Rip Rap in the All-Age trials in the North Dakota trials last August, The American Field says: "This wonderful chicken dog has found a good home and at last has been started in perfect physical condition. He made good every inch of the way. His remarkable intelligence and ability to distinguish the pinnated grouse and overcome all its wiles have always been recognized, but since the first appearance he has never shown to such good advantage in pace and range as at these trials. His present owner, conditioner and handler is an amateur in the strictest sense of the word, but one of the oldest professional today in the game can learn from him."

In competition with the easterners there will be a number of local hunters of high degree, although it is not expected any of them will be able to outpoint the "wily" thoroughbreds, who have had plenty of practice in the past. The present meet is more for the purpose of improving the breed of local hunters than for the purpose of making trials should prove a valuable lesson for many of the local owners. The Oregon club has decided to award $1,000 in stakes next year if the trials next week prove an unqualified success.

Many of the owners, such as Mr. MacDonnell of Vancouver, spend hundreds of dollars preparing their dogs for trials and reap nothing but the wind of Sport's Rip Rap, who owns Sport's Rip Rap, is a wealthy citizen, and when he decided to send his dog east, he went up his office and went along to do the training and handling.

Several of the national reputation established kennels at and near Munger's Kennel at Harrisburg.

Harrisburg several months since. Among them is W. B. Counts, the famous California line dog, who has been located at Harrisburg since July 1, preparing the California dogs for entry. E. Munger, the eastern trainer, who came here last June from Clyde, Ohio, brought along a crack string, including Babo and Buckeye Belle, which he has prepared in connection with a number of Portland dogs.

The field trials party will leave Portland Wednesday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock at the Jefferson street depot. Arrangements have been made with the Southern Pacific for a one and one third rate provided 50 tickets are sold. Those going are cautioned to secure a receipt for their tickets, turning the receipt over to the secretary of the club, E. A. Parsons.

Arrangements have also been made with the hotel people at Independence to look after the comfort of the guests during the trials. Hacks and cabs will be provided to take spectators to the scene of the trials, which will continue from 7 o'clock in the morning until dark. Luncheon will be served in the field by one of the hotels.

Wednesday night after the party reaches Independence the annual meeting of the club will be held, at which time officers will be elected for next year. Among the out of town visitors to the trials will be several fanciers of prominence, including Fred Hare of Denver, Mich. Dr. Brice of Chicago, H. H. Abbott and G. D. McDonnell of Van-getting his plans arranged for another season of conquest. The state college with its anticipated attendance of 1,500 students should furnish Coach Norcross with enough brawn and brains to earn out a team better than any that has ever sailed forth from Corvallis to battle for championship honors.

Bob Forbes will start the university boys hunting up and down the coast at Eugene tomorrow and the university will have the privilege of slipping up the coaching method of one of the greatest players that ever stood in cleated shoes. Forbes will be a popular coach. He is a clean, fearless sportsman and has the personality and brains to turn out a great team. The game between Norcross' Beavers and Forbes' Bears will be one of the greatest contests of the year.

There has been considerable in the "gold brick" that Whitman had drawn for a coach. Disgruntled alumni have expressed their disapproval and the papers elsewhere in the world canning the pleasant notoriety is an injustice to a man who may turn out to be a very capable coach. It is what he does with good material that counts, not what he failed to do with a team that any other man would have failed with.

Apologies of coaching successful and otherwise it is interesting to note how many of the old-time stars have taught their "bag of tricks" and then floated out of the limelight into some profession where there is not too much "hurry," but possibly more quiet satisfaction. Pat O'Dea, the greatest punter and drop kicker in the history of American football, after two or three seasons coaching not especially successful drifters, has returned to his old home in San Francisco. His brother, Andy, the famous crew coach, is horse ranching in Wyoming. Charlie Kilpatrick, whose record in the history of American football is 1:53-1-5 has never been disturbed, after several years of track training, accepted a position as coach of the University of a big athletic house in Chicago. He swears he will never go back to coaching, but he does not seem to have any anxiety of training men, added to the criticism that follows any failure is worth a much loss. Shirley Ellis, the famous Harvard big game hunter and football player, after a few short weeks in charge of the Andover team, in a public meeting declared that he would let him resign and urged them to get another coach. Through a brilliant play he realized that he was not a success as a coach and was man enough to admit it.

McCormack, who made a great reputation at Dartmouth, could not get results at Northwestern, and after a couple of years deserted the gridiron for business and now only appears occasionally as an official in some big game. Curtis, one of the greatest line men the world has ever seen, has a splendid record but does not make Purdue win an important game. It was not the fault of the man but the lack of material. Bill Reid, great as a player and with considerable coaching ability, could not raise Harvard to the level of the old days, though his material the gridiron to train to the best but the onslaughts of smaller Dartmouth.

The football men are beginning to gather at the various alma maters and next week the over-season will have the usual early season "cherry" season. Norcross has arrived at O. A. C. and is

SIDELIGHTS ON HARNESS RACERS WHO AMUSE PUBLIC THIS WEEK

Day Break, 2:10 1/4, 2:11 1/4, 2:12, has trotted the three fastest heats on the northwest circuit. He is the property of Joe F. McGuire, the Denver race driver.

Ray o' Light, 2:05, is the first 2:10 performer since the great Searchlight, 2:03 1/4. The mark was equaled at Salem.

It is now in print, R. Ambush, 2:09 1/4, the trotting son of Zoicok, 2:05 1/4. Made in Oregon, too.

It didn't seem to bother the McKinney mare much when Berta Mac marched a mile in 2:08.

What a good-looking bunch of sidewheelers: Mona Wilkes, 2:03 1/4; Leonard Ward, 2:04 1/4; Charlie D., 2:05 1/4; Magaldi, 2:07; John R. Conway, 2:07; Deliah, 2:07 1/4; and Menonia, 2:09 1/4.

The Statesman and Wilmar divide honors, as far as their records are concerned. Each has a plaster of 2:11 1/4. Easter Belle and Emily W. have negotiated the distance in 2:11 1/4.

Tommy Gratton, the bay pacing gelding, who is a member of the McGuire combination, has not quite come up to the expectations of his admirers so far this season. But nevertheless he must be about due. Fred Egan, who is Mr. McGuire's right-hand card, says the Gratton horse is doing well and expects to see him step some before the meet is over.

College Maid, the world's greatest guinealess wonder, arrived at the local track in the pink of condition. Trainer Irwin is expecting great things of the gelding during the coming race meet. Johnnie Watson, the local admiral of the game, was one of the few who mentioned Day Break.

Fred Hook, who has had the mount behind several of the best light harness horses in the east, will not be seen in the local circuit for some time. The secretaries of the National and American Trotting associations have granted J. Hook vacation for the balance of the season, so that he might have a chance to view the scenery along the Pacific coast. Too bad, Fred.

HILL CADETS TO HAVE HEAVY TEAM

Cadets Will Be Well Coached by Former Oregon Football Men.

The Hill Military academy has entered the new school year with a fair attendance and the promise of a steady, healthy increase. Already there is noticeable among the cadets a school spirit and an enthusiasm in every department that promises exceptional results. The academy will this year make a determined effort for championship.

Supplied With Coaches. Besides Coach Latourette there are two more athletes on the faculty, John C. Veatch, who was a member of the University of Oregon track team for four years and later coached and trained the track team of McMinnville college and Glen Scott, who for two years played guard and center on the University of Oregon varsity. Mr. Scott will assist Coach Latourette in his work, while Mr. Veatch will take charge of the track team. He is very enthusiastic over the prospects and will spare no effort to turn out a team that not only will make a strong bid for the intercollegiate championship in Portland but that will also worthily represent Hill Military academy at the Yukon-Pacification exposition. For this purpose a systematic course of indoor training will be commenced in the very near future under his supervision.

center rush, has also reentered the school to fit himself for college, and will strengthen the team considerably. He is trying out for one of the backfield positions, for he combines a good deal of speed with unusual strength and weight. Searser, who played center last year, will be found either in his old place or in one of the guard positions. S. Graham played tackle last year and promises to improve substantially upon his previous good record, for he has gained strength and weight, which fact combined with his experience makes him a valuable man. He may be shifted into the backfield this year.

Team Average 170 Pounds. These five cadets form the nucleus of the new team. They are experienced, strong and gritty and they average well above 170 pounds to the man. In addition to these men a number of second-year players have enrolled at the academy, among them Miles Westbrook, McIntosh, G. Harton, playmaker, Wurzelschler and Hickok. The new men who have joined the football squad so far are McGuire, Akin, Beckman, Snipes and Ziehl.

AMERICANS BEAT BRITISH CHAMPS

Thousands See Larned and Wright Win at Boston Tennis Game.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Boston, Mass., Sept. 19.—The greatest international lawn tennis season in this country since the Dohertys took the measure of America's best players several years ago, ended this afternoon when the representatives of the United States won from the crack pair sent over by Great Britain, the right to compete in Australia for the Davis international trophy now held in the Antipodes.

William Larned of Annapolis, thrice champion of America, won the deciding point when he defeated M. J. G. Ritchie, the English Olympic champion, in a hard-fought match of four sets. At the same time Beals C. Wright of Boston, an ex-champion, and by virtue of being runner-up at Newport last August, chosen to play second to Larned on the American singles team, took one of the most thrilling sets to beat James Parke, the young Irish champion whom Larned defeated in the first day of play.

This left the Americans victorious by a score of 4 to 1. Two points were won by Larned and one by Wright and one by the champion doubles team, Hackett and Alexander, in yesterday's match against the same British players. The matches were played before a crowd of more than 4,000 persons, the largest that ever turned out to witness the game in Boston, if not in America.

THIS IS CHEYNE

Alex Cheyney, who is now working out with Flynn at Vaughn park, was one of the best umpires in the Tri-City league, where he established a reputation for accuracy and fairness. Cheyney has been working for the past two or three weeks on the Coast league and has given satisfaction. He is an impartial judge of plays and with a little more experience will make a valuable acquisition to Hal Ewins' staff of umpires.

If Hal Chase sticks to his determination to play ball in California the American league will lose one of the best first basemen in the business.

ship honors on every athletic field and its equipment in that line is probably better than it has been in any of the preceding years.

The football coach, "Jack" Latourette, is so well known among the athletes of the Pacific northwest that he scarcely needs any further introduction. He has shifted to one of the tackle positions, for Hill Military academy has lost heavily by graduation and much new material may have to be developed. Six of the eleven cadets who played on last year's first team will be missing from the blue and white lineup. Bill Captain Graham and Cadet Manager Caruthers are far from being discouraged by the prospect and have entered the season with the determination to do or die.

Five Old Timers. Five members of the old team remain. Captain W. Graham, one of last year's all-intercollegiate guards, will probably be shifted to one of the tackle positions, for which place his strength, speed and aggressiveness will make him particularly well adapted. Bill a post graduate who is preparing himself for entrance into Yale university, will play the game of his life during this year. Last year he is only 18 years now, he has successfully filled the position of fullback and has played a splendid game. He should play an excellent game this year.
