SOCIETY

THE past week has been a gay one with two large functions and a number of smaller ones that have kept society busy. The presence of the Italian ship in harbor and the delightful hospitality of its officers has been a pleasant touch. Their uniforms have made a bright spot at most of the teas and dinners given during the week. The Puglia leaves on the 23d and the ship's departure will be watched with regret by many.

Mrs. MacMaster's beautiful dance and Mrs. Houghton's tea have been the particular shining lights of the week's entertainments. Miss Strong's wedding this week has occasioned some informal entertaining.

Miss Houghton's engagement was the first of a number of betrothals of unusual interest to be announced. Several others will be made public soon, it is understood, and as this has been whispered around pretty generally everyone is on the qui vive for more startling news at every function attended.

The costumes worn at the teas given last week show that the new directoire and sheath gowns in their modified form will find popularity with Portland's smartest women. The long, graceful lines when not made on the extreme patterns are becoming to everyone, accentuating the stateliness of the taller women and lending height to the shorter ones. Some exceedingly handsome ones were worn last week and it is said that the horse show this year will be a splendid display of the new fashions.

A beautiful tea was that given by Mrs. Warren F. Houghton and the Misses Houghton in compliment to Mrs. Robert S. Howard Jr. Wednesday afternoon. The invitation list included practically all of society and it was one of the prettiest functions given here in many a day. It formally opened the season and the assemblage was a handsomely gowned one with their new fall costumes. Everywhere were beautiful flowers. The music room was in red with red roses and the reception rooms in lovely pink chrysanthemum shades. Bride roses ornamented the table in the dining room.

Beautiful flowers were sent in for Mrs. Howard and for Miss Effie Houghton, the announcement of whose engagement to Marion Dolph gave a delightful surprise to most of the guests. Mrs. Howard was a bride in the spring, formerly Alice von Destinon, and Mr. Howard is a brother of Mrs. Houghton. Miss Claire Houghton was celebrating her twenty-first birthday and so came in for her share of flowers and felicitations.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Houghton, Mrs. Howard and Miss Effie Houghton. Mrs. Houghton wore a handsome gown of black lace over white satin. Mrs. Howard was in her wedding gown of white lace and satin and wore beautiful diamond ornaments. Miss Houghton wore blue rajah and lace cut directoire and was the center of much attention.

Floating about the rooms and receiving the guests were Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd, Miss Olga von Destinon, Mrs. C. J. Reed, Mrs. Morton H. Insley, Mrs. John Shepard, Mrs. John K. Kollock, Mrs. David C. Lewis, Miss Martha Hoyt, Miss Ella Hirsch, Miss Miriam Strong, Miss Margaret Walter, Miss Dorothy Morrison, Miss Grace Warren, Miss Leslie Knapp and Miss Marjorie Hoffman. In the music room Mrs. C. A. Dolph served punch and was assisted by Mrs. Frank Knapp. In the dining room Mrs. T. B. Wilcox, Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, Mrs. Howard Mather and Mrs. J. Frank Watson poured tea and served ices.

Mrs. Wilcox, Mrs. Corbett and Mrs. Mather all wore white lace and Mrs. Watson wore black and white chiffon Mrs. Dolph was distinguished looking in a princess gown of taupe satin. Mrs. Knapp wore pale yellow net over yellow satin. Mrs. Ladd was in a beautiful embroidered lingerie gown over pale blue silk. Miss von Destinon wore hydrangea blue marquisette over blue silk, ornamented with handsome lace. Mrs. Shepard wore white lace as did also Mrs. Kollock. Mrs. C. J. Reed wore pale yellow satin cut princess; Mrs. Insley was in pale blue; Mrs. Lewis in heliotrope chiffon cut empire. Miss Hoyt wore white lace; Miss Hirsch was in white lace; Miss Strong was in pale pink silk; Miss Walter wore pale lingerie prettily embroidered; Miss Morrison wore a white princess frock cut directoire; Miss Warren was in white lace; Miss Hoffman in white trimmed with handsome old embroidery in blues and pinks and Miss Knapp in white. Miss Claire Houghton was charming in a satin gown of a beautiful mulberry shade, cut directoire. Mrs. Howard Sr. who seldom goes out now was prevailed upon to come down and she looked beautiful in black silk and received much attention. Wilder's orchestra played throughout the afternoon.

Of course attention centered about Miss Houghton when her engagement was made known. Miss Houghton is one of the most popular of the younger set and is a prominent figure in all the young people's functions here. She has a charming, unaffected manner and is an accomplished pianiste. She is the granddaughter of Colonel and Mrs. R. S. Howard, a cousin of Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd and a niece of Mr. and Mrs. James Flower of New York who are prominent in New York social circles. Her cousin, one of the Misses Flower, married Pierre Lorillard Barbey. Marion Dolph is a son of the late Senator J. N. Dolph and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dolph. He is a Williams graduate and at college won fame for his prowess in football. He is a prominent member of the leading clubs of the city and is especially active in the University club. For several years he has been a brilliant player on the Multnomah club football team.

The event of prominence this week will be the wedding of Miss Miriam Strong and Harry Stinson Sladen at the First Presbyterian church Wednesday evening. The maid of honor will be Miss Rhoda Failing and the bridesmaids Miss Kathleen Burns and Miss Effie Houghton. Dr. E. C. Sewell of San Francisco, a brother of the Sewalls here, will be the best man and the ushers will be Walter Beebe, Arno Rothwell, Harold Strong, Roderick Macleay, Bert Mackay, and Chester Murphy.

Miss Rhoda Failing gave a pretty luncheon Friday for Miss Strong. The guests were Miss Burns, Miss Houghton, Miss Ernestine Failing, Miss Olive Failing, Miss Margaret Catlin, Miss Christina Latta from Scotland, Mrs. J. G. Wilson, sister of the bride elect, and Mrs. Wells Gilbert.

Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sewell will entertain at dinner at the Portland, for Miss Strong and Mr. Sladen and the guests will be the bridal party and four other young women.

After the wedding Wednesday evening there will be an informal reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Strong with only the bridal party, the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends as guests.

Miss Mary Montgomery returned last Sunday evening after an extended visit east. She left early last spring for Connecticut to visit her brother and his wife in New Haven. Most of the summer she spent with them at their summer home on Long Island. She has just returned from visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Morris Van Houten on their ranch at Shoemaker, N. M. Mrs. Van Houten, who was Miss Helen MacEwan, the elder daughter of Mrs. J. W. Hill of Portland, was at the same time entertaining her sister, Miss Clara MacEwan, who returned west with Miss Montgomery. Miss Montgomery is now making her home with her sister, Mrs. Walter F. Burrell. Mrs. J. B. Montgomery and her daughter, Miss Margaret, are doing Bohemia, where they went to attend the exposition at Prague and staid to tour the country around.

Mr. and Mrs. William MacMaster entertained charmingly Tuesday evening with a dance at Ardgoul, their attractive suburban home, near the golf links. The place is one of the handsomest and most complete in Portland and was exceptionally attractive that evening with scores of oriental lanterns glimmering among the trees and shrubbery, much of which has been left in its native state of beauty. Indoors there was dancing and the gallery was prettily arranged for supper. Mrs. MacMaster was handsome in a stunning gown of white chiffon satin with handsome bands of silver woven in. It was cut semi-princess on the long sheath lines and gave a very smart appearance. Her three young daughters who are not out yet were in the company and attracted much attention in their simple girlish frocks.

The invitation list included Dr. and Mrs. Richard Nunn, Mr. and Mrs. David T. Honeyman, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Alvord, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Shevlin, Mr. and Mrs. John Kollock, Mr. and Mrs. Morton H. Insley, Mr. and Mrs. Patterson Effinger, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Blyth, Mr. and Mrs. L. The Portland Heights Social club is making elaborate plans for the winter season and doubtless this will be one of the most delightful clubs in the city. The new club house has already been built, though it is not yet completely equipped. The plan is to promote sociability among the "cliff dwellers" and at the same time to give them a convenient club house for entertaining because the golf club is too far removed for many. A sign of the popularity the club will have is in the applications that have come from many of the exclusive down-town set who propose to join. The hostesses for the year will be three of the most popular matrons of the Heights set—Mrs. A. C. Panton, Mrs. A. D. Carlton and Mrs. James D. Hart. Their names will secure the social success of the club, for their popularity and social prestige is not limited to the Heights set. Much interest awaits the announcement of their first function.

Mrs. W. F. Stine entertained at bridge Friday afternoon at her Willamette Heights home with five tables. The prizes were won by Mrs. Rumelin and Mrs. Minto. The rooms were prettily decorated with cut flowers. Mrs. Stine's guests were Mrs. A. C. Panton, Mrs. John A. Keating, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. J. O. Elrod, Mrs. M. L. Holbrook, Mrs. W. C. Knighton, Mrs. Guy W. Talbott, Mrs. Frank Rigler, Mrs. C. N. Huggins, Mrs. C. W. Hodson, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. John W. Minto, Mrs. Charles E. Rumelin, Mrs. Mark Gill, Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. George H. Nottage, Mrs. P. L. Willis, Mrs. Louis Gerlinger, Mrs. May, Mrs. W. A. Hathaway, Mrs. P. I. Packard, Mrs. John Haak, Mrs. C. W. Sherman, Mrs. F. S. Belcher, Miss Morse and Miss Packard.

Mrs. Harrison Corbett entertained informally Friday afternoon in compliment to Mrs. Howard Corbett and Miss Max Corbett of Brooklyn, recent comers to Portland. Harrison Corbett is a brother of Miss Corbett and Howard Corbett. Miss Corbett has proved a most popular guest since her arrival about a fortnight since. As she is in mourning for her mother she is not yet going out much but a number of informal things have been done for her. Only relatives and a few immediate friends were asked in by Mrs. Corbett and she was assisted by Miss Kathleen Burns, Miss Gladys Weidler, Miss Latta and her own sister, Miss Aveline Webster, of New York, who is making a prolonged visit here.

The Irvington club championship tennis tournament will open at the club tomorrow and even though only members are admitted to play there is a good deal of interest taken in the tournament and there will doubtless be a good many visitors. The Multnomah club tournament, which closed yesterday has held the attention for the past two weeks.

R. S. Josselyn left yesterday for St. Louis with his young daughter, Mildred, and his son, Benage Josselyn Jr. The two children will enter the Principia school there, an exclusive school with a severe course and military instruction for boys. Miss Mildred is entering upon her second year there and the elder daughter was graduated in June. Mr. Josselyn will go on to New York. The past week Mr. and Mrs. Howard of St. Louis, who has been at the Portland hotel, have been entertained a good deal by the Josselyns. Mr. Howard is president of the Commonwealth Steel company of St. Louis and was here attending the master mechanics' convention. The Howards and the Josselyns are old friends from St. Louis and enjoyed many reminiscences together.

Mrs. Warren E. Thomas expects to leave Wednesday for New York to place her daughter, Miss Jeanette Thomas, in school at Ossining-on-the-Hudson. She will remain in the city for several weeks to attend the opera after the season opens in November and expects to hear a number of good concerts. Mrs. Thomas is one of the most discriminating musicians of Portland, who leads in all things musical. Her acquaintance with musical celebrities is large and she will renew a number of friendships on her visit.

★ ★

Miss Wynn Coman, who has been gone for a fortnight on concert business, is expected home today to begin arrangements for the first concert of the Steers-Coman series, Wednesday, October 7, to be given by the Metropolitan Opera quartet—Madame Rappold, Madame Jacoby, Riccardo Martin and Guiseppe Campanari. Miss Steers is recovering rapidly from her accident and will soon be able to be out again.

★ ★

Mrs. Alma D. Katz and Mrs. Everett Ames entertained informally at bridge Wednesday afternoon with about five tables. Mrs. Ames is making a short visit in Salem and will return tomorrow to prepare for an extended trip through California in October.

★ ★

Jay S. Hamilton, president of the Irvington club, has just returned from a months' trip to California. Plans will soon be set on foot for the winter's affairs at the club. The usual at homes for the members will be given and the annual series of larger subscription dances for the friends of the club will be repeated.

★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine R. Smith and their family have returned from their pretty cottage at Seaside, where they have entertained their friends extensively throughout the summer. They have moved into their new house at Fifteenth and Halsey streets in Irvington.

★ ★

Mrs. C. E. S. Wood, Mrs. David T. Honeyman, Miss Josephine Smith, Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Alice Howe and Miss Margaret Walter were guests at tea of the Puglia officers Tuesday.

★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Fleischner and Miss Flora Fleischner plan to leave for New York in November, there to spend a few weeks before going to Europe on an extended visit. In Italy they will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Sol Blumauer and their daughter, Miss Hazel Blumauer, who plan to leave Portland at the same time, but will spend the Christmas holidays in New York. Miss Fleischner is an accomplished singer and may put in some time in study while abroad.

★ ★

A good deal of regret is expressed over the announcement that the W. J. Burns family will soon remove to San Francisco to make their home. For many years the Burns family has led in society and the daughters of the family, of whom there are several, have been among the most popular of the younger set. Mrs. Burns will sail from England early in the month to join Mr. Burns here and the removal will soon after be effected it is understood.

★ ★

Miss Helen Spalding's Wednesday afternoon reception at the First Unitarian church parlors brought out a large number of her friends to give greeting to the president of the Women's Alliance of that church. Bright autumn asters and various greeneries gave their charm and beautiful roses added the touch of the departing summer. The occasion was much enjoyed.

★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. R. LaBarre Goodwin and Miss Goodwin are planning to leave soon for Europe, where Mr. Goodwin will put in his time in further study and work. They expect to leave early in October and will visit Miss Goodwin's brother in Chicago briefly and thence will go to Florida to remain till they sail about January or February. After that their plans are indefinite and they may remain abroad for several years. Prior to his departure Mr. Goodwin will give an exhibition of his work in his studio in the Commercial building. The famous, Roosevelt door will be displayed along with a number of Mr. Goodwin's landscapes around Portland, and his studies of game and fish. Mrs. Goodwin's still life studies, too, will be on display.

★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett have arrived from Europe and are visiting Mrs. Corbett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt in New York. They are expected home in the near future and some elaborate entertaining is being planned for the bride.

★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Webster Talbot and their little daughter, Jane, and their sister, Miss Geraldine Talbot, will leave next Sunday on a visit to New York. Miss Talbot has become popular during her visit here.
