SOCIETY

THE past week has not been one full of entertaining, for outside events have taken up most of the time and attention. The country club has been the objective point of many automobile parties and the great interest that has been manifested in the races and the livestock show has been an encouragement to the management. Every day the grandstand has been well filled and carriages and machines have lent variety to the scene.

The tennis tournament at Irvington has called out a number of enthusiasts. By the end of the week so much attention had been given to out-of-door events that the Buffalo Bill Wild West show seemed a fitting climax. Many merry parties attended.

The theatres have had their share of attention, too, the past week. The opening of the Heilig season was welcomed gladly. This week "Comin Thro' the Rye" will attract a crowd. The Salome dance which is the feature of the musical comedy this year is attracting a good deal of comment. The Seattle papers put at rest the fears of many whose fondness for comic opera vied with their natural modesty. The critics there speak most highly of Miss Taylor's dancing and declare it the acme of art with no suggestion of vulgarity or immodesty. Mrs. Summers terms her a "silver moonbeam in the night," and compliments her on the taste and modesty shown in her costume. So, doubtless the first night audience will be as fashionable as ever.

Easily the largest and most fashionable function of the week was the wedding of Miss Miriam Strong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson Strong, and Harry Stinson Sladen, son of Captain and Mrs. J. A. Sladen, Wednesday evening at the First Presbyterian church. The church was filled with a handsomely gowned audience representing the best known families in town. Dr. William Hiram Foulkes read the marriage service from a prayer book carried by the bride.

The bride made a beautiful picture in a wedding gown of white liberty satin trimmed with old duchess lace and pearl trimming. The new sheath cut showed most becomingly her slender, graceful figure. A long veil completely enveloped her and it was secured with a wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of Bride roses with streamers of white tulle. The maid of honor, Miss Rhoda Failing, wore a handsome gown of white dotted silk net made over white satin and trimmed with heavy folds of satin. Her flowers were Bride roses tied with pink tulle. The two bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Burns and Miss Effie Houghton, who were gowned alike in white dotted net over pink peau de cygne cut empire, with folds of the pink decorating the bodice and the skirt effectively. They too, carried pink roses with pink tulle. The best man was Dr. E. C. Sewall of San Francisco, who was a classmate of Mr. Sladen at Stanford. The ushers were Harold Strong, Roderick Macleay, Bert Mackay, Walter Beebe, Chester Murphy and Arno Rothwell.

An informal reception followed at the Strong home on Seventeenth street, with only the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends as guests. The rooms were decorated with tinted Virginia creeper and pink roses. The bride gave her bouquet to her cousin, Miss Alice Strong, whose illness made it impossible for her to be of the bridal party as originally intended but who was able to be at the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Sladen went out to Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett's picturesque summer home at Rivera which was turned over to them and the next day they left for a short wedding trip. On their return they will make their home temporarily with Captain and Mrs. Sladen.

The bride is one of the most charming and popular members of the younger set. She is a graduate of Bryn Mawr and is connected with most of the prominent old families of Portland—the Ladds, the Corbetts, the Failings, the Curtis Strongs, the Deadys and the Catlins. Her sisters are Mrs. James G. Wilson of this city and Mrs. Walter A. Bethel, wife of Major Bethel at the Presidio at San Francisco. Mrs. Bethel was unable to come up for the wedding because her tiny baby could not take the trip. Mr. Sladen is a Stanford man and a Zeta Psi. His father is a retired army officer, his brother Fred is a captain in the army and his sister is Mrs. Bradley, wife of Captain Bradley of Vancouver barracks. Another brother, Dr. Frank J. Sladen is at Johns Hopkins, where he has won signal honors.

Miss Florence Wolfe entertained at bridge last Thursday afternoon in compliment to the Misses Nellie and Daisy Rosener of San Francisco, who leave next Wednesday for their home. These guests have been much entertained during their visit with their aunt, Mrs. Sol Rosenfeld. The following were Miss Wolfe's guests: The Misses Ella, Mai and Clementine Hirsch, the Misses Ruby, Hilda and Frances and Miriam Jacobs, Miss Flora Fleischner, Miss Florence Kohn, Miss Selma Cohn, Miss Steinhardt of San Francisco, Miss Amy Seller, Miss Mae Oppenheimer, Miss Gertrude White, Miss Enid Rothchild, Miss Helen Coblentz, Miss Mildred Meyer, Miss Henryetta Lauer, Miss Helen Rosenfeld and Mrs. Julius Meier.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Robertson, Miss Nan Robertson and Mary, Jack and David Robertson returned Friday morning from a delightful trip around the world. They left a year ago by way of the orient and passed some time in Japan and China, thence going to India, Egypt and up into Europe. Sailing across, they landed at Montreal and did eastern Canada before returning to the states. They have spent a few weeks east visiting the larger cities. The Robertsons are prominent members of society and will be welcomed back gladly. Two years ago the son Tom Robertson with George Warren went on a similar trip, returning just before the rest of the family left.

Miss Frances Lillian French of Albany and Richard Watson Williams were married quietly with a pretty home ceremony in Albany, Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Rev. Mr. White of the Presbyterian church officiated. About 50 relatives and immediate friends attended. Mr. and Mrs. Williams came to Portland to visit with the bridegroom's parents, Major and Mrs. George Williams at 405 West Park for a few days. Yesterday Mrs. Williams Sr. received informally in their honor. They leave tomorrow for Paso Wash., to spend the winter. The bride is a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families of Albany. Mr. Williams' family is well known in Portland. The bride's sister, Miss Eva French, came down yesterday to visit with the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Fletcher Gaddis.

The women of the Happy Hour club, a card club that has been in existence for four years, met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Charles L. Boss at the home of her mother, Mrs. B. F. Weaver, to make plans for the year's work. New members were voted in and after a pleasant afternoon of cards refreshments were served. The members of the club which meets in the evenings are Mr. and Mrs. James P. Moffett, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe R. Giltner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. William Kapus, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Branch, Mr. and Mrs. William Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Emery, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Fleckenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Frem, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Boss, Mr. and Mrs. Nibley and Mr. and Mrs. H. Tenney.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Hendricks of Eugene have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruby Villard Hendricks, to Ray Goodrich. The wedding will take place October 21. Both Miss Hendricks and Mr. Goodrich have many friends in town who are interested in the announcement. Miss Hendricks is the youngest daughter of Mr. Hendricks, president of the First National bank there, and one of the wealthiest men in the college town. His name was recently brought into prominence by his donation of a large tract of land to the city of Eugene to use for city park purposes. Miss Hendricks is most popular in Eugene society, is a graduate of the University of Oregon, and is an accomplished musician. She has recently returned from an extended trip east. Her sister, Miss Ada Hendricks, was married about a year and a half ago to Richard Shore Smith of Klamath Falls, the famous football player of Columbia university, New York. Mr. Goodrich belongs to a prominent family of Yamhill county and distinguished himself on the football team of the University of Oregon, of which he was captain in his senior year. He is a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity.

Several of the Portland young people went over to the barracks for the officers' dance Friday evening given in compliment to Colonel McGunnegle. It was one of the prettiest of the delightful dances given at the garrison. Among the Portland guests were Miss Hazel Dolph and Mr. and Mrs. David C. Lewis, who were guests of Colonel and Mrs. Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Alvord, Miss Leslie Knapp, Miss Maida Hart, Miss Dorothy Morrison and the Tom Sharps.

★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sewall entertained with a beautiful dinner at the Portland Monday evening in compliment to Miss Miriam Strong and her finance, Mr. Sladen. Besides the bridal party, four other girls were invited. The table was beautiful with deep yellow coreopsis in the center and yellow tulle tied in soft knots. At each place was a white bridal slipper filled with bonbons. Covers were laid for 18—Mr. and Mrs. Sewall, Miss Strong, Miss Rhoda Failing, Miss Kathleen Burns, Miss Effie Houghton, Miss Hazel Dolph, Miss Inez Barrett, Miss Amy Heitshu, Miss Frances Wilson, Harry Sladen, Dr. E. C. Sewall, Chester Murphy, Roderick Macleay, Bert Mackay, Walter Beebe, Arno Rothwell and Harold Strong.

★ ★

Miss Helen Rosenfeld entertained with a pretty bridge party Wednesday afternoon in compliment to Miss Mabel Wood, the fiancee of Clifford Marshall, whose engagement was recently announced. There were three tables of bridge and Miss Rosenfeld's guests were Miss Wood, Miss Florence Wolfe, Miss Flora Fleischner, Miss Henryette Lauer, Miss Anne Shea, Miss Leila Guthrie, Miss Nina Guthrie, Miss Evelyn Rigler, Miss Vivian Marshall, Mrs. I. N. Lipman, Mr. and Mrs. Norris B. Gregg.

A number of prominent people were thrown into mourning last week by the death of George W. Weidler who for three years has been confined to his home by paralysis. The Weidlers are among the old families of Portland who have continued to hold a place of prominence as the city grew. The daughters of the family are prominent in the younger set. Miss Gladys Weidler was the only one at the home at the time of the death. Miss Claire Weidler left a fortnight before to enter school at Burnham, preparatory to Smith. Miss Leslie and Miss Hazel Weidler left last February on a trip abroad and are still in Europe.

San Mateo, Cal., is becoming a most popular and fashionable resort and the San Francisco Call pays tribute to it as becoming a retreat for many fashionable people. The Call says that many who went there first for the summer have taken houses and will remain through the winter. Among the latest additions to the population it mentions the Benjamin Lombards of Portland, who have taken the George Cameron home in El Cerrito for a year. Several prominent families from San Francisco are joining the fashionable colony in the interesting little town.

★ ★

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Glesy and Paul Glesy returned Wednesday from a three months' delightful trip through the south seas. Their objective point was Australia and they visited en route at Honolulu, the Fiji Isles, and Brisbane. Returning they took in New Zealand, the Friendly Islands and several others of the South Sea Islands. They came home by way of Vancouver, B. C. Paul Glesy left at once for Stanford to continue his work there.

★ ★

Her friends are glad to remark that Miss Lois Steers, who suffered from a railroad wreck some weeks ago, is so much better that she is now able to be out and occasionally is allowed in her office. Miss Steers and Miss Coman, by the way, have just opened offices in the Columbia building because their interesting den at the Coman home where they transacted the business in connection with their concerts became too small.

★ ★

At Mrs. Howe's country home, at Hood River, a number of Portland people have been enjoying these lovely September days. Among those who have recently returned are Mrs. John Shepard, Mrs. Theodore Wygant, Miss Wygant, Mrs. Samuel Heitshu, Miss Amy Heitschu, Mrs. Anna Thompson, Mrs. H. C. Allen and Mrs. Rozel Wilbur.

★ ★

Miss Fanchon Davis of San Francisco is visiting her cousin, Miss Hazel Blumauer, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Blumauer. She expects to remain till early in October. Miss Blumauer's young friends have entertained a great deal for her guest with automobile parties, luncheons and dinners and Miss Davis is proving a popular visitor.

★ ★
