

WORLD'S BEST WOOD CHOPPER

Vermonters Chops and Piles
Five Cords Twixt Suns,
With Time to Spare.

Windsor, Vt., Sept. 26.—Edward Moot of Weathersfield, this state, proved himself the world's champion woodchopper today, when, in the presence of railroad presidents, lumber kings and millionaire New Yorkers, he chopped down five cords of wood that had been standing trees, put them into stove lengths and piled them into regulation piles, between sunrise and sunset, and with an hour and a half to spare.

At the end of the unprecedented feat, several thousand dollars was paid to Maxwell Everts, who had backed Moot's prowess with the ax against half a dozen cynics. The names of the losers were not given out, but it is understood that among them were L. P. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson railroad, and L. A. Coolidge, assistant United States treasurer.

At 10 a. m. Moot had cut down 18 trees, ranging in length from 60 to 70 feet and from 9 to 14 inches in diameter at the base, and had chopped and split three and a half cords. He said then that his muscles were as good as when he began. He believed that the five cords could be chopped at 2 p. m. During the morning Moot's progress was watched by about 150 persons. At 2:30 p. m. Moot had finished chopping and splitting the stipulated five cords of wood and had piled one third of it.

HISGEN JOSHES HIS OPPONENTS

Hearst's Man Taunts Old Parties on Their Housecleaning Stunts.

(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.)
Kansas City, Sept. 25.—At an enthusiastic political meeting held in this city tonight, Thomas L. Hisgen, independence party candidate for president, flayed both the Republican and Democratic parties as being controlled by the trusts and argued that there was vital need of a new party to stand for the interests of the people. Before the meeting a reception was tendered to Mr. Hisgen at the Hotel Baltimore. The candidate and his party left tonight for Salt Lake City.

In his speech Hisgen called upon William Jennings Bryan to repudiate his Haskell-made platform if he was sincere in his friendship for the people and his enmity toward the trusts. Hisgen charged that Bryan knew all about Haskell before he let him engineer the Democratic platform at Denver, or that he willfully closed his ears to the facts because he wanted that kind of a man to help him reach the presidency.

"Since the beginning of the independence party campaign, Mr. Hearst, myself and the other speakers have been trying to impress upon the minds of the people that there is an urgent demand for a new party," said Hisgen. "We have advocated this contention because of the fact that the two other parties have fallen under the control of the same power—the corporate wealth of the country."

Foraker and Dupont Bounced.
"But members of the old parties who were reluctant to desert the ranks of the organization in which they had marched so long, intimated that they were all Missourians and wanted us to show them."

"The independence party, through its speakers, charged the Republican party with having put at the head of its speaking bureau, R. C. Dupont, one of the owners of the powder trust, which the government is now fighting. Dupont did not, of course, attempt to deny this, and today you may read of his resignation in the newspapers as a conspicuous figure in the Taft campaign."

"So much for the Republican party at this time. We charged that it is being run by the trusts and we claim we have made good the charge."

Haskell's Turn Next.
"We made the same charge against the Democratic party, and showed that C. N. Haskell, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, was connected with the Standard Oil company as one of the powerful political friends of this great corporation."

"H and Bryan rushed to the support of his friend. Today you may read of Haskell's resignation. And his resignation is occasioned, because he hung on just as long as he could without being kicked out by the decent Democrats who still believe they can reconstruct the old party."

"The only difference that I can see between the two old parties and the new one is that the Democrats give up harder than the Republicans."

OFFICIAL CHANGES ON THE ESPEE
