

COLORADO GROUNDED TWICE AT DUNGENESS

Docking of Cruiser at Bremerton Develops That Hearst and United Press Had Exclusive Story Which Other Papers Denied.

Some months ago The Journal told of the grounding of the cruiser Colorado. Some northwest newspapers declared that the vessel had not struck the Dungeness straits, as reported, and then proceeded to belittle the Hearst and United Press reports of the mishap. Some papers being reliant upon only one Sunday morning news service, they had a one-sided report.

The Seattle Times, which has been making an investigation of the two accidents to the hooded cruiser, has received the following report from the Bremerton navy yard:

Puget Sound Navy Yard, Saturday, Sept. 26.—The recent docking of the cruiser Colorado has disclosed the fact that the Times was right when it reported several weeks ago that the ship had gone ashore on Dungeness spit, on her initial entry into the sound, which report was vigorously denied by officers of the ship subsequently.

When the water was drawn out of the drydock and the bottom of the cruiser examined pending the repairs just completed, for hitting on Point Lip Lip, it was found that the paint had been badly scraped from the bottom and the keel which were so badly corroded that the damage could not possibly have been of recent origin, but must have been several months old.

In addition to this, the story is just leaking out that some of the ship's crew told intimate friends that the Colorado did go ashore hard and fast in the sand for several hours. It is also recalled that the Colorado did not arrive at this yard until several hours after the Pennsylvania, which entered the strait with the Colorado.

There is much criticism at the navy yard concerning the account printed in a Seattle morning paper that the first part of the week when the Colorado hit on port on being taken out of drydock, it reflected on the character of work done at this yard, as the account stated that the tipping was due to the faulty re-planting of injured plates.

Investigation proved that the blame was entirely with the officers of the ship, for someone is responsible for having allowed all the coal and stores to be removed from the starboard side and then floating the ship in that condition. The shift was made to facilitate the repairs on the injured side of the ship.

On being undocked the water raised the vessel from the keel blocks and it listed five degrees. Despite the slant, there was no danger of the ship careening. By readjusting the coal and stores, it was righted readily. The listing of the ship will probably be reported to the department at Washington and someone will be called to account, for it is considered a serious offense to allow a ship to be floated in such a condition.

The Colorado sailed for San Francisco Thursday, where it will remain several days, during which the formal presentation of a silver service from the Centennial state will be made. Thereafter the cruiser will rejoin the Pacific fleet, from which it was detached at the time of the grounding on Point Lip Lip.

COMPLAINS AGAINST SWITCHING CHARGES

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Sept. 29.—L. Galbraith of this city has entered a complaint with the railroad commission charging the Southern Pacific with bad faith in regard to the shipment of five horses, comprising both exhibition and racing stock, to the Pacific National show at Portland last week. Mr. Galbraith entered his stock under an agreement that he was to pay no switching charges from the union depot to the Country club and that he was to pay freight on the stock only one way. He was charged with $10 switching charges to the Country club and $22.40 freight for returning the stock to Salem, which he regards excessive.

CALIFORNIANS BOOST SEATTLE'S BIG FAIR

"Gentlemen, these are the men who have made California." This is what Tom Richardson said yesterday in introducing J. A. Filcher of Sacramento and Frank Wiggins of Los Angeles, secretary of the chamber of commerce in that city. The two men compose the state fair commission of California and are on their way to Seattle. They were guests of the commercial club at luncheon.

Mr. Filcher and Mr. Wiggins have been attending fairs and expositions and looking after the California exhibits ever since the idea was originated.

"The people of the other parts of the world are not aware of the progress the west is making," said Richardson, "and the liberal arts during the last few years and we are going to make a special exhibit of this work in Seattle next year."

Mr. Filcher said this afternoon, "A separate building will probably be set aside for the fine arts display and in the main building much space—more than at any of the other fairs—will be given over to the exhibit of the wonderful work that can be done in the liberal art line in California. Several of our jewelers are noted for their work, which is as fine as any other in the world. Much of this will be shown."

California appropriated $100,000 for the Seattle fair exhibit in the legislature two years ago.

Mr. Filcher and Mr. Wiggins have been attending fairs and world's fairs for more than 15 years. They go to Seattle tonight.

HALL CROWDED AT BRYAN MEETING

Enthusiastic admirers of the platform and policies of William Jennings Bryan gathered at Union hall last night to hear those principles discussed by the speaker Thomas O'Day and John H. Stevenson.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Sellwood Bryan and Kern club and was attended by a full hall of voters who applauded the mention of Mr. Bryan, shouted for the injunction plank in the platform, and howled in support of the bank guarantee plan proposed by Mr. Bryan and explained by Judge O'Day.

Judge O'Day in his address touched briefly upon the many issues which are uppermost in the present campaign. He treated the trust question, the financial outlook and need of financial reform and the bank guarantee plan. The latter was evidently acceptable to the audience judging from the enthusiastic manner in which the discussion was received.

The speaker also contrasted the work and record of Taft with that of Bryan, showing by his argument where it lay to the interest of the voters of the country to support the latter president.

Mr. Stevenson also discussed the issues of the campaign setting out in his argument the fact that the principles of the Bryan platform were nearer to the interests of the masses of the people throughout the country than those advocated by Mr. Taft. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and others are being planned by the club to be held on different occasions during the remainder of the campaign.

REFUSE TO PAY BUILDING FEE

Judiciary Committee Says No to Architect's Claim for Plans.

On recommendation of the judiciary committee of the board of education the board at a meeting yesterday afternoon refused to grant the claim of Kable & Kable, architects, for $12,800 as a per cent commission for the drawing of the plans of the new Alhambra high school. The building will cost $250,000.

Stevenson, Paulson & Meyers were awarded the contract for plumbing the Shattuck school. The board made arrangements to install patrol fire extinguishers in all school-houses not close to fire stations. An additional teacher was decided upon for the new trades school.

Following is the report of the committee with regard to the architect's claims:

The undersigned members of your committee on judiciary to whom was referred the communication and claim of Kable & Kable, arising out of the proposals of plans for the new high school, respectfully report that we have given the matter careful consideration and recommend that said claim of Kable & Kable be not allowed for the following reasons, among others:

First—Because the jury selected by the board of education did not agree upon any recommendation that we have given consisted of W. Marbury Somervell was not agreed to by Mr. Rigler.

Second—The word "accept" as used in the published program does not necessarily mean "adopt," as assumed by the claimants, but would undoubtedly be construed in this instance as synonymous of the word "receive."

Third—The power to build school-houses and determine the site and arrangement of the same is a power vested exclusively in the directors by the laws of the state of Oregon, and requires the exercise of judgment and discretion. This power, in our opinion, could not be delegated, and if the board of directors had intended or desired to do so, it would confer the power on some other person or persons it would have been unable to do so.
