The Portland Railway, Light & Power company has filed an answer to the suit of R. S. Hurd, who charged that a conductor employed by the corporation beat him on the head with a ticket punch in a Morrison street car July 7. The company alleges that it should not pay $5,000 damages, as Hurd attempted to trip up the conductor and used profane language toward him, abusing the conductor to such an extent that he was forced to strike him.

A wagon belonging to C. J. Cook was demolished, the horses were both somewhat cut up and the driver was so badly bruised that it was necessary to take him to the hospital, when a trailer loaded with slabs and drawn by a large electric motor struck the switch at Grand avenue and Stark street at 3:35 yesterday afternoon. Mortimer J. Jones Morgan was in charge of the train. The rear truck of the last car took the switch and struck the dump cart.

Reformed Woman Is Sent to Jail Because of Her History.

The theory and promise of the reformers that the women of the north end, after being driven out of their places of abode, can go to work at some honest occupation and become respectable received a severe jolt in the police court this morning, when Alice Gray received a sentence of 15 days, chiefly, it appears, on account of her admission on the witness stand that she used to live in a house of ill fame. She claimed, however, and her statement was not challenged, even by the witnesses against her, that for some time she has been earning her living honestly by doing housework.

Alice Gray was arrested last night, in company with a man named Harry Crattie and a young girl named Jenave Wallings, in a saloon run by J. Wind at the corner of East Third and East Burnside streets. Crattie was charged with taking a minor girl into a saloon, the Wallings girl being only 18 years old. The cases against Crattie and Jenave Wallings went over until tomorrow, but Alice Gray was given 15 days, just on general principles, for admitting that she used to be a scarlet woman, but claiming that for some time she has been doing housework for a living. The judge also advised her to leave town when she got out, and she said that if that was the way she was going to be treated, she would not be the best thing she could do.

Incidentally, Wind, the saloonkeeper who allowed the women in his place, was not arrested. Officer Sherwood, who arrested the others, stated that Wind barricaded himself in the saloon and refused to open the door, so he was not placed under arrest.

ENGINES FOR TILLAMOOK ROAD

Harriman Officials Inspecting Work Done on New Line to Sea.

While two locomotives are being loaded on a barge here for shipment to Tillamook bay, prominent officials of the Harriman system are going over the work recently done on the Pacific Railway & Navigation company's line to the sea and ordering construction rushed during the present fine weather.

J. H. O'Brien, manager of the Harriman lines in Oregon, E. E. Lytle, president of the Pacific Railway & Navigation company; George L. Davis, chief engineer of the Lytle company, and R. B. Miller, purchasing agent of the Harriman lines, left Portland Wednesday for Tillamook, making the trip overland in a motor car.

The construction work on the Tillamook road is now being pushed with all possible speed. The Portland Bridge & Building company, which has the contract for the Tillamook end of the line, reports that it needs more teamsters.

Two teams shovel crews are at work between Bay City and Tillamook and two bridge crews are also on this section of the road.

The barge Nehalem is at the Albina dock today, being loaded with two locomotives, several cars and sufficient supplies to keep several construction crews busy all winter.
