Ex-Army Officer Appears in Court and Watches Closely the Selection of the Men Who Will Decide Whether or Not He Killed Nathan Wolff

Jurors Accepted for the Trial of Edward H. Martin. Henry L. Carl, 64 years of age, lives at 105 East Thirtieth street. Is a gardener, has a family, is a native of Iowa, and has lived in Oregon seven years.

H. F. Taylor was the first name called. He had served as a policeman for 12 years, was a deputy juror at the courthouse for four years. He said that he knew of no reason why he could not try Martin fairly, but was excused peremptorily by the defense.

After more than three hours spent in examining takersmen this morning, only four jurors were accepted and sworn to try Edward H. Martin, indicted on the charge of homicide, which pointed to him as the murderer of Nathan Wolff.

Edward Martin, on trial for the murder of Nathan Wolff, in the latter's pawnshop on the night of May 1. Martin, looking somewhat pale from his long confinement, but fresh in spirit and military in bearing, sat in the courtroom all morning, and closely watched the work of securing a jury.

Another peremptory challenge by the defense was used on H. Bruck, a shoe merchant. He had never served on a jury and the examining jury when he was called had particular leanings either way.

John Dennis, a juror who felt toward him as he did toward Martin. Peremptory challenge by the defense. Mrs. H. Dennis was challenged by the state and excused peremptorily after an effort to lose him by a challenge for cause. The defense then offered a strong prejudice against Martin from his reading of the newspapers. Challenged for cause and excused.

Three women were in the courtroom this morning. A crowd of the curious began to surge in soon after the trial was called. Deputy Sheriff Betty, called in as a witness to clear the room of all who could not obtain seats. This rule limits the number who will be able to listen to the testimony to few, if any, more than 100.

Shute, a retired farmer, received a full charge of buckshot in the back yesterday and fears are entertained for his recovery. Ray Taylor had just returned from a shooting trip after pheasants and was pumping the shells out of a shotgun. Taylor was standing in a crypt of the Hotel Tualatin discharging the cartridges, when one exploded, the charge passing 70 feet across the street and striking two bystanders.

How Is Your Blood? If you lack strength, are nervous, have no appetite, don't sleep well, get tired easily, your blood is in bad condition. You cannot be strong without pure, rich blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes good, rich blood and keeps it good.

Washington, Oct. 4.—William F. Stewart today said that the army will present to the members of the army retiring board testimony to show that he was at no time detached from active service in the New Mexico campaign because of heart trouble.
