The feast of Saint Michael will be celebrated with extraordinary solemnity at the Italian church Sunday, October 11. The church will be decorated for the occasion. At the solemn high mass celebrated with three priests at 10 a. m., the Italian consul will be present. The panegyric of the saint will be delivered by the pastor. The ceremony will doubtless be even more impressive than the service held a few weeks ago when the sailors together with the officers and captain of the Italian cruiser Puglia assisted at the high mass.

WHOLE FAMILY THANKFUL

Urges That Those Who Suffer With Indigestion and Stomach Disorders Give Prescription a Trial.

Gentlemen—Thank you; I thank you time and again each day for publishing the prescription of the great Battle Creek specialist on stomach disorders. We, in our family, are great pie and cake eaters, and, naturally, I guess, we are, or have been, "all dyspeptics," more or less. My family consists of husband, two daughters and a son. Scarcely a day passed but some of us were ill with headache, stomach distress after eating, biliousness, irritability, etc., and I frequently with heart trouble due to wind and gas on stomach. From a "family of blues" we've been changed to a "family of 'pinks,'" as we are all in the pink of health and eat more than ever. We got the prescription filled several times. For the benefit of others I want to give this simtwo ounces syrup of Ginger, two ounces essence of Pepsin mixed. Then get in separate package one ounce Comp. essence Cardiol, and mix with the other two ingredients. Shake well and take one or two teaspoonfuls after each meal. One before eating will excite a good appetite. This will digest anything you eat and give strength and health. Hoping this will be published and do much good, I am, respectfully,

MRS. A. K. McP.

BOXES BARRED IN RESTAURANTS

Big Grilles Are Feeling the Force of Liquor-to-Women Ordinance Already.

The new ordinance relative to allowing women in places where liquor is sold is to be enforced strictly and without discrimination, according to a statement made by Chief of Police Gritzmacher this morning. And the boxes must go. This applies not only to the little hole around the corner, but to Richards, the Quelle, the Louvre and the other more pretentious places.

Already the large eating and drinking resorts have been notified that they must tear down their boxes and some of them have already begun to do so. But where a restaurant has 400 square feet of floor space which is all one room, with no intervening screens, partitions, high-backed chairs or other obstructions to the view which might prevent a diner in any part of the room from seeing every other part of the room, women will be allowed to dine, even though there is a bar in connection with the restaurant. This is the interpretation of the law which Chief Gritzmacher passes on to his police captains, and the officers on the beats are to be accordingly instructed.

The ordinance is partially in force already. That is, orders have been issued to arrest the proprietors of the smaller places if they serve liquor to women. The larger places, where extensive changes in the construction of the interior of the dining-rooms are necessary to make them comply with the provisions of the law, have been given a few days of grace before the lid is closed down on them.

And the cheese and cracker racket doesn't go. The chief instructs his subordinates that the law defines what shall constitute a meal, and that it does not include cheese and crackers, sandwiches or soup. A meal must be a real meal—knives and forks, napkins, plates, hot food and all that. Fingerbowls are not an essential, however.

Three people were arrested last night under the new ordinance. Patrolman Hyde, one of the moral squad, found Netta Frank and La Belle Green, two women of the underworld drinking in the Circuit cafe, on Stark street between Fourth and Fifth streets, and arrested them, and also Ben Miles, proprietor of the place. Miles was released last night on depositing $200 cash bail. He also put up $20 bail for each of the women.

BLOCH'S WALLET CASE IN CIRCUIT COURT

The Mose M. Bloch pocketbook affair has now reached the circuit court in the form of a suit by Mrs. Katherine MacFarlane to compel Broker Bloch to pay her the $100 reward that he advertised to pay for the return of his lost treasure. Some time ago Mrs. MacFarlane was arrested and tried in the municipal court on a charge of stealing the pocketbook, and was discharged.

Mrs. MacFarlane, in her complaint, says that after she found the pocketbook she watched the lost and found columns in the newspapers until she saw the offer of $100 reward. She says that when she offered to return the article Bloch was willing to pay only $25. She refused to accept this, but surrendered the pocketbook.

The pocketbook was lost July 21 and contained a number of notes, checks and receipts. Bloch has asserted that the finder was trying to "hold him up" for a large reward, and he finally published the offer in order to discover who had the property.

FRIAVLO AND HIS BIG MILK-CAN ACT

Sullivan & Considine have secured as an extra attraction for the Grand this week, Friavlo, and his death-defying milk-can mystery. Friavlo opens his special engagement at the Grand this afternoon and will appear every afternoon and night until Sunday evening, Sunday being included.

Friavlo submits to being placed in a large milk can, which is filled to the brim with water. Once he is placed in the can, and the water is over his head, Friavlo is locked into the can with padlocks. It appears impossible for him to escape and it appears almost certain that he will be drowned in a few minutes. In due time, however, Friavlo makes his escape, wet and exhausted, but very much alive.
