

REALTY DEALERS INVADE GRESHAM AND SEE THE SIGHTS OF THE FAIR

Interior of Main Building at Gresham Fair.

The closing day of the Gresham grand fair was taken advantage of yesterday by about 50 members of the Portland Realty board, as the occasion for a visit to the thriving little city in the eastern part of Multnomah county. The party numbered about 150 and consisted of realty dealers and their families, who left First and Alder streets at 1:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, arriving at Gresham an hour later. At the fair grounds they were met by the mayor and officials of the fair, escorted through the main building and afforded an opportunity to see the splendid agricultural possibilities of the rich and fertile district tributary to Gresham.

While not a continuation of the Saturday afternoon excursions inaugurated last summer by the Realty board and which proved to be both pleasant and profitable, the trip to Gresham was thoroughly enjoyed by those fortunate enough to go. Leaving Gresham at 4:30 the party reached the city at 6 o'clock.

Season Tickets to Country Club Show Being Given to Employes as Christmas Cards—Results of Canvass

Christmas presents of season tickets to the races and a room-to-room canvass of the large office buildings are some of the unique measures for selling the tickets for the Country club guarantee fund that were talked of at the meeting of committees yesterday afternoon.

It was announced that in all 1,526 tickets have been disposed of in the first week's campaign, which under all circumstances is considered a remarkably good record. Owing to the inability of many business men on the committees to devote much of their time to the work of canvassing for tickets it was suggested at the meeting that several paid canvassers be secured to visit the merchants. This plan was taken under advisement by the committees but it was not decided to do anything along that line until this week.

Reports from the following heads of committees were received yesterday showing new subscriptions that had been gathered in: Dr. Byron E. Miller, physicians, 21; Chairman Lohmire, blacksmiths, 15; E. L. Thompson, insurance men, 15; G. M. Brown, stockyards, 10. There were 10 miscellaneous. In addition to these The Journal received letters from J. B. Smithers, 711 Sacramento street, subscribing for 10 tickets, and Charles E. West, 50 Front street, subscribing for five tickets.

This week it is proposed to send a number of tickets to each of the office buildings and have someone in the building canvass each office for subscriptions. The Christmas card idea is for business men to buy the tickets for a number of their employes and have them made out in the form of Christmas cards, thus giving their men free tickets to the week's races next fall.

Adler May Go Free.
Adolph Adler, alleged to have attempted to extort $100 from Sig Sichel on a threat to do him bodily harm, and already indicted by one grand jury, may escape trial and go free. The indictment against him was quashed by Judge Morrow yesterday morning after Adler's attorney had spent almost the entire morning arguing that the indictment was defective.

SIDELINE STORIES OF GREAT NORTHWEST

STOCK PENS AT TANGENT

Second Attempt Is Made to Secure Facilities.
(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Oct. 10.—A second attempt to secure stock pens at Tangent through the railroad commission has been made by J. E. Jenks. Mr. Jenks shows that from 10 to 15 carloads of stock are shipped from the vicinity of Tangent and Shedd's each year in retaliation of the claim of General Manager O'Brien of the Southern Pacific, who says that not enough stock is shipped from the vicinity to make it worth while to establish stock pens at that point.

DOUGLAS' FINE APPLES

Record Price Realized on Umpqua River Product.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Roseburg, Or., Oct. 10.—James R. Smith of Winston, residing on the Umpqua river, five miles south of this city, sold his enormous crop of apples for $2,400 an acre in the orchard, a rate of $2 per box. This is believed to be the highest price paid for apples anywhere. There are several more orchards in this county that have record-breaking crops this year, and when marketed will bring almost as high a price as this orchard.

ELKS' GRAND BALL

La Grande Antlered Tribe Will Dedicate New Hall.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
La Grande, Or., Oct. 10.—The Elks lodge of this city, which some months ago purchased the old Commercial building, and has since remodeled the interior, will give a grand ball next Friday night in honor of the hall's formal opening.

BUILDING NEW DEPOT

by fire at the North Powder station. The structure is to be completed within the next 30 days.

LA GRANDE VISITS WALLOWA

Trip Is Made Over New O. R. & N. Extension.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
La Grande, Or., Oct. 10.—Yesterday was a great day for the business men of Wallowa, the present terminus of the Wallowa extension of the O. R. & N., and the business men of La Grande. This morning 200 La Grande citizens, among them a representative of practically every business house in town, boarded the train for the new railroad, and spent the day in social and business intercourse with its citizens. The weather was ideal and so greatly did the La Grande people enjoy themselves that they early in the afternoon word to the O. R. & N. officials that they would like to have the hour of departure postponed. The Wallowa county fair is in progress, and a fine stock parade was held in the afternoon.

SALEM CITY ELECTION

Apparently Little Interest Is Taken in Coming Event.
(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Oct. 10.—City primaries for the purpose of selecting nominees for city officers will be held at Salem Saturday, November 7, during the same week as the national election takes place. The last date for filing nominating petitions is Thursday, October 22. There have been no petitions filed so far.

Wants $20,000 Damages.
Charging that William Reed, Richard Kruger, a painter, has brought suit in the circuit court for $20,000. The complaint alleges that Reed, who is an aged bachelor, has been entertaining and living with Kruger's wife for more than a year in a marital residence at 21 East Thirty-eighth street.

Here is one man who does not limit himself to eight hours of work a day. A farmer in the Bedworth district, Warwickshire, England, has created a local record in connection with the hay harvest by working in one field for 21 hours in a single day. He began cutting at 1:30 a. m. and ceased at 11 o'clock at night, when the grass was local record in connection with the turned.
