

HAMMOND OF TAST TO BOOST FOR TAFT

Guggenheim Smelter Manager Will Help the Republican Candidate Fool the People—Story of an Independent Mine Owner.

By John E. Lathrop.
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 12.—Amazement was expressed in many quarters when it was announced that John Hays Hammond, president of the National League of Republican Clubs, is to take the stump for Judge Taft. Mr. Hammond is the manager of the Guggenheim smelter trust in its engineering department, drawing the largest salary ever paid such an official, reputed to be several hundred thousand dollars.

It has been cited that throughout the western states there is an immense body of independent mineowners and workmen employed in the mines to whom the name of Guggenheim is anathema.

One of the things which has operated to induce this cordial hatred is the abolition of the rule of permitting "samples" to be procured from areas being assayed for sale at the smelters.

Abolish Rule.

In former years, before the Guggenheims obtained control of smelting, samples were allowed to be present to see that the assay was correct, and that the mineowner got what was coming to him for the ore he was selling. The Guggenheims abolished this rule, and assays now are made in secret. Last winter in Washington an Oregon mineowner, who is independent of the trust, told me the following story:

"I own a gold mine in southern Oregon, which gives me a carrying a good proportion of silver. I shipped a car of ore to San Francisco for sale, and when the smelter people took their sample to assay I got half of it and brought it to Washington. The smelter made its return on the sample, and the assayer took the same, with the result that it was proven that had the Washington assay been returned by the San Francisco smelter I would have had nearly twice as much for my ore as the smelter allowed me.

Chance for Fraud.

"The abolition of the rule permitting the mineowner to have an ample present opens the way for possible defrauding of the owner."

During the winter, Idaho miners were in Washington and I submitted the statement of that Oregon miner to them, and it was indorsed fervently. One Coeur d'Alene miner said:

"The regime inaugurated by the Guggenheim smelter trust operates to the disadvantage of every independent mineowner and workman in the country. Not only so, but to the abolition of the sample rule, which has kept the Guggenheims work hard on our people—the independents."

Go See Eckles.

"I went to Chicago, and was told by the manager that I would have to see Si Eckles, vice-president and traffic manager of the trust. I was introduced to him in New York. Of course, Mr. Eckles refused my request."

Writes to Abuse Heney and Feel Sorry for That Dear Old Frisco.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Oct. 12.—The Examiner today prints a letter purporting to come from Felix Paduveris, a Greek charged in an indictment with dynamiting a house owned by James L. Gallagher, the chief witness in the graft prosecution. The letter, dated Marseilles, France, September 25, and is the first indication of the whereabouts of the suspected Greek, who is written in lead pencil, and the lines are so close together as to make the message barely legible.

Nat Takes Edna and Harry Takes Maxine, Is the Goldfield Story.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Reno, Nev., Oct. 12.—Mining men from Goldfield are repeating a story to the effect that Maxine Elliott, former leading woman and wife of Nat Goodwin, is to marry Harry MacMillan, the mining man who was until recently engaged to marry Edna Goodrich, leading woman of the Goodwin company last year. The story says that Goodwin has gone to Europe to marry Edna Goodrich. Close friends of the actor claim that the remarkable alleged double romance is true, and point to the fact that Goodwin left Nevada last week immediately after obtaining a divorce from Maxine Elliott. The actor is said to have engaged a stateroom on a steamer bound for Europe, and is said to be on his way to London, where Miss Goodrich is staying at the Savoy. Goodwin hurried from Nevada immediately after the divorce was secured. A strike for rich ore on his mine near Goldfield would not detain him.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Oct. 12.—Joseph Krabman lies in a hospital today after a thrilling fight in midair on a ten-foot platform of the Brooklyn bridge 432 feet above the East river yesterday. Krabman, armed with a razor, climbed to one of the big cables leading to the top of the Brooklyn tower. He was seen by a policeman who summoned two other policemen to his assistance.

Rosebud Drawing Week from Today

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Dallas, S. D., Oct. 12.—Two 6-year-old girls will draw the envelopes containing the names of winners in the Rosebud land lottery next Monday morning, according to the official announcement today. The applications will be placed in a box on a platform, the sides of which will be covered with wire netting, and the little girls, in the sight of all, will draw the winners.

Predicts Rupture Between Jap and Briton, and Are Working for It.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Melbourne, Oct. 12.—If the entire political pressure of Australia is sufficient, the treaty binding England and Japan will not survive. Political Australia is determined to break the alliance, as the first step to create a white man's Pacific ocean, leaving not to be barraged England, the Australian officials are not giving any official voice to the sentiment, but it is the belief of careful observers here that the treaty cannot last more than a few years.

Idaho G. O. P. Lays Down Mandate on Local Option Question.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Lewiston, Idaho, Oct. 12.—The local option question, one of the main features of the Idaho campaign, has become involved in some peculiar complications, as far as Lewiston is concerned, by its conflict with a special election called under the new charter on the same issue. In the state platform the Republicans are standing on the local option plank, and the Democrats are silent on the question. This has lined up the state brewers' association and the local retail dealers' association against the Republican legislative ticket in this county.
