WOMEN'S RELIEF

(Edited From Leased Wire.) London, Oct. 12.—One hundred thousand unemployed men and women, headed by a large deputation of suffragettes, tried to enter the houses of parliament this evening and 4,000 police were called to prevent them.

The trouble about the parliament houses began early today. Unemployed men, many of whom are in a pitiful condition, want parliament to consider measures for their relief.

The suffragettes threaten to join the hungry tonight. Mrs. Drummond and Mrs. Sarah Parkhurst, three of the militant suffragettes, were summoned to appear before the police for having threatened to rush the house of commons today and they refused to submit to arrest.

Mounted police began to patrol the grounds and streets about the parliament buildings early today. They kept the crowds moving, but this afternoon a concerted rush was made by nearly 10,000 of the men. The police forces have been augmented on the occasion and it is probable that tonight serious fights will result.

After repeated efforts had been made by the mob to obtain a hearing in the House of Commons, Mrs. Drummond, under-secretary of state, received a deputation from the mob.

He told them that the government would be unable to deal with the situation of the unemployed at this session except to take measures to relieve their immediate suffering.

The committee announced the result of the interview to the mob outside and the news was received with a demonstration of fury.

SLEW HUSBAND; TELLS WHITE-SLAVE STORY

(Edited From Leased Wire.) New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 12.—The police are investigating the story told by Mrs. Julia Madelin, who recently shot and killed her husband, that her husband had been a white slave.

When she rebelled her father according to her statement, forced her to marry a man who was a white slave.

Mrs. Madelin killed her husband Saturday. She declares he had beaten and tortured her for not preparing supper although she was a white slave.

She was apparently fired upon by the mob and she was seated at the supper table. A knife was found on his body.

JAMES IS RESPONSIBLE FOR PAROLING PRISONERS

Penitentiary Superintendent Tells Correction Conference Governor Acts Only on His Voluntary Recommendation—Parole System in East.

A secret, or rather a bit of information that the speaker termed a secret, was divulged today by C. W. James, superintendent of the Oregon state penitentiary, at the Charities and Correction conference.

"Since the indeterminate sentence law went into effect not a single case in the penitentiary has been put on parole by the governor till after the superintendent had voluntarily filed a recommendation to that effect."

That was Mr. James' statement and he cited particularly the Hembree case, in which the governor voluntarily assumed the blame, but for which Mr. James himself had asked for parole on the strength of Hembree's exemplary conduct in prison.

Improvements in Prison. This statement developed in Mr. James' talk on the penitentiary work in which he said that a previous period when a man was given the indeterminate sentence he was confined on the minimum time and the prisoners themselves seemed to expect it.

There was a large attendance last night at the general meeting and Dr. Barrows' address on "Prisons and Reformatories" was listened to with interest. He deplored the present conditions in the county and city jails and branded them as a disgrace to the community.

Mrs. Riemann Creates Scene When Constable Arrests Her Husband.

Riemann, the man who was brought back from Grants Pass last week and lodged in the city jail on a charge of forgery, was again arrested this morning by Constable Lou Wagner on the charge of having obscene literature in his possession.

Wagner searched a pocket of the police station last week at $500. He found a package of pictures which form the foundation for the new charge. They are unspookable. And Riemann is not a young man, either.

There was a scene at the police station when Constable Wagner served the new warrant of arrest on Riemann. Mrs. Riemann was present and minded the "skulduggery" of the officers and the entire city department, from Mayor Lane down.

Wagner would use assistance in detaining his prisoner over to the office, but Riemann finally consented to go without offer of assistance although he said he really ought to resist arrest.

Mrs. Riemann denounced the affair as an outrage and made things interesting around the constable's office. She said that she put the pictures in her pocket when she was in the city a year ago for beating up another woman on the street with her fists and was arrested by Deputy District Attorney Randall as a "pugilistic boob-tail wildcat."

Despite Heavy Rain, Large Crowds Attend From Eastern Oregon.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Walla Walla, Wash., Oct. 12.—Although it is raining hard, large crowds from Pendleton and other eastern Oregon towns are in the city today attending the county fair, this being Eastern Oregon day.

The fair this fall is better and bigger in every way than ever before. In point of exhibit there has never been a fair of such scope and interest.

The fair opened yesterday at noon. To promote attendance and interest in the first day's program, the school children of the city were invited to attend and given free entrance.

Last night the Fourteenth Cavalry band, one of the best known musical organizations in the west, gave a concert in the big pavilion.

One of the notable attractions of the fair is the well known Ezra Meeker exhibit. Mr. Meeker is here, just as they traveled across the continent, and the inquisitive old man is giving a full and interesting account of his adventures.

The races yesterday were exceptionally good for the opening day and were watched by a record-breaking crowd. One accident marred the day, when Ben Corbett, a soldier, was thrown in changing horses in the relay race and trampled by his horse.

First race, four and a half furlongs, purse $100.—Blue Bottle won, Godfather second, Main third, Time, 0:58.

Second race, mile running, $200 purse.—Miller's Daughter won, Redmont second, Jerusha third, Time, 1:42.

Third race, mile running, $200 purse.—Miller's Daughter won, Redmont second, Jerusha third, Time, 1:42.

There were four entries in the Roman race, the "enemy" cavalry. One rider failed to get off, another was forced to his seat, Barr won the race, time, 1:30.

The relay race, changing horses every half mile but riding the same saddle all the time, started yesterday with four entries. A falling rider for George Drumheller, was first at the end of the race's riding. He won the race last year.

War of the Blank Cartridge Fires at Atascadero, Cal., in Full Blast.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Camp Atascadero, Cal., Oct. 11.—With their left resting among the hills in the vicinity of San Luis Obispo and their right among the foothills of the Santa Lucia range, the army of the defense, technically known as the "red," met the army of invasion, designated the "blue," early today.

During the night both armies bivouacked under arms within half a dozen miles of each other. The "blue" troops, under command of Colonel F. A. Smith of the Eighth United States Infantry, were engaged, imaginary shells flying through the air between the two armies, seeking out the weaker places in the line.

The "blue" bivouacked at the Meyer ranch, cavalry patrols and infantry outposts being placed, and moved forward to their positions at dawn. After the first shot was fired and the infantry duel was begun, the advancing line met the partly entrenched "red."

For the first time in the present military campaign, the use of rifle fire, the purr of the machine guns and the roar of cannon. Short bugle blasts directed the movements of the forces and every phase of strategy attack and defense was exemplified.

The state guardsmen with the attacking force entered into the spirit of the work with eagerness and received invaluable instruction in reconnoitering, field fortification and establishing wireless and telephonic communication between the various commands under fire, and in care and treatment of the wounded in the battlefield.

Shortly after 5 o'clock 3,500 khaki-clad men under the command of Colonel Smith were fired and from them on it was a continual round of firing. The Fifth California noticed a small number of the "enemy" and attacked the battle by firing blank cartridges into them. Then followed the roar of machine guns and artillery and the cracking of rifles.

Colonel Moon remained in the rear of his advance guard with the reserves in field fortification and establishing wireless and telephonic communication with his commanders by wireless and "bugger wires."

At 9 o'clock the umpires informed the commanding general that the "enemy" ships were off the coast ten miles away and ordered him to fall back with his men.

Mrs. Heckler, Having Run Through With a Fortune of $200,000, Deserts Husband in Mysterious Fashion.

A special dispatch to The Journal from Chicago says that the will of Mrs. Andrew Heckler of Portland, filed today, leaves but $125 to her husband, who, she charges, defrauded her.

Behind this simple announcement of the filing of the will in Chicago lies a story of a woman who was once wealthy, a widow, who married again, began to dissipate and was led by others, and finally left her husband, who now suspects foul play.

Mr. Heckler said this morning that his wife had left him last year, about Christmas time, in company with a Delois Vance and his wife, Bella Vance. He said that his wife had been addicted to drink and that she was a morphine user. When she left, he says, she took with her about $1,000 in cash and diamonds worth about the same amount, all she had in the world.

Know Not of Wife's Death. In February, Mr. Heckler says, his wife died somewhere in the east. Ever since then he had endeavored to locate the scene of his wife's last days on earth or even the place where she had been buried. He did not hear of her death until some time afterward and then only in a roundabout way.

Mr. Heckler and the woman were married in San Diego, Cal. The husband says that at the time she had about $200,000. This was the last of a fortune of $200,000—that she had spent previous to the time that he met her. The woman came from the east.

About two years ago the couple came to Portland and Mr. Heckler opened up a barber shop. He says that a little of the money made out in a fortune of $200,000—that she had spent previous to the time that he met her. The woman came from the east.

Mr. Heckler says that he has been informed that the will filed in Chicago today, was made out in favor of the Vance and his wife. He says that the will was made in the will to the effect that the money, the $125 left the husband, should be made out in favor of the Vance and his wife. HORSE MABEL NOW IN MAUD'S PLACE

If H. Zeller's horse Mabel had been content to satisfy her appetite with ordinary horse fare, like hay and oats, Zeller would not have been arrested yesterday.

But Mabel is a pampered beast and demands the delicacies of the season. Yesterday she helped herself to a few fine bananas off a bunch in the fruit wagon driven by Alec Carson.

Zeller was fined at such a cavalcade for the treatment of his pet, and expressed his displeasure by planting his fist on the point of Carson's jaw. Carson went down and Mabel proceeded to step on him. This all happened, it is said, in front of a commission store on Front street between Washington and Stark.

Carson has had Zeller arrested for assaulting him. The horse is not yet pinched.

TOO MUCH RED-EYE SO STRUCK COBB

James Southern, the man who hit Walter Cobb over the head with the butt of a revolver in a lodging-house at 287 Yamhill street yesterday afternoon, appeared before Judge Wagner this morning but was let off with no other punishment than the confiscation of his gun. Southern and Cobb were both very drunk when Cobb was hurt. Cobb will be released as soon as his injuries permit, Southern says, and he will be the first time he had had a drink in months and his head is in no condition to stand the liquor he drank.

REHEARING IN THE JEW NUN CASE

Salem, Or., Oct. 12.—In the case of the state against Jew Nun, the supreme court granted a rehearing on the ground that the state had failed to present
