EISEN FAILS TO CONVINCE LAWYER

Watts' Attorney Convinces Court Embezzlement Not Proved.

Charter-Commission Would Retain Only Civil Service and Library Bodies—Water Board Is Recommended Abolished.

Only two commissions, those handling the library and the civil service, were recommended to be retained by the present charter at the meeting of the charter board last night. The sub-committees appointed at the last meeting to report on these two features found that the library commission, which is limited in its powers by state law, will practically have to be abolished in its present form as to abolish it would require the expenditure of a vast sum of money.

Attorney John F. Watts, who was indicted by the September grand jury on a charge of converting $1,000 of a client's bail money to his own use, will either escape punishment or be indicted by another grand jury on a different charge. When the case was called yesterday morning Dr. William Eisen, the prosecuting witness, testified that Watts stole his receipt for the $1,000 and drew down the bail money. Watts' attorneys claimed that the prosecution had not proved embezzlement or converting money to his own use, and the case was thrown out of court. A charge of larceny may be brought, however.

Watts Got Receipt.

Watts, according to the testimony of Dr. Eisen on the stand yesterday morning, was to receive a receipt for $1,000 which he said to have been owed to Dr. Eisen in exchange for his services. But instead Watts stole the physician's receipt for his bail from Dr. Eisen's home while the latter was in Los Angeles and drew the money. This is denied by Watts.

Watts Draw Money, Says Eisen.

Deputy County Clerk H. C. Smith was the first witness called. He testified that $1,000 bail was deposited with the county clerk during October, 1907, and that on January 23, 1908, Watts appeared with the receipt and drew the money out, substituting a paper bond for $1,500 in place of the $1,000. His testimony was objected to by the defense on the grounds that the bail was in the name of the defendant, drawn up by Dr. Eisen and not lawful money of the United States, as the indictment charges.

It is not the food you swallow or taste that brings happiness to you; it is the food you digest.

If you swallow and taste and don't digest and chew, Nature cannot give you health, for you do not furnish the ammunition.

TIED TO TREE HORSE STARVES

Yakima County Tragedy Is Revealed by Discovery of Workmen.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
North Yakima, Wash., Oct. 14.—The skeleton of a pack horse found near the mouth of the Humping river, in the northwestern part of Yakima county, the animal having starved to death, leads to the belief that the owner may have met the same fate, and a search for the body has been conducted through that region.

It is not the food you swallow or taste that brings happiness to you; it is the food you digest.

The horse's remains were found tied to a tree to which the bones of the skull were still fastened, showing that the animal had starved. All the bark had been eaten from the tree, showing the efforts the animal had made to sustain life.

When the money was found on Scott, the girl confessed she took a bag of gold from her uncle's house on the night of their flight and gave it to Scott. Both declared they did not count the money. Scott at first maintained that the money was his own but later admitted it was not.
