

VEERING WIND FOULS DRAVE AVIATORS

(Clipped From Leased Wire.)
 Berlin, Oct. 15.—With almost no clothing and numb from the cold, Dr. Niemeier and Hans Heldermann, the pilots of the German balloon Busley in the international race for the Bennett cup, were rescued from the top of their balloon in the North Sea today by the steamer Prince Wilhelm. They were nearly dead when picked up. The balloon fell into the North Sea after the pilots had made a desperate effort to cross to England and had thrown away all their ballast and their clothes. They had traveled about 400 miles. The men were taken to Leith, Scotland, where they were given medical attention and wired to the international committee here.

All the entrants for the Bennett cup race have now been accounted for, although the Heerswell and the Plauen, German entrants in the endurance race, have not yet been heard from.

Niemeier related the story of the Busley's flight after he had been rescued from the sea. He said they passed over Hamburg at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, going northwest. They saw the North sea, but had 17 sacks of ballast and had lost but little gas and were sure they could cross the sea and reach England.

After sailing 100 miles over the ocean, the wind veered, coming from the south, threatening to carry them to the Arctic ocean, and they thought they were doomed.

Finally they sighted the Prince Wilhelm and put out signals of distress. The captain saw the signals, and they opened the valves and fell into the sea near the steamer.

The Busley is disqualified from sharing in the money, as the terms of the race demand that the balloons light on land.

The international committee discovered this afternoon that the Helvetia, which had been announced as the winner of the international race, had been towed a mile to the shore after alighting in the North sea, near Molde, Norway.

The Helvetia was disqualified and the prize awarded to the Banhae.

Congressman Hobson is well known to the entire United States as a public man and speaker. He is now a member of congress and has gained much notice by his advocacy of a larger navy. His address in Oregon will cover several of the principal cities.

DETECTIVE JONES DANGEROUSLY ILL

Detective William Jones is very sick at the Good Samaritan hospital and is not expected to live the day out.

The detective was taken sick a few days ago and was taken to the hospital suffering from a paralytic stroke and a general nervous breakdown. The death of his 13-year-old daughter some time ago from diphtheria, after she had been sick about three months, has preyed on Jones' mind and he has been in very bad shape since he lost her. During her illness he was in almost constant attendance upon her, getting very ill and was in a constant condition with his worrying over her death is supposed to be the cause of his illness.

Detective Jones has been a member of the police and detective departments for about five years. He has worked with Detective Tichner most of the time since he has belonged to the detective force and is regarded as a most efficient man.

LOCATOR TELLS OF AGREEMENT

Prosecution Opens in Pacific Furniture Company Conspiracy Case.

Jurors to Hear Los Angeles Case.
 John Borwick, farmer, Washington county.
 H. Birrell, real estate, Multnomah.
 William H. Egan, farmer, Marion.
 F. E. Dodel, farmer, Benton.
 Christian Kocher, farmer, Clackamas.
 W. G. Walker, rural mail carrier, Marion.
 J. R. Kaser, grocer, Multnomah.
 W. H. Smith, farmer, Clackamas.
 D. F. Lefevre, farmer, Clackamas.
 W. Ellison, railroad station agent, Multnomah.
 Otto Hoffman, florist, Multnomah.
 G. C. Peck, farmer, Benton.

The jury to hear the testimony in the case of the government against the five defendants representing themselves as the Pacific Furniture & Lumber company, alleged to have been implicated in a conspiracy to defraud the United States out of 30,000 acres of land in Curry county, having been completed yesterday afternoon in the federal court the prosecution opened its case this morning by placing George W. Curry, a farmer, on the stand. Curry had done the locating for the company, it seems, and had a contract with Richard D. Jones, one of those indicted and who is now dead, for this work.

The most important evidence secured from Curry during the morning was his statement that he had been given a list of 15 or 20 names by Jones of persons who were to locate on timber lands and that at a later date Jones had given him a check on the furniture company for $411 for the purpose of making the final payment to the government on a claim taken up by Mrs. Elizabeth Roby, one of those with whom Curry had done the locating as well as men about filling on land. Mrs. Roby is to be called as a witness later.

Surveying at First.
 Curry said that Jones had first come to see him in his farm on Burns creek, Curry county, in 1901. The proposition to do some surveying was put up to Curry and later he went out and did some of the kind of work as well as roughly estimating the timber on a lot of land. On one of these trips Curry said he was accompanied by Otto Newman and Fred B. Stewart, a son of Frank A. Stewart, who was indicted and who pleaded guilty Monday.

Curry said that in 1902 or 1903 that Curry went to Roseburg with his two brothers and six or seven other persons to make local proof on claims. It was at that time that Jones had given him the $411 to be used in paying for Mrs. Roby's claim.

Revolver an Argument.
 At another time Jones wanted Curry to work for the company, regard as traveling back and forth between Los Angeles and Port Orford. His work was to get persons to lose claims and to locate stock in the Furniture & Lumber company. Jones offered $50 a month and all expenses.

Curry said that when he refused to work for him they had a quarrel and Jones made a motion like he was going after his gun.

"Did Jones pull a gun?" asked counsel for the government.

"No," said Curry. "I beat him to it."

Curry was cross-examined by counsel for the defense, and said that he had had no transactions or understanding with any of the five persons now on trial. Curry was excused at noon.

Other government witnesses are being examined this afternoon.

TWO GAME WARDENS ARREST THE HOF BRAU

Deputy Game Warden J. L. Green and W. B. Donahue last night arrested Fritz Strobel and Charles Barenstacher, proprietors of the Hof Brau, one of the fashionable eating places, on a charge of selling quail out of season.

Green and Donahue sauntered into the Hof Brau last night after having ordered a wild game dinner. They paid $1 for each four birds for their party, they said. When the meal had begun they raised a question as to whether or not pigeons had been substituted for quail. They say that Head Walter Victor Tarbell took them to the basement to prove that they were eating quail instead of pigeons. Then they allege Tarbell showed them the quail, which they promptly seized. They claim to have simple evidence that quail was served them. The proprietors were released on their own recognizance.

The penalty upon conviction is from $100 to $2,000 fine and not less than two months nor more than two years imprisonment, or both.

HOME FOR TIRED CITY WORKERS WILL BE BUILT ON ALSEA BAY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
 Waldport, Or., Oct. 15.—Waldport is to have a modern salt air sanitarium. This will be established by Dr. James B. Olmsted of Portland, who for years has been studying the climatic conditions along the coast of Oregon with a view of finding a locality with a maximum amount of sunshine and a minimum amount of fog. Plans and specifications for the building have arrived at Waldport, bids have been asked for and work will begin early in the spring.

The buildings will be located among the pines on the south shore of Alsea Bay. The main building will be 80 by 44 feet, built of logs and will contain two large rooms. The largest room will be 58 by 22 feet, with the south, east and west walls almost entirely of glass. In the center of this room will be located a cement aquarium 18 by 10 feet and 5 feet deep, with running salt water, in which will be placed fish and salt water curiosities. The room will be known as the "sunshine room" and will be used by all the patients, where they can occupy the large easy chairs and enjoy the sunshine that pours through the big windows.

The second room will be 39 by 22 feet, and will be used as a reading-room and museum, for the benefit of the school children, residents, visitors and patients. Dr. Olmsted will place his entire collection of curiosities, consisting of over 10,000 specimens, in this room. There will also be added a number of specimens now owned by local people. There will also be located in this building hot and cold salt water baths and other conveniences.

Another novel feature will be the residences to be occupied by the patients. There will be erected at first 20 cottages, 24 by 12 feet, each containing two rooms with a canvas sleeping addition. This plan has been adopted after considerable study and is thought to bring better results than one large building, in which all are housed. Other cottages will be built as they are required. It is estimated that there will be demand for 40 cottages, within one year after the main buildings are completed.

Surgical and contagious cases will not be received. The sanitarium will be for the exclusive use of overworked men and women from the offices, banks and stores of the cities, and those convalescing from acute troubles.

A 400-foot dock will be constructed in front of Dr. Olmsted's private residence here. It is now under construction. This will be used as a landing for private launches on the bay and for all pleasure craft.

WILLIAM'S BILL CARRIED JOKER

Cleverly concealed in the second clause of the Williams building ordinance which was referred to the building inspector yesterday by the council, it has developed, was a little "joker." The ordinance as proposed called for the building of foundation walls 12 inches in thickness, but the joker makes it possible to reduce this thickness by one third, compelling buildings to put in walls only eight inches thick for the lower story.

The elastic clause provides that "walls combined with iron and steel may be only two thirds as thick as those merely made of brick or such material." The building inspector will insist that
