THE WORLD'S MARKETS

MIXED TONE IN POTATO TRADE

While Local Producers Are Holding Buyers Are Getting Outside Stock.

Portland wholesale markets:
Potato market mixed.
Improvement in chickens.
Eastern butter coming again.
Another car eastern eggs.
Three cars of bananas today.
Low prices rule in apples.
Dressed hogs are weaker.
Getting ready for hop trade.
Weaker tone in wheat.

Potato Trade Rather Mixed.

While Oregon has a very small crop of potatoes this year of all grades and a very limited amount of real fancy quality, there is a hitch in transactions between buyers and sellers, and for that reason local arrivals are scant. Even the demand from the south has decreased, and while the markets there are openly quoting practically the same old figures of last week, it is a noticeable fact that they are not getting the prices. Several shipments from here to San Francisco recently find a lack of buyers because of the enormous offerings of their local river stock, which is stated by all to be the best quality the river districts of California have turned out for many a year. Then, too, the crop along the rivers is heavy, although other sections of California show a short yield.

Bringing Rivers Into Portland.

The recent arrival here of a carload of potatoes from California really meant more than the mere receipt of the car. To the trade it meant the beginning of regular shipments from the south with their lower prices, unless local producers brought in sufficient supplies at a reasonable price to fill the wants of the trade. It is exceedingly hard even at this time to secure any great quantity of potatoes in eastern Multnomah or eastern Clackamas under $1, and this price buyers consider excessive and will not pay it. On the other hand, producers are of the opinion that potatoes will go higher—which they will likely do late in the spring—because of the great shortage in the east.

Mistaken as Regards Colorado Crop.

That Colorado has a larger crop of potatoes than a year ago seems certain from present reports. Early estimates were that Colorado would turn out a small crop this season, but the latest information is showing just the reverse. The Greeley (Colo.) correspondent of the Denver Record states that, according to the statements of Professor E. R. Bennett, potato expert of the State Agricultural college, Colorado will have a bumper crop of potatoes this year. An estimate of the output of the district for this year is rather difficult to make, but judging from the past it is safe to predict that it will not be far from 10,000 to 12,000 cars.

While the increase at Greeley is considerable, the large increase of the Colorado crop over previous years will come from the mountain districts of the state. Reports from the Roaring Fork and Grand valleys, the Uncompahgre and the San Luis indicate a very marked increase. Last year the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad company shipped from these valleys a total of 1,800 cars of potatoes. This year they are planning to handle 4,500 cars, or more than twice as many as any previous year.

Short Crop Elsewhere.

Referring to the above, the correspondent says that the increase in production of potatoes in Colorado need not frighten the growers into selling at a low price. Within the past few days the Colorado experiment station has received letters from Maine, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois and Oregon concerning the potato crop in these states. All of them except Maine and Minnesota show a marked shortage in crop, owing to adverse weather conditions. Some of these report as low as 50 per cent of a crop, and several of them only from 60 to 70 per cent of a crop. When we consider that these states in a normal year produce 195,000,000 bushels, we see the shortage in the United States is far more than Colorado may hope to produce for many years to come.

Improvement in Chickens.

There is somewhat of an improvement in the tone of the local chicken market. Supplies are not nearly so liberal, and the smaller buyers have been forced to pay an advance of from ½c to 1c a pound over the low quotations of last week. At the new prices the market will not stand very heavy arrivals, and a return of last week's heavy shipments would simply cause another break in values.

Eggs are holding firm, with practically all sales of local fresh at this time around 37½c. Eastern eggs are selling at 28c to 30c; the latter for best quality. Another car of eastern stock was unloaded this morning.

Butter market is holding steady, with supplies and demand just about equal at the recently advanced values. Another shipment of Eastern stock, this time in barrels, came in this morning.

Brief Notes of Front Street.

Three cars of bananas were unloaded this morning.

Peaches continue to pile up, and no sales are reported beyond 75c, and this is only obtained once in a while even for the most select quality.

While there is a slightly better movement in apples, prices are holding very low.

Grapes still show a depressed tone.

Owing to the increased supplies, the dressed hog demand along Front street is smaller and prices are generally ½c to 1c lower. Dressed veal is steady and unchanged.

Front street sells at the following prices. Those paid shippers are less regular commissions:

There was a weaker tone in the cash wheat market here today, owing to the indifference of foreigners to take hold of supplies. While no change is noted in cash or future wheat values, the former market may safely be considered 1c lower, because buyers are not disposed to purchase at the higher figures, which, however, are still being quoted.

There was a further showing of strength in the barley market in the south today, but locally the situation is showing no change from yesterday, when values advanced. The cash situation here is somewhat firmer, and buyers are showing a disposition to take all offerings of No. 1 feed stock around $26.50 a ton, track Portland.

Oats market is very quiet. Buyers are showing no disposition to dabble around present values, but producers are just as independent, and are refusing to make concessions in values.

There is no change in the Oriental flour situation, millers not being willing to shade their present values, while the Orient cannot buy except in very small lots.

BIG RUN PUTS HOGS DOWNWARD

Drop of 15 to 25c Noted in Yards Today—Cattle Are Not So Firm.

Portland Union Stockyards, Oct. 16.—A heavy run of hogs locally during the past 24 hours had the effect of causing a lowering of values. With the increased run packers who had already rather liberal supplies of hogs, held off their purchases until their attitude caused a general decline amounting to 25c on most sorts. While the top of the market is standing at $6.60, the general run of good stuff will scarcely bring more than $6.50 at this time. At the lower price it is believed that the movement of hogs will be quite good, for this is the first time that killers have been able to buy hogs at these figures for some time and they are likely to take advantage of the situation by investing.

The total run of hogs in the yards during the 24 hours reached 900 head compared with 450 yesterday and 536 for this same day a year ago. While the eastern market is showing no change for the day the former decline there was much more severe than here and our prices even now after the decline of today are above those ruling elsewhere.

Cattle Weaken Suddenly.

Owing to the heavy shipments that killers are bringing in from the mountain ranges there is a sudden change of sentiment regarding cattle values. While best steers are still quoted as high as $4.25 the general run will not bring that figure.

Sheep market shows a continuation of the very small run, and while packers are bringing in some of their contracted stuff the market stands in a very good position, although prices are showing no change for the day.

What the Dealers Say.

Mr. Benson of Benson & Gould: "Hogs are off about 25c today on account of the larger supplies, but the movement will likely be larger at the new prices. Cattle are holding about the same, although the poor stuff is neglected."

Lee M. Lacy of Hunt & Lacy: "Cattle supplies are very liberal and because of the filled condition of packers' pens they are not disposed to bid so high. There is some weakness in all grades. Hogs are quoted about 25c lower today with the top at $6.60."

J. C. Lenelgan: "There is a heavy run of steers, and cattle of all kinds are weaker. Hogs are lower with the bulk of the best stuff going around $6.50 and the highest price around $6.60."

J. E. Reynolds of Condon came in with eight loads of cattle for the market.

O. W. Griffin supplied the market with a car of hogs.

A year ago today hogs were weak; cattle and sheep firm; no change in values.

Following is the general range of values on stock ruling in the yards for late shipments:

Hogs—Best east of mountains, $6.50@6.60; ordinary, $6; blockers and China fats, $5.75; stockers and feeders, $5.

Cattle—Select east of mountains, steers, $4@4.25; medium steers, $3.50; ordinary, $3.25; best cows, $2.85@3; heifers, $3.25; medium cows, $2@2.25; stags, $2.50@3; bulls, $2.

Sheep—Best wethers, $3.50; ordinary wethers, $3.25; lambs, $4; straight ewes, $3; mixed lots, $2.50@2.75.

Veal—Choice young calves, $4.50; heavy and rough, $3.50@4.

Yard's Representative Prices.

The following transactions are representative of late sales in the local yards and indicate exactly the extent of the demand and prices paid for the various grades and weights:

Harrisburg, Or., Oct. 16.—The first real rain that has fallen in this vicinity since last June arrived Monday afternoon and it has been raining practically all of the time since. Tuesday night the earth enjoyed almost an inch and a half of the long-delayed moisture. The Willamette is about four feet above low water mark and is still rising.

Grants Pass, Or., Oct. 16.—It was a peculiar coincidence that the first heavy rain to visit southern Oregon for several months came with the visit of Irrigation Engineer A. P. Stover of the agricultural department. The visit of Mr. Stover to this city was in the nature of a big irrigation meeting, in which all the farmers, fruit-growers and business men took part. For the past two months plans have been under way whereby a large irrigating canal would be constructed, taking water from Rogue river, to water over 20,000 acres of arid land in and around Grants Pass. But all day yesterday the rain poured incessantly, and the need of irrigation is nothing like as apparent now in Josephine county as it was only a few days since.

However, the committee of the Commercial club and the Fruit-Growers' union, are hard at work with Mr. Stover and it is believed that definite plans will be laid for the construction of an irrigating system. Mr. Stover, in company with 50 or more enthusiasts, visited the Golden Drift dam about the city, at which point water will be taken from the river. He was also shown the farms, orchards and arid sections in and around town. He expresses himself as well pleased with the situation here, from the standpoint of an irrigation engineer, and believes the plan is entirely feasible. Whether any aid can be secured from the government remains to be seen, but he promises all the assistance possible from his department. In the meantime the local managers of the enterprise will keep hard at work, and it is hoped that the actual construction of the big canal will begin within the next six weeks and that the entire system will be completed in time to irrigate next year's crops.

A HOLDING CO. FOR UNION PAC.

News Is Again Revised and Causes an Upturn in Price Which Is Lost.

The early rise in Union Pacific stock in the New York market today was due to the prospects of an early formation of a holding company which will pay 5 per cent while Union Pacific stock will pay 7 per cent. This will make 12 per cent for present holders of Union Pacific securities.

New York, Oct. 16.—Stock market was just about able to hold its own today. The renewed talk of a holding company for Union Pacific caused an upward swing to a few of the shares, but the market was generally of a dull nature with little movement. The upward movement in St. Paul caused the market to rally from its depression but the improvement was lost later in the day by the general list. St. Paul closed with a net gain of 1⅝ points over yesterday.

American Smelters reduced the price of lead 10 points.

It is understood that the Green Cananea is operating 50 per cent of its capacity. The company has four furnaces going and the output is stated to be at the rate of 4,000,000 pounds a month.

Big Wheat Movement.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 16.—If the mild weather continues, more grain will have left Thunder bay this fall than at any time in the history of the Canadian middlewest. From 400 to 500 cars are leaving Winnipeg daily with grain and returning with fuel for the northwest. The condition of the transportation facilities is first class. Even the old wheat is being cleaned out of the elevators.

No fuel has come in via Duluth, as has been frequently necessary in order to supply the Canadian northwest.
