It is not correct to say that there is "A War On Between Gordon Falls and Pendleton," over the plant of the woolen mills so long located at the latter place. The whole question is completely set forth and explained in another part of today's Journal, and our Pendleton friends will doubtless read that advertisement with most hearty relish. Large numbers of Portland people will also look it up, for the reason that it not only explains the mill situation but tells us, sensibly, how $100 may speedily grow into $5,000, and $1,000 into $50,000. A multiplicity of fortunes seem destined to grow from the seed now being planted at Gordon Falls. Those two healthy waterpowers will coin the money. They ought to have been coining it for the last half century.

Great factory mistake shoe sale at 291 Morrison street. Labels wrong on fall shoes just arrived. Marks' name instead of Dellar's. Factory stands loss and orders us to sell them at a sacrifice. Men's $4 and $5 shoes, now $2.85; men's James A. Banister, S. & M., etc., $6 and $7 values, now $3.85; women's $3.50 and $4 shoes, now $2.45; boys' and girls' school shoes, values to $3, now $1.65; children's fancy dress shoes, $1.50 and $2 values at 25c, 50c and $1. Dellar's, successor to Marks Shoe Co., 291 Morrison street, between Fourth and Fifth.

J. A. House, a former letter carrier, who was found dead in his bed last Thursday morning, is to be buried under the auspices of the local Letter Carriers' association. Although House had not been a member of the Carriers' association for three years, the organization felt that as he had died leaving his family destitute and without funds to give him a decent burial the association should pay the expenses.

AT THE THEATRES

"Checkers" at Heilig Tonight.

The favorite character comedy, "Checkers," will be the attraction at the Heilig theatre tonight and tomorrow night. This play is one of the greatest hits that comes to Portland. Hans Roberts is again seen as "Checkers" and Dave Braham as "Push Miller." The remainder of the cast is likewise practically the same as last season.

Seats Selling for "Time, Place, Girl."

Seats are now selling at the box office of the Heilig theatre for the merry musical comedy success, "The Time, the Place and the Girl," which will be the attraction for four nights commencing next Wednesday. A special price matinee will be given Saturday afternoon. Frank E. Young is still the comedian.

Enigmarelle at the Grand.

Enigmarelle, the electric man, will be exhibited at the Grand this week, in connection with a vaudeville entertainment which consists of nothing but feature acts. Enigmarelle is the only attraction of the kind in the world. W. L. Werden will show his marvelous multicomposite.

"Cripple Creek" at the Star.

The playwright has woven into "At Cripple Creek" one of the most absorbing and vivid pictures of the romance, comedy and tragedy of the real life of the early days of this great mining camp. Walter Arington's company tells the story at the Star this week.

"Lost, a Kiss," at the Orpheum.

The little farce by Una Clayton entitled, "Lost, A Kiss, in Central Park," is arranged and presented with the care characteristic of a Frohman comedy, by Miss Edna Phillips, a favorite dramatic actress, on the Orpheum circuit.

"The Honeymooners" at the Baker.

Young couples spending their honeymoon in Portland can see a performance of Geo. M. Cohan's famous musical comedy free by making themselves known at Baker boxoffice any time this week. The play opened last night and is pronounced the best this season.

Rah! Rah! Rah! Harvard.

"Brown of Harvard" will pack the Bungalow theatre all this week if yesterday's houses are any criterion of what patrons of the Baker Stock company think of the play. Favorable comment was heard on all sides. Matinee Saturday only.

"Stricken Blind" at the Lyric.

One of the best bills the Lyric has ever had is "Stricken Blind," which the Blunkall company it putting on this week to crowded houses. The public has gone wild over it.

Pianola Music Sale.

Pianola music rolls are best. Nearly every make of "player piano" is arranged now to use the pianola roll. We have nearly seven thousand new pianola music rolls embracing all of the latest and most desirable selections coming from the factory within the next few days.

To make room for these in our music roll library we placed on sale this morning at 10 o'clock some fifteen hundred slightly used rolls in good order at exactly half price.

Half price to all comers—in small or large quantities, so long as this lot remains on the shelves. Eilers Piano House, 353 Washington street, dealers in the genuine Pianola and Pianola Pianos. Take elevator to second floor.

80 KLAMATH HORSES TO THE PHILIPPINES

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Klamath Falls, Or., Oct. 19.—Eighty horses for use in the United States cavalry were shipped from Klamath county this week to Seattle, where they will be loaded on transports and taken to the Philippine islands.

An army inspector of horses has been at the J. Frank Adams ranch in Merrill for a week past, testing horses, and the 80 selected average 1,100 pounds and are said to be the finest lot of horses ever shipped out of Klamath county.

The government wanted 150 horses but it is not probable that that number of the high standard demanded can be secured at this time.

GIRL DROWNS IN LAKE WASHINGTON

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Seattle, Oct. 19.—Miss Flora Banbury, an orphan, of Pasadena, Cal., was drowned in 150 feet of water in Lake Washington yesterday while at a picnic party. Shortly after the accident the boat in which she had pushed off from shore was found floating with a single oar. No one saw the mishap and no outcry was heard, but friends say she apparently lost an oar and lost her balance in reaching for it over the side of the boat. The body has not been recovered.

Previous to coming to Seattle, Miss Banbury lived with her brothers at Pasadena.

M'KENZIE COMPANY ADDS TO HOLDINGS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Eugene, Or., Oct. 19.—The McKenzie River Power & Railway company, which filed articles of incorporation with the county clerk at Portland and with the secretary of state at Salem a few days ago, intends to build an electric railway from Eugene to Foley and Belknap Springs, probably taking over the right of way for the line secured by A. Welch and associates for the Portland, Eugene & Eastern railway, which has been built from Eugene to Springfield. The incorporators are George Sengstake, G. A. Lyman and Zera Snow, of Portland, and the capital stock is $100,000.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) positively the last day for discount on east side gas bills. Don't fail to read Gas Tips.

Postoffice Robbed.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 19.—About $40 in cash, a quantity of stamps and several blank money orders were the booty of a burglar who entered the branch postoffice in the Gibson drug store at Twenty-second avenue and East Union street early yesterday morning. The loss of the money orders is the most serious outcome of the theft as the burglar may be able to get them cashed.

TRACK SCENE IN "CHECKERS" THRILLS HEILIG AUDIENCE

The third act of "Checkers," at the Heilig theatre, brought thrills for a few rushing seconds last night, when a hundred pairs of hands were clenched with emotion and a hundred imploring voices "pulled" with the racetrack tout for the "150 to 1 shot" to "come home with the money." Even those wholly unfamiliar with turf slang and race horses caught some of the excitement on seeing the clever portrayal of a scene that is to be beheld at any racetrack or in any poolroom in the country every day.

"Oh, will that Remorse never come? Why, he can show the way to those dogs. They couldn't beat a fat man up hill. Hurry! hurry! you 'Remorse!'" Then as the caller cries: "In the stretch—Remorse by a neck!" we wait for nothing more. We know that the despised rank outsider has passed the odds-on favorite and that Checkers, our hero, has won. The money is something of course, but the joy of the thing lies in the uncertainty.

"Checkers," the play, is known wherever the game is known. As everybody knows, the hero, played by Hans Roberts, is a racetrack tout who reforms, but breaks his promise not to gamble in order to win the girl he loves. His last penny gone, he has only a keepsake, a $50 gold piece given to him by his sweetheart for luck. Her father, who is the wealthiest man in his Arkansas village, consents to the marriage of the girl with "Checkers" only on condition that "Checkers" shall bring back $5,000 earned honestly, within a year. With the luck piece the former tout wins the money on Remorse, but realizes after the race is over that he has broken his promise.

He resolves to go back to confess to his sweetheart. The girl at first is hurt by "Checkers'" fall from grace, but when he tells her that he has won everything is lovely. This little sidelight hints at an old truism of the track, "It's all right to gamble when you win."

Mr. Roberts and Dave Braham Jr., as "Push" Miller, the tout who has not reformed, are nearly the whole thing in the play. The acting of the latter was true to life in the betting ring. Some of us were glad to see "Push" separate close-fisted old Barlow from one of his bank notes. Helen Ormsby makes a very sweet Bert Barlow, and Lydia Dickson does credit to the role of Cynthy. There are many other characters and most of them are good. "Checkers" will be liked by every one who sees it and everybody who has not yet seen the pretty little play should do so.

The return of William Dills as Tubby Anderson was the most interesting event of the performance. Mr. Dills is a character actor of a brand that the Baker company has urgently needed ever since the opening of the season, and his welcome home was a warm one. Sidney Ayres won applause as Tom Brown, the hero of Harvard, and Mr. Russell's work as "Happy" Thurston was heartily appreciated.

Miss Jewell played the part of Evelyn Kenyon, and Miss Seymour was Marian Thorne. The company has been augmented by a good many specials for the run of the college play.

Baker—"The Honeymooners."

It might have been due to the sharp contrast between a nipping wind and drizzling rain outside and the warm, homelike interior of the playhouse. It might have been the timely thread of political intrigue interwoven throughout the play. And again it might have been the bewitching chorus maids. But in fact it was none of them. The merits of "The Honeymooners," presented last night at the Baker theatre, lie in the play as a unit. Willie Dunlay, who does Augustus Wright with the true Cohan nasal twange and swing; Anna Wheaton, who can sing famously and dance equally as well, the seminary girls, the varsity boys—all these combine to effect a mirthful very mirthful whole.

Cohanism is rampant throughout "The Honeymooners." You become infected with it almost before the overture is finished. After the curtain has been up something less than three minutes, you lose all sense of time—you are steeped in Cohanism. You revel in it, greedily, vociferously.

There are 17 songs. We didn't count them, ourselves. The two young ladies with the elaborate coiffures in the two seats ahead did that in a stage whisper before the curtain went up. They also made various stage whisper observations on the play as it progressed, but that is extraneous.

The plot of "The Honeymooners" is simple. The widow marries the widower. The widow has a daughter, the widower a son. Both wish to keep the matter of children a secret. The "matter" explodes with a very loud noise in the second act. Then it keeps sputtering along in explosions of varying degrees until the finale—the third act—when everybody is happily reconciled.

The curtain goes down on several prospective brides and grooms, and the last of the 17 songs.

Bungalow—"Brown of Harvard."

"Brown of Harvard," a college play for non-collegians, in which Henry Woodruff was seen at the Heilig last season, was given a most creditable first inauguration at the Bungalow theatre yesterday. From "The Girl of the Golden West" to Miss Johnson's effort is a far cry, but the Baker stock company appears to have made the change in excellent fashion and the favorites of the company are all well cast.
