Policy of Retrenchment In- augurated by President of Street Railway Company Results in Resignation of Many Department Heads.

Resignations of five heads of departments of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company within the past few months have been accepted by President Josselyn, the latest coming yesterday, when Clarence G. Fields, superintendent of the O. W. P. division, resigned after 15 years' continuous service with the road. The office of superintendent has been abolished and will be handled by the traffic department.

It is generally believed that Mr. Fields' resignation as well as the others that have been accepted, came as a result of the retrenchment policy inaugurated by the operations of the company for some time. The policy of the management has been to dispense with many employees as possible and concentrate the responsibility and management.

President Josselyn this morning declared that there was nothing in the nature of a "shake-up" contemplated and that there is no cause for uneasiness among employees of the company who are doing their work well. He also stated that Mr. Fields' resignation was not a result of any quarrel between himself and the superintendent, or between Fields and the traffic department.

"I think Mr. Fields will bear me out in the statement that I have been his best friend here," said Mr. Josselyn, "but he resigned because of circumstances. Mr. Fields realized that he was working against a combination too strong for him. The business of the O. W. P. has grown enormously in the last two years and Mr. Fields probably has been the hardest worked man in point of hours, at least, on the line. There were certain features of the operation which he could not handle and he thought it better to resign."

"I took as many duties away from him as I could in order to lighten his work," Mr. Josselyn said, "and finally the freight depot. But it was too much for him."

"Mr. Fields' work will be done by Traffic Manager Hunt, and his office of superintendent of the street railway work will be taken over by the traffic department. Mr. Josselyn said that there was a very good explanation for each of them. Mr. G. S. Sykes, general manager of the light and power departments, he said, resigned because he could make no money for himself. He was a man with a long experience to handle his department.

"I offered to keep him at the same salary in order to lighten the burden that he did not understand, but he would not do so. As for S. G. Reed, the treasurer, he has grown too arduous for him. In no case has there been any friction between me and my employees. I have to keep up the standard of the road and to cut out all unnecessary expenses. Whenever new blood is needed it will be supplied."

Mr. Fields' future plans are not known. He was superintendent of the O. W. P. when it was under the old regime, and rose from the ranks.

"RED" BURTON, NIGHT RIDER, CONFESSES

Union City, Tenn., Oct. 28.—"Red" Burton, a member of the "Red" confederacy implicating at least 40 men, some of them the most prominent in the disturbed section. More than half of them are under arrest and held at the military camp maintained by the state militia. Burton tells of a band of night riders, led by Captain Quentin Rankin at Reel Foot lake on the night of October 20, and which would have had a fatal result for Judge R. Z. Taylor but for his almost miraculous escape.

Burton says James F. Carpenter, an attorney of Union City, Rankin and Taylor to Walnut log on the text of a timber deal. They were taken from the hotel at Walnut Log by a band of night riders. Burton says, by Tom and Garrett Johnson, both under arrest, and William Watson, who is under bond in connection with another raid on the plantation. Burton is a member of the band that carried out the plot to its fatal ending. His part consisted in framing up the timber deal. He was fishing on Reel Foot lake on the night of the raid and heard the shots fired when Rankin was killed.

Burton admits he aided in the burning of a fish dock at Samburg, and aided in the whipping of Justice of the Peace Wain in an orchard.

Carpenter is under arrest.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 28.—A suit for $100,000 has been filed in the United States circuit court here by Henry Bennett, a victim of night rider outrages, who has been beaten and whose tobacco factory was burned last February. He names as defendants not only those who are present, but many others who are alleged conspirators. The suit will be so directed as to break up, if successful, an organization the object of which was to force all independent raisers and handlers of dark tobacco to place their tobacco in the pool controlled by the Dark Tobacco association.

OHIO BABY DRINKS LIKE FISH; SMOKES

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 28.—Though only 38 months of age, Louis Tomazich of 3112 March street, is a big drinker and cigar smoker. Cigarettes he calls nasty, in his lapping speech, and candy he abhors as childish. But he takes his wine beer a day—more sometimes—and smokes black cigars like a man. His mother says he is healthier since he began to indulge in the pleasure considered so evil that great organizations are fighting indulgence in them by today. The child was offered a glass of beer. He drank several swallows, then he took a cigar. "I'm not feeling well, Gimme a cigar," he lisped, as he calmly smoked the weed.

DUPLICATE COURT JUDGE WARMS AGAINST HALLOWEEN EXCESSES

Judge Gantenbein, who presides in the juvenile court, wrote a letter to County Superintendent of Schools Rieger this morning in order to warn young Americans of the city against too much Halloween. Last year the juvenile court was almost swamped for a few days after Young America had celebrated, and the court now gives notice that malicious mischief will be severely punished.

Judge Gantenbein said this morning that while his letter would reach the school children, the warning applies with just as much force to all other youths under 18 years of age, who are under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court. He said that it is not the property or interfere with the rights of other persons is permissible, but those who do so will be severely punished. He said that the law must not attempt to justify an lawless celebration by a Halloween excuse.

Following is the text of Judge Gantenbein's letter: "Dear Sir—About a year ago, upon assuming the duties of judge of the juvenile court, I found it necessary to dispose of upwards of 40 cases resulting from the celebration of Halloween. In almost every instance the delinquent admitted the offense, but pleaded in justification that it was permitted in celebrating Halloween, evidently thinking that any act done on that occasion was justifiable. One delinquent even went so far as to gross the car track with mud, and possibly kill or maim a number of passengers. The court, however, sent him to the reform school, and he is now serving his sentence."

"I would request that you ask the teachers of the public schools to give fair warning to their pupils that any violation of the law endangering public safety, or amounting to malicious mischief, will be punished by the juvenile court in the same manner if committed on Halloween as at any other time."

"There is, of course, no objection to a proper celebration of the day, so long as the same does not interfere with the school, and I am, very respectfully,
"C. U. GANTENBEIN."

HATFIELD WILL STAY ACCUSED

So That If He Is Not Dun- ham Fact May Be Fin- ally Established.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Jose, Cal., Oct. 28.—William Hatfield, suspected of being James C. Dunham, who murdered the entire Mc-Gilney family of six, at Campbell, 12 years ago, will be formally charged with the crime. This information comes authoritatively from the office of District Attorney Arthur M. Free today. It is probable that the warrant will be sworn out tomorrow. The announcement is accompanied by the explanation that District Attorney Free entertains no opinion as to whether Hatfield is Dunham, but wants to dispose of the case legally.

"There always will be some doubt in the minds of some people if Hatfield is allowed to go free," said a representative of the district attorney. "If Hatfield is brought up legally and proved that he is not Dunham, the question will be settled for all time. A score of persons visited the jail today and all but one declared Hatfield is not Dunham. The one who declares Dunham worked for her and she is sure Hatfield is the man. Her name is being closely guarded by the authorities."

G. O. P. Will Try to Equal Monday Night's Bryan Demonstration.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Oct. 28.—Judge Taft is resting this afternoon after a whirl around lower New York during the lunch hour, making four speeches, shaking thousands of hands and being cheered by tremendous crowds.

The Taft special, returning from Albany, reached the Grand Central station at 11:30 o'clock.

At Hastings the Taft train passed the Bryan special. Taft was in his stateroom and did not see Bryan, who stood on the back platform of his train, preparing to make a speech. Several members of the Taft party gave Bryan a rousing cheer and accompanied it with a shower of Taft buttons, which were thrown about the Bryan train.

From the Grand Central station Taft went to the home of his brother, Henry, and after a conference there he returned a few minutes he started on his speaking tour.

At the foot of Bethune street Taft spoke at 10:00 o'clock. He was greeted by Bryan's free silver record, his advocacy of government ownership of railroads and the bank guarantee proposition. He was greeted by a wild crowd and was cheered through the streets.

Taft declared that nothing but oratory entitled Bryan to run for the presidency and attacked all his policies before the Commercial Travelers' club in Union Square.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon he attended a dinner at the Union League club. After 8 o'clock he will begin another strenuous round of speaking which will carry him up to midnight.

The program for tonight includes 10 speeches and the main feature will be the big meeting at Madison Square Garden, when the biggest Republican rally of the campaign will be held. It is expected that the Madison Square Garden meeting will be attended by thousands and among the speakers will be George A. B. of California and Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts. The committee of arrangements has made great preparations for the occasion. The former ambassador to France, will be the presiding officer. Taft will arrive at the hotel at 11 o'clock and will be met by the parade of the campaign.

A great illuminated parade will be held on 42nd avenue and there will be over 50 bands in the parade. Thousands of marchers and all the clubs about Manhattan will participate. It will be the most pretentious night parade of the campaign.

After his speech at Madison Square Garden Taft will return to his hotel and start on a return trip upstate.

Taft on Sugar Taft.
In the late afternoon and at night Taft continued his tour up the Hudson, closing his day's work with a speech at 10:30 at Troy. In all speeches he dwelt on the phases, measuring the effect of his audiences were largely composed of working men. He opposed, at Yonkers, Bryan's anti-trust remedy, the free-listing of trust-controlled commodities. Assuming, for argument's sake, that the Yonkers sugar refining industry was really controlled by the trust, he said what the Bryan plan, in his view of it, would do, saying:

"Mr. Bryan would take off the differential on sugar—that protection which is necessary to enable us to have an sugar refinery in this country. It would cause the establishment of refineries in Germany and all of our population here dependent on this refinery would be drawn to the west and would it destroy the trust, but with in the independent refineries. It is just as much opposed to monopoly as the Democratic party."

"It passed and enforced the anti-trust law, he believes in going directly at the evil of monopoly by punishing men for continuing it rather than by getting rid of the industrial and financial combinations of capital that have much utility and are of such benefit to the country. He believes in getting rid of the evil and not stamping out the corporation."

CAN'T WED BRIDE HE MARRIED AS A JOKE

Pair Seek Second Ceremony to Make
Union Legal—New License Revoked.
Sunbury, Pa., Oct. 28.—Married as a joke and wishing to be married in earnest, Miss Maude Eichelberger of Lewisburg and Arthur B. Orr of Pittsburg, came here today to get a license, but were refused one because Orr has a wife, from whom he has not been divorced.

The couple found that in the eyes of the law they are really married, and yet the bride gave a fictitious name. The pair is now in the strange position of being married, but not married. They want to be married, but can't be married.

Ort met Miss Eichelberger here today, and with several friends and with Attorney George B. Renn went to the office of the register and recorder at the courthouse for the purpose of making application for another marriage license, substituting the name of Miss Eichelberger for Matilda Smith, the assumed name on the license upon which they had been joined in marriage. It having been decided to have a second ceremony performed as the easiest way out of the love tangle.

Ort would be obliged to answer yes to the question, "Have you ever been married before?" as required, to secure the new license, and not being divorced, the license had to be refused.

The marriage license clerk informed the pair that he could not issue a new license on the ground that records making the fake marriage a reality.

If the law and the union can be reconciled the pair will live in Pittsburg.

GIRL FOOLS DAD AND EVERYBODY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Asheville, N. C., Oct. 24.—Miss Fayette Morrison, 17, an assistant to J. L. Morgan, a wealthy manufacturer of Marion, N. C., was sent by her father with her own car and a chaperone to Europe to prevent her marriage to W. P. Craig, a young poet and a school friend.

Craig, acquiring $2,000 by a stroke of good fortune, followed Miss Fayette to Europe and met her in Italy. Marriage of young Mr. Morrison is not easy in Italy, and the chaperone was able to rebuff Mr. Craig. She called the girl's father and he sent a second car set out for New York to sail for Italy.

Soon after the father had left Marion a cable came saying that Miss Morrison had sailed for New York.

There is now a distressed chaperone on the coast, in a nasty fix, as she is the wrong course on another and between them on the salt sea is the young woman.

BAKER BANTEL BADLY BURNED

May Lose Eyesight, Possibly Life—Member of Schmitz Government.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Oct. 28.—Charles A. Bantel, who was called from his bankshop to the office of city treasurer during the last Schmitz administration, and the employees of whose office are now under police investigation relative to the disappearance of more than $20,000 from the city's exchequer, was seriously burned today in the kitchen of his bakery and may lose his eyesight and possibly his life.

The furnace in the bakery is heated with crude oil. At times this congeals, and Bantel has been forced to heat it before lighting the burners. It is believed the oil in the drip pan became gradually heated and generated a gas which Bantel ignited. There was an explosion, and Bantel was heard by his wife in the restaurant above calling for aid. She called an ambulance, which was treated at the Emergency hospital and then removed to his home.

THUG'S VICTIM IS FAST RECOVERING

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Vancouver, Wash., Oct. 28.—George L. Heston, who was stabbed by two unknown men yesterday on Shaw street, is fast recovering and it is now believed beyond doubt that he will recover. Dr. Wray gave out this favorable report this morning.

Although every effort has been made to locate the man who did the stabbing, no trace of them has been secured, except that they are said to have crossed the railway bridge toward Vancouver. According to Heston the assailants were Italians.

"From the character of one of Heston's wounds a dull double-edged knife was used. The holdup men carried no revolvers. When attacked Heston was making his way along a shed in the Vancouver ferry slip toward the railway construction camp. He was going to the office of the contractor in connection with the Vancouver ice company several days ago.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Chicago, Oct. 28.—K. T. Miller of McMinnville, Or., was instantly killed at Gary, Ind., at an early hour this morning while walking through the yards of the Indiana & Harbor railway. Miller had been in Chicago for some time, where he was connected with a large drug concern for which he traveled in the west. A week ago he disappeared from the office, and was not seen again until a fellow employe was called upon to identify the body today. Miller was struck by a rapidly moving switch engine and both legs were crushed. He was identified by papers in his pockets.

BARNES AGAINST EAST SIDE PLAN

County Commissioner Barnes, himself a resident of the east side, does not favor building the new courthouse on the east side of the river. He said this morning that in his opinion the county should make use of the property it owns, which is well located for public purposes. He said that the plan is a disadvantage to the east side in putting the courthouse there. Most of those who live east of the courthouse would have to use the streetcars in any event, he argues, and in a few minutes more they can be carried over to the west side. On the west side is the commercial center and the offices of nearly all the attorneys and others whose work requires frequent trips to the county seat of business.

Commissioner Lightner, who lives at Anabel, on the Mount Scott line, outside the city, declined to be quoted on the subject at this time. County Judge Webster, the head of the county court, and the third man of the three who must decide the question, is out of the city.

"That the new tax levy will carry an appropriation for beginning work on a new courthouse is regarded as almost certain. This is the only county need that will call for an increase over last year, as the construction of the proposed new county hospital in south Portland can be taken care of with the proceeds of the sale of the present county farm property. The courthouse levy and increases necessary for city purposes are expected to increase the tax rate several mills over last year, when it stood at 14.2. This year's rate probably will be between 15 and 15 mills.
