

NEWS FORECAST OF COMING WEEK

Presidential Election About All There Is to It—Naval Affairs.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 31.—The one big event of the coming week for the people of the United States, and overshadowing all else in importance, will be the quadrennial national election of a president and vice-president. Seven national tickets are in the field, from which the voters may take their choice. In 25 states governors or other state officers are to be elected. Six states will choose justices of the supreme court or minor state officers. In seven states representatives only are to be elected, and in two representatives and a legislature only. Representatives in congress will be chosen in all states excepting Oregon, Vermont and Maine, which states held their election during the summer. The voters of Michigan will decide upon the adoption or rejection of a new constitution. In other states proposed constitutional amendments of importance will be voted upon.

Aside from the presidential contest, the results of the elections in several of the states are awaited with general interest. In New York the gubernatorial contest between Hughes and Chandler has attracted national attention. In Indiana and Ohio the contest over the liquor question is of widespread interest. The result in Speaker Cannon's district, the Eighteenth Illinois, is also awaited with interest, owing to the bitter fight that has been made by the labor element and others to prevent the speaker's reelection.

Newfoundland Election.
The quadrennial general election in Newfoundland takes place on the day preceding the election in the United States. Newfoundland enjoys an independent government apart from Canada, and at present moment has serious political differences with both her larger neighbor, a fishery dispute with the United States and a boundary dispute with Canada. Sir Robert Bond, the premier, is leading the government forces in the political contest, and the opposition is headed by Sir Edward Morris.

President Roosevelt will leave Washington for Oyster Bay Monday night and will vote early the following morning. His special train will reach Washington on the return trip about six o'clock on the night of election day in time for the president to receive the returns at the White House.

Naval Affairs.
The second squadron of the American battleship fleet under Admiral Sperry will conclude its stay at Amoy and proceed to Manila to rejoin the first squadron, which is due to reach the Philippine waters before resuming the trip around the world.

ASSESSABLE BANK STOCK.

Attorney-General Enlightens Inquirers on Difficult Question.
(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Oct. 31.—In response to a great many inquiries, the attorney-general holds that the assessment of bank stock as required by the law of 1907 must be determined by adding the stock surplus and undivided earnings, and taking from that sum the investments or real property made by the bank. This will give the stock upon which the banks under the new law must pay taxes.
