APPROVAL OF MODJESKI'S PLAN NOT UNANIMOUS

Though Citizens Generally Recognize Imperative Need for New Bridge, Not a Few Object to Structure Proposed by Engineer Employed as Expert.

With the election over and the question of the presidency settled for four years more, the people of Portland now have time to turn their attention to municipal affairs. The matter of a new bridge across the Willamette appears to be the question that is most in the public mind.

That Portland must have some additional means of transportation across the river appears to be admitted by everybody. But there is a good deal of difference of opinion as to what this means shall be.

Ralph Modjeski, the expert employed by the city, in his report to the city council and the mayor, favors the bascule type of bridge. His opinion is coincided in by many, but there are not a few who oppose the lift draw structure. Some of them object to the proposed location of the bridge. Others mere matter of detail. The council specified no particular kind of a bridge. The only requirement being that the bridge must be of a certain height and in a certain place.

"The plan of Modjeski is in view and I think everybody believes it will be adopted. Of course, all plans are an obstruction to navigation. The war department has the last say as to whether those proposed are objectionable. That is for the United States government to say."

"I think it is all a mistake to spend such a large amount of money down that part of town," said E. J. Hickey. "It is absurd. If we are going to spend the money, it should be for a better bridge. And to fix up the bridges we have now, put them in a state of efficiency. The steel bridge could easily be fixed up so that it would be much more efficient than it now is. I certainly think we ought to have the tube, too. We must have more facilities for crossing the river. Fully 85 per cent of the people come across the river in the streetcars. My idea is that the city should build itself for the needed amount of money, say for 25 or 30 years, and make the streetcar company pay it back."

Swigert Denies Story.
C. F. Swigert is indignant over a story published to the effect that he appeared before the board and, on behalf of the Port of Portland, opposed the bascule type of bridge as an obstruction to navigation.

"I never was in opposition to the bridge, either officially or personally," he said this morning. "It is the way some fools always get things. The man that wrote that story might as well have remained in his office to do it, for he merely wrote what he thought would make the most sensational story, without any regard to the fact."

"I stated distinctly that I was not present officially, and I never opposed the bridge. I did say that if there was to be any objection to the bascule bridge, it would be better to have it developed now than later, and the location of Portland is very glad to be relieved of any responsibility."

"I myself think the bascule bridge plan is a very good one, and the location selected is a good one. If we are going to have another bridge, I believe Mr. Modjeski's plan should be followed. He knows his business, and the city can't do better than to take his advice in the matter."

McKenna Favors Bascule.
Francis I. McKenna, although he has personally favored a subway, is willing to submit to the judgment of the expert.

"I am not a bridge expert," he said, "and would not set my judgment up against that of Mr. Modjeski. I have advocated a subway, but Mr. Modjeski says it is not practicable, and I am willing to take his word for it."

"But we must get better facilities. If we can't go under the river, we must go over it. Of course, a bridge is bound to be more or less of an obstruction to navigation, but we can't get around that. The congestion on the bridges we now have is unendurable. Mr. Modjeski says a bascule bridge is the best thing, and it is an expert and he ought to know."

"I think it would be better for the present to take the O. R. & N. bridge and make a good wagon bridge out of that," said C. F. Adams, president of the Security Savings & Trust company. "As to the bridge recommended by Mr.

Modjeski, I don't care to express an opinion at present. I haven't studied the matter."

Thinks Modjeski Right.
J. H. Nolte, a prominent member of the West Albina Push club, is heartily in favor of the bascule bridge recommended by Engineer Modjeski. "Mr. Modjeski ought to know what is best," says Mr. Nolte. "There is no need of our going to work and spending $3,000,000 for a bridge if we can get one for $1,500,000."

"We need a bridge badly—and what's more, are going to have it. Our push club has endorsed the bascule bridge recommended by Mr. Modjeski. East Portland, Holladay, Alberta and the city of Astoria are not going to vote bonds for a bridge if it is to be stuck away off down the river where they will never have any use for it. They want it located where it will serve them, as well as us."

MADE BIGAMIST BY FORCED MARRIAGE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Chicago, Oct. 26.—Robert Mitchell, a chair mender, is being brought here today from Red Bluff charged with bigamy as the result of his marriage to the 45-year-old wife of George Burch. Mitchell left here with the girl several weeks ago and was compelled to marry her in Girdley to escape prosecution.

Subsequently, it is declared, a woman said to be Mitchell's first wife informed of the marriage and is said to be determined to prosecute her alleged husband.

The parts you can't see in a shoe are just as important as any parts of it; the inner soles, the counters, the parts that help or lessen the wear.

It's an easy way for makers to cheat in shoes, and even experts can't see the fraud after the shoe is made. You NEVER have any DOUBT about a SELZ ROYAL BLUE Shoe; they're not cheapened by poor materials in any way.
