One of the prettiest weddings of the season was celebrated at the Portland hotel last Wednesday evening when Miss Carolyn Solomon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Solomon, and St. Wolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Wolf, were married. The hotel parlor was beautifully decorated for the occasion with chrysanthemums, greens and potted plants, intermingled with colored electric lights, which lent a pleasant effect to the beautiful surroundings. During the ceremony Wiley's orchestra played. The bride entered with her father and took her place beneath a beautiful marriage veil. She was crowned in white duchess trimmed with allover lace. Rev. R. Abramson, assisted by Dr. Jonah B. Wise of Temple Beth Israel, performed the ceremony and the guests partook of a wedding supper in the hotel dining room, which was also beautifully decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums. Numerous telegrams of congratulation were read by Alex. Miller, who acted as toastmaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolf left on the early morning train for California. The bride and groom were accompanied by the bride's mother and her sister, Mrs. H. Wolf, the mother of the groom, who was given in an imported black satin trimmed in real lace and wore diamonds. The bridesmaids looked beautiful in gowns of white lingerie.

A pretty marriage ceremony took place at Trinity church last Saturday evening. Miss Ella Imus of Kalama, Wash., and Fred Keiser of San Francisco were united in holy matrimony. Miss Anne Cooper attended her and B. V. Holmes attended the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Keiser will reside in Portland for a time prior to leaving for Los Angeles.

Albert G. Adams and Miss Mary V. Dempsey were married at high noon Monday at 11:40 Gay street. Rev. J. Bowersox performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends. They will be at home to their friends at 921 Francis avenue, of our city.

Edward T. Sommers and Miss Queen Wood were married in the reception room of the White Temple Saturday by Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, D. D. Only intimate friends were in attendance.

Harry W. Farr and Miss Winifred Newell were married in the reception room of the White Temple Monday night by Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, D. D.

Alexander A. Oller and Miss Charlotte R. McInnis were married in the study of the White Temple on Thursday evening, by Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, D. D.

Wednesday evening a very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mrs. V. A. McKnight at Scio, when her daughter, Miss Claudia, became the wife of W. Frank Gill, one of Scio's most prominent and successful business men. At 8 o'clock, as the wedding march was played by Miss Leaning, sister of the bridegroom, the bride entered the parlor and stood beneath a canopy of cream and chrysanthemums, where the ring ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. Carman. The bride looked charming in a gown of crepe de chine trimmed with lace applique, and carried a shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo. The home was artistically decorated, the parlor in ferns and chrysanthemums, and the living-room in autumn leaves and the dining-room in festoons of ivy and pink carnations. The same color scheme was carried out in the refreshments. After congratulations a dainty buffet supper was served to some 40 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Gill left their wedding trip for the sound cities. They will be at home to their friends in Scio after November 15.

Miss Hazel Dolph is visiting in San Francisco, the guest of Mrs. Eleanor Martin, and the San Francisco papers speak of her as one of the most delightful visitors of the season there. Miss Dolph has been a welcome guest at Mrs. Martin's home before and three years ago, when the latter had the honor of being the only hostess who entertained Mrs. Nicholas Longworth (then Miss Alice Roosevelt) on her return from the Orient with the Taft party. Miss Dolph was in the receiving line and brought forth almost as much comment as did Miss Roosevelt.

Mrs. Peter Martin of New York, who was Miss Lillie Beltrich, it will be remembered, is also a guest of Mrs. Martin, and many attentions are being shown the popular young matron and Miss Dolph. The Mrs. Martin mention a fashionable box party at the theatre, at which Mr. and Mrs. Peter Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Spreckles and Miss Hazel Dolph were the guests. Mrs. Eleanor Martin is especially granted the place as the leader of San Francisco and her New York affiliations give her prestige there, as well as in the western city.

The Leisure Hour Reading club was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. A. A. Wilson on Independence on Friday afternoon, October 30. The hostesses were Mrs. A. A. Wilson, Mrs. E. Owen, Mrs. J. Hubbard and Mrs. E. Damon. The rooms were artistically decorated with autumn leaves, red geraniums and great bunches of cosmos and lighted by huge jack o' lanterns. Delicious refreshments were served. Those present were Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Honkle, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Kirklind, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Kitch, Mrs. Irvine, Mrs. Padlock, Mrs. Dickinson, Mrs. Messner, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Eldridge, Mrs. Drexler, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Conkey, Mrs. Ketchum, Mrs. Bowden, Mrs. Fitchard, Mrs. Chappel, Miss Burton, Miss Pomeroy and Miss Dorangity.

Seven Sisters in Wedding Party. From the Chicago News. Mrs. John Sweeney, 1579 Kenmore avenue, and seven of her eight daughters helped to make up a unique wedding party Wednesday night, when two of the daughters—Miss Katherine and Miss Alice—were married in St. Mary's of the Lake church to Thomas J. Hyland and Gerald Tunnah respectively. Because of the close family resemblance between the young women much facetious apprehension was expressed by the guests. The bridegrooms were experienced embarrassment at the altar. The brides were attended by the twin sisters of Miss Katherine, Mrs. Walter Birmingham and Mrs. Alice Hyland, who fell in line as bridesmaids, one sister being ill. The bridesmaids were all similarly attired.

Bringing Eastern Beef to the Coast. You often hear the remark: "Why cannot we get as good a steak or roast as the ones we have in New York and other large eastern cities?" This is the answer: The meat used in first class eastern grades is cut from young, well-bred, corn-fattened steers which commands the highest market price. This is the kind of meat that they are bringing direct from the coast and from which they are cutting their steaks and roasts, and you can easily satisfy yourself of the excellence of the same by trying one at Perkins Grill.

FALL FASHIONS IN EVENING WRAPS AND DINNER GOWNS

Costly and beautiful are the evening wraps worn by the women of fashion as the autumn nights grow cool. The broad and simple lines on which evening wraps must be designed give the artistic mind full sway, and it is safe to say that a woman never looks handsomer than when attired in a becoming wrap of rich texture and harmonious coloring. Many of the new theatre wraps are made of fine cassimere and of chiffon cloth, giving a change from the velvet and satin wraps of a short time ago. The dull finished satins and the shimmering velvets will come to the front again, probably, as the opera season opens.

The beautiful collarless opera cloak seen in the illustration is of cream chiffon broadcloth with Mandarin sleeves. The trimmings are a heavy silk roll, silver braid and tassels and rich appliques.

The gown with which it is worn, as well as the coat are from Olds, Wortman & King's, and was specially posed for The Journal. The imported gown for evening or dinner which is made of satin with yoke and hair sleeves of gold lace. The front which is of brocade in white and gold is draped slightly about the figure and falls at the back in a cascade of net and real lace. The long, light sleeves and the yoke and underlay are of lace and net. The charming simplicity of lines and the harmony of color commend this gown particularly. The hat worn with it is the product of the Olds, Wortman & King workrooms. It is made of white Ottoman silk faced with the same material in the new taupe shade and trimmed with handsome willow ostrich plumes set off with one great yellow rose.

Great variety is seen in trimmings this season and embroidery, either in self color or in rainbow hues, is seen on many of the imported models. Nets which have figured prominently during the summer are more and more beautiful, especially when elaborated with embroidery, as in this handsome imported evening or reception gown from the Meyer and Frank company which is made of white silk net, heavily hand embroidered in rose design, using the large pearl for the center. The combination of soft colors in the embroidery is particularly pleasing, showing gold, silver and iridescent shades of silks and spangles for foliage. The net is mounted over an under gown of silk in rainbow hues.

The beauty of this gown in its coloring can be only faintly imagined from a newspaper cut. The sheath effect and the long sweeping train give it dignity. It has a transparent yoke with high collar finished with a Queen Elizabeth ruche and dainty short sleeves. The gloves worn with this costume are a fine white French kid with beautiful must meet many eyes, they must yet be unobtrusive; they must be distinctive, and they must be eminently practical. All of these must be met by the handsome street suit of imported navy chiffon broadcloth from the Meyer & Frank company.

The model shown is the latest cut, has the extreme long semi-fitting coat with wide pockets and trimmed with military braiding, giving a rich effect without too much elaboration. Large buttons trim the long coat sleeve, the pocket flaps and the corresponding trimming on the skirt which is made with a half tunic effect and trimmed with the braid. The simple cut of the skirt proclaims it as the latest thought in walking suits. A large hat trimmed with dashing white wings gives piquancy to the whole.

Pennsylvania's Buried Coins. From the Punsxutawney Spirit. Tuesday morning a basket containing about half a peck of currency, consisting of gold and silver, was brought from the home of the late George Zimmerman at Falmouth, Lancaster county, and deposited in a bank at Middletown. Since the death of Mr. Zimmerman a search of the premises is being made and money of all descriptions is being found in trunks, corners of the rooms, old boxes and many other places where only a man of the owner's eccentric nature would think of hiding it. Some of the pieces found are old and rare.

THEIR SECRETS

Indians Say That Medicine Men Get Tips From Dreams. From the Denver Field and Farm. A young Indian, who is ambitious to become a doctor, and finally a prophet, learns from his father or other members of his tribe the name and medicinal properties of some herb. He can also, by presenting a sufficient number of ponies to a medicine man, prevail upon the doctor to impart the secret of the herbs to him. Frequently Indians allude to a dream or by a bird or an animal. After procuring it the novice is prepared to begin the practice of medicine. Success in their which the great spirit, and in order to invoke the help of the supernatural they resort to various sacrifices.

For instance, there is the practice of ascending a butte or other elevation and lying with the face to the ground for several days without food or until they are completely exhausted. During this period they profess to have been taught some song or the great spirit converses with them through a weed, a bird, wild animal or reptile. They frequently allege that they understand what the animals say. While in little ponches which they tie with sinews. These are painted brilliant colors and fastened to willow sticks about the size of the shaft of an arrow but somewhat longer.

Occasionally as a substitute for these and lying with the face to the ground or crevices of rocks on top of a hill. This is done to gain favor with the great spirit and secure his assistance in making their practice successful or curing the patient under their charge. The tobacco or flannel custom is no doubt of oriental origin. They have of course in the meantime given the patient a connection of medi-
