

CONDON LEAVES THE "DRY" PATH

Saloons at Gilliam's County Seat Will Reopen November 15.

Near Beer Test at Eugene.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Eugene, Or., Nov. 6.—To test the validity of the city ordinance prohibiting the sale of near beer in Eugene, Charles F. Kuthe, a local cigar dealer, was arrested yesterday afternoon. He was found guilty in police court and was fined $25. His attorney will at once take the case to the circuit court, and if decided against him will carry it to the supreme court.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Condon, Or., Nov. 6.—Condon's "dry" spell under local option is about to be a thing of the past. The city council at its last meeting gave an understanding to the saloonmen that they would be given licenses to run their places of business beginning November 15. The council has been guided in its decision by the action taken in the Medford case. Condon's charter being similar to that city's. The main contention was whether the license should be raised and the number of saloons limited to the five in business when the local option law took effect, or whether the license should remain at $400 and the number of saloons unlimited. The council favors the raising of the license to $1,000.
The residents of the city are agitated over the prospect of "wet" days again, after they had voted for a dry town, but the city needs the money to run its bonded water system. During Condon's five months "dry" spell marked changes have taken place, but not for the worst, as predicted by a great many of the anti-local option law. Ten places of business have been started, one livery stable is being built, and an imposing structure, the home of the St. Thomas academy, costing $30,000, is nearing completion.

OLD COUPLE FIGHT OVER THEIR WEALTH

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Eureka, Cal., Nov. 6.—Charging that her husband is insane and that he will soon have to be confined in an asylum, Mrs. J. B. Watkins, wife of an aged millionaire lumberman, is preparing a defense to a charge of attempt to commit murder filed against her yesterday by her husband.
Mrs. Watkins is out of jail on $45,000 bail and declares the wife's startling testimony at her preliminary hearing tomorrow.
Watkins caused the arrest of his wife after a long series of domestic troubles. He charges that on October 23 she tried to shoot him and that the failure of the cartridge to explode was all that saved his life. Watkins says his wife tried several times to kill him. He says that she was intent on getting his millions and one time tried to bribe his chauffeur to run him over a cliff in an automobile.
Mrs. Watkins says her arrest is spite work and that her husband is trying to rob her of her share of the proceeds of his timber sales.
The old people have been living apart for some time. The attorneys for both sides have almost arranged an settlement when Mrs. Watkins filed homestead rights on the residence, over the protests of her husband. Her arrest followed.
The family is one of the most prominent in northern California.

FINE OF JAIL FOR SPEEDY CHAUFFEUR

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Nov. 6.—Jailed for exceeding the speed law, Ellis H. Kulp, a chauffeur, had two years' sentence pending against him, after conviction yesterday of escaping from an officer who had arrested him for a similar offense. The total result is a sentence against him for $150 or 20 days in the Tombs prison.
Kulp was employed as a demonstrator with an automobile firm when he made his first sensational speed record. He had the wealthy merchant and his women in the machine on a demonstration trip, when Motorcycle Sergeant Nerny told him he was under arrest for speeding. Kulp turned on the power and the machine began a dizzy career that left the policeman far in the rear. The automobile was not stopped until the merchant compelled Kulp to allow him and the three hysterical women to leave the vehicle.
Later Kulp was arrested for speeding in another instance, was recognized by Nerny and additional charges of speeding and escaping arrest were brought against him.

CARUSO RAVES AND CUSSES SOME MORE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Nov. 6.—"I am not married. It is all false. It is a damnable lie to blacken my reputation. It must be stopped."
Enrico Caruso, the famous tenor, walked up and down his room in his hotel and waved his arms as he denounced the story that he had married a rich American girl, Lillian G. Berbourg.
The story was printed in an Italian newspaper, L'Espresso. According to the paper, Caruso had not been separated from his former wife more than a few weeks when he received a letter from Miss Berbourg stating that she had much money. The paper says a meeting followed the missive and a marriage followed the meeting.
"The story originated in South America among some of my enemies," shouted Caruso to a newspaper man. "From there it was sent to Germany to turn my friends against me. From Germany it went to Italy and from there to Paris and now it has come here. It must be stopped."

CHINESE CHILDREN SING FOR PRESIDENT

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Nov. 6.—Nineteen diminutive Chinese children are preparing to return to their homes in San Francisco after having accomplished the object of their visit to the capital by singing American songs for President Roosevelt. Each possesses an autograph picture of the chief executive and proud recollections of this entertainment here and at Philadelphia, where the chorps had been attending a meeting under the auspices of the Methodist church.
All of the children are girls with the exception of one, a 9-year-old boy. None is more than 13 years of age. They are the pick of the oriental rescue home in San Francisco, where Chinese orphan children are rescued from the slums and educated.
The youngsters sang "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and conversed with the president.
The little boy delighted the president by remarking during the interview: "When I was in Lincoln I was for Bryan, but here I am for Taft."

TEXAS AWAITS H. CLAY PIERCE

If She Ever Gets Him She May Send Him to the Pen for Five Years.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Austin, Texas, Nov. 6.—The attorney-general's office hopes the report will prove true that Henry Clay Pierce, chairman of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, will voluntarily come to Texas next week to stand trial on the long-pending indictment against him. It marks the beginning of the end of a case that has cost the state of Texas a vast amount of time and money. Every effort will be put forth to try the case without unnecessary delay. It will be called before Judge Calhoun of the Fifty-third district court, but it is believed an effort will be made to get a change of venue.
The troubles between the state of Texas and the Waters-Pierce Oil company date back nearly a decade, but the charge against H. Clay Pierce on which he is to be placed on trial dates back to two years ago this month. It was in November, 1906, that the Travis county grand jury returned an indictment against Mr. Pierce, charging him with false swearing. The indictment charges that Pierce, on May 21, 1900, made an affidavit that the Waters-Pierce Oil company had not entered into any agreement, partnership, firm, or individual to regulate the price of any article or commodity. It charges that at the time Pierce made the affidavit he knew that the company had entered into an agreement with the Standard Oil company, John D. Rockefeller, John D. Archbold, H. H. Rogers and others to control the price of oil in Texas, and that the Standard Oil company had acquired a controlling interest in the Waters-Pierce company.
A vigorous fight has been made by Mr. Pierce to prevent extradition to this state. His last recourse was exhausted two weeks ago when the supreme court of the United States denied his motion for a rehearing and sustained the lower court's decision that Mr. Pierce must stand trial before the Texas courts.
Perjury in the state of Texas is punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term of not less than five years. The minimum punishment for false swearing is two years.

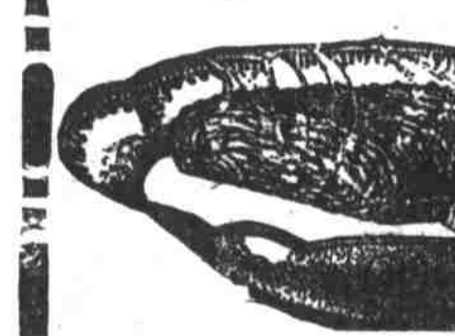

MASHER CAPTURED AFTER MAD RACE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Nov. 6.—Marcelle Husen, a Swiss butcher, is out on bail following accusations brought against him of annoying the women guests of the Fairmont hotel yesterday. His captors, Police Captain Duke and Police Mayor James D. Phelan, who caught the alleged masher after a race of several blocks in automobiles down the precipitous slope of Nob Hill.
Police headquarters was notified late in the afternoon that a man was accosting women at the hotel entrance. Captain Duke jumped into the police automobile and hurried to Fairmont. He tackled Husen, who is twice his size, and after a struggle Husen broke away and ran down the hill. He was followed by Duke in the machine and by former Mayor Phelan, who saw the last of the fight as he emerged from the hotel. Phelan sprang into his machine and the race was on. Several blocks down the hill Husen fell and Duke and Phelan were on him in an instant. The man was handcuffed and removed to police headquarters.

MRS. UNRUH IN PHILADELPHIA

Oregon Temperance Lecturer Opens Campaign in Quaker City.

"Crosses Continent to Fight Liquor." is the heading over the following description appearing in the Evening Telegraph of the arrival of Mrs. Ada Wallace Unruh in Philadelphia:
"Within five years the whole United States will have become 'dry.' Within seven years an amendment prohibiting the liquor traffic will have been incorporated into the constitution. Within 15 years people will look upon the use of liquor as they now look upon the use of drugs."
"This is the way that Ada Wallace Unruh defines the future of the prohibition movement. Mrs. Unruh is official lecturer of the W. C. T. U. She is in Philadelphia to conduct a campaign of a week against the demon drink.
"Seaborn Wright of Georgia was to have headed the onslaught, but at the last moment he withdrew. Hence Mrs. Unruh was hurriedly summoned from the W. C. T. U. convention at Denver to fill his place.
"Mrs. Unruh addressed her first meeting last night. Her schedule of speeches extends through till Monday. She plans to conduct several noonday shop meetings among the working men. She will try to win them over to the prohibition movement.
"Mrs. Unruh is a veteran campaigner for her chosen cause. For 25 years she has lectured in its favor. She has seen it leap to success. Now she predicts its future.
"One half of the population of the United States today is living in dry territory," she says, "and 75 per cent of this territory has been won from the liquor interests within one year. The growth of the temperance movement is one of the most remarkable things in modern history."
"Georgia, Oklahoma, Alabama, Mississippi and North Carolina are our new solid dry states. Our old ones are North Dakota, Maine and Kansas. Most of our other strongholds are by counties in local option states. Gradually our hold is becoming complete."
"Of course, the last stand of the liquor men will be made in the great cities. Under the local option plan we could not win them. But this can be overcome. We have a state election, the country districts have the power, and the cities find themselves dry. In a short time they realize what a real benefit it is. Atlanta, which cried out against us at first, is now with us."
"People ask us 'What will take the place of the saloon as the workingman's club?' The answer is simple. The Young Men's Christian Association, with its wonderful educational advantages; the institutes, all sorts of humanitarian organizations, will not only replace the saloon, but will benefit our men instead of making swine of them."
"The remarkable spread of prohibition is not due to a hysteria, but to the fact that sober thought shows that it is best. That is why we are winning, and shall continue to win."

LAW INVOKED ON LYNCHERS

Seven Alaska Miners in Trouble for Torturing Supposed Thief.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Valdez, Alaska, Nov. 6.—Seven men are to be tried next week at Valdez for the attempted lynching of J. E. Kenney at Lake Creek, near Cook Inlet, last fall. The trouble arose over the reported theft of $2,300 in gold dust from one of the miners. Kenney was accused of taking the dust. A posse consisting of Ed Cone, D. McManus, T. D. Ellixson, Frank Dunn, Frank Church, Charles Harper, A. R. Young and Sam Wagner strung Kenney up to a tree and threatened to hang him unless he returned the gold. Kenney insisted on his innocence, although he was left hanging until nearly dead, and the men finally released him.
In addition to criminal action against the lynchers, Kenney has filed a civil suit asking for $25,000 damages.
Only five of the members of the posse have been arrested.

JAMAICA GINGER IS MOST JAGFUL

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 6.—The officials of Sawtelle, where the soldiers' home is situated, are endeavoring to discover a means whereby the sale of Jamaica ginger to the old soldiers may be stopped. The complaint of the officials of the home is that the soldiers purchase enough ginger for 20 cents to get them on a Jamaica ginger jag for 20 days.
"It not only intoxicates but it crazes the men," said a prominent official today. "It is killing off the veterans by the score. While we have some men here who can drink a bottle of it in a few swallows, I can't stand more than a drop or two on my tongue. It is so strong. Sometimes the mixture contains as high as 92 per cent alcohol, although the usual quantity is 35 per cent."
The district attorney is making an investigation but cannot see his way to prosecute the sellers, as the drug is sold generally and has medicinal qualities if properly used.
