CITY GARBAGE CREMATORY IN DEPLORABLE CONDITION

Portland, Or., Nov. 10.—To the Editor of The Journal—I visited the garbage crematory grounds last Saturday and had an interview with Superintendent Daggert, who showed me over the plant and grounds. The site is an admirable one. The grounds run down an easy slope from the crematory to the lake. During Mr. Daggert's term of office he has made about three and a half acres of excellent ground which can be used for truck gardens. This should bring a high rent to the city. There are in all about six acres of ground.

so that they will make a proper appropriation, but they refuse to do so, or to place the plant in working condition. The present crematory is old-fashioned. I do not believe there is another of the same kind in any other American city of the same population. It would not require a great expenditure of money to have a first-class plant erected on the same grounds. By doing this the old crematory could be put in condition so that it could be used in case the new one required attention. It is impossible to do this work with less than two crematories. It is as necessary to have two as it is to have two boilers in a sawmill. As the present crematory is constructed it is difficult to keep the flues clean. There is just room for a man to crawl in on all four when the ashes are to be removed, which is a dangerous proceeding on account of the accumulation of gas. While one man does this one or more men remain on watch, as they expect an accident. Were a modern crematory constructed there would be no risk involved in the cleaning.

TO ETERNITY VIA THE R. R. TRACK

Wallowa County Man Waits for Train Wheels to Crush Out Life.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pendleton, Or., Nov. 10.—Resting his head upon the rails, W. T. Bunnell, a laborer 35 years of age, waited for train No. 7 to send him to eternity Sunday afternoon. The tragedy took place near Spofford warehouse, between Walla Walla and Milton. Bunnell had been brooding over the death of his wife, and the breaking up of his home, and it is believed that these reasons determined what the authorities believe was his suicide. The man left no notes explaining his act and had in no way indicated his intention. The spot where the killing occurred is one of the most desolate along the line of the railroad. No reason is known for Bunnell's having been there, as he had left Walla Walla Sunday morning for the Fred Stein ranch, where he was employed, and had evidently gone out of his way to get to Spofford. Having reached that point he calmly laid down on the track and waited for the coming of death. Unable to Stop Train. At Spofford the train comes down grade, going into Walla Walla. The engineer of No. 7 noticed a dark object on the track when he was some distance from the man, but believed it to be a pig. Under this impression he whistled, but it was not until very near the man that he was able to distinguish Bunnell and applied his force. The train was coming with such force that it was impossible to prevent what followed. Almost at the same instant air was applied Bunnell's purpose seems to have failed him. From the injuries the man received it is evident that at the last moment he attempted to hurl himself from under the wheels. In doing so he seized the rail with his right hand which was crushed into a shapeless mass, and saved himself from decapitation, but was struck on the head by the engineer's pilot, receiving a frightful hole in the top of his head, while his chin was split and the entire front of his mouth crushed in.

COURT TO TRY PASTOR YOUNG

Bishop Forming Ecclesiastical Tribunal on Edna Clark Case.

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Mateo, Cal., Nov. 10.—Bishop William Ford Nichols of the Episcopal Church in California is at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific today in consultation with the professors of the institution regarding the makeup of the court of inquiry that is to look into the charges that have been made against Rev. Payson Young, rector of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, at San Francisco, in connection with the strange disappearance of Edna Clark, the Alameda artist student. To a United Press correspondent Bishop Nichols said he was at work on the court of inquiry and would probably announce its makeup tonight. "In giving the matter my immediate personal attention and it will be placed in the hands of a court of inquiry very soon," said Bishop Nichols. Bishop Nichols refused to discuss any of the phases of the case, either as to the alleged relations between the missing girl and the rector, the various theories concerning the whereabouts of Edna Clark, or accusations that have been made against Father Young outside this case. He was to be judge of the court, he said, and could not talk about any of the facts. and the army board and has been pronounced sane and physically fit, with the exception of a slight defect in his hearing.

PICKETT SAYS A FOE WORKS IN WASHINGTON

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—An order has come from the war department at Washington that Major George T. Pickett, son of the late General Pickett, who served in the Confederate army and was made famous by Pickett's charge at Gettysburg, shall go before a retiring board. This is the second order in six months. Major Pickett says he thinks he has an enemy at Washington who is trying to accomplish his retirement from the army.

TRAINS IN WRECK; CONDUCTOR DYING

St. Paul Train Out of Butte, Mont., in Collision With a Freight Train.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Butte, Mont., Nov. 10.—St. Paul passenger train No. 6, leaving here at 8 o'clock this morning, was wrecked seven miles east of here in collision with a west-bound freight train. Arthur F. Beers, conductor of the freight train, is dying in a hospital. Both of his legs were cut off. Half a dozen freight cars are piled up on the track and the baggage of the passenger is smashed. All others escaped with only a shaking up. Georgia's State Chemist Princes Cottolene. Mr. J. H. McCandless, State Chemist of Georgia, before a recent gathering gave emphatic testimony to the high quality of Cottolene. He said: "The sale of this product, and the production that it is made from cotton seed oil, have done more to bring cotton seed oil truthfully and favorably before the public than anything else in recent history."
