LA ROSE ASSAULT CASE TO TE KNOTS

Justices of Peace Unwilling to Turn Marriage Fees Over to County.

It looks like a hard winter for lovers. One ex-officio justice of the peace has already refused to perform any more marriage ceremonies, and now the two regular justices of the city declare that if they cannot retain the fees they will tie no more matrimonial knots.

Just before the noon adjournment the struggle was renewed on the attempt of the state to produce testimony showing that La Rose assaulted Hyman. The admission of this testimony was left in the balance, the defense contending that it is much weaker than in the Chinese case, because just after the arrest of La Rose, Herman was not certain that the defendant was the man that hit him, and on one occasion said that La Rose was not the man, although he now identifies the defendant.

Patrolman Circle testified that he picked up the pipe in the Chinaman's shop, and after the assault on La Rose and Chong testified that the pipe that was shown him looked like the one La Rose carried under his coat when he came into the store. The Chinaman also testified that he had no other pipe around the store, but he weakened his testimony by saying that the pipe which he carried was wrapped in newspaper, while the pipe exhibited in court had ordinary wrapping paper around it.

Will Move to Strike. Before the case closes the defense will move to strike out all testimony relating to the assault on the Chinaman, and evidently stands in good position to have this done. In that case the jury will be instructed to disregard all evidence connecting La Rose with the assault on the Chinaman.
