STATEMENT 1 LEGISLATOR REPLIES TO CHARGES

B. F. Jones, Representative for Lincoln and Polk Counties, Shows Inconsistency of the Oregonian's Attitude Toward the Direct Primary Law.

Independence, Or., Nov. 12.—To the Editor of The Journal—Believing in the doctrine of free speech and a free press, I grant the Oregonian the right to censure and vilify Statement No. 1 Republican members of the legislature to its heart's content. For the past six months a large portion of the editorial page of that paper has, in nearly every issue, been devoted to abuse of us poor devils, and knowing that the value of so much space in a great metropolitan paper is very great, I cannot conceive how that paper can afford to waste so much on us. Statement No. 1 members whom it has already by the popular vote, elected to the position of United States senator is behind the scene with a sack.

Being a free born American citizen, I do not like to lie down "Like a bearded hound beneath his master's lash." Not being the owner of a newspaper, I ask you for a little space to defend myself from the curses and abuse of this great paper. Believing in the doctrine that abuse is not always argument, I shall not take up your valuable space by calling the editor of the Oregonian vile names.

I concede that the Oregonian has for 30 years been the leading Republican paper in Oregon, and that the Oregonian worked hard, and did more to cause the enactment of the direct primary law than all the other forces in Oregon combined. I concede that the Republican party passed the primary law. I concede that it was largely through the influence of the Oregonian that 66,000 people voted for the primary law and election of United States senators by the popular vote, whereas only 18,000 voted against it.

Who Passed the Law?

"Backward, turn backward, oh, time, in your flight, only a few years ago to the hall of the state senate, and we find the electric light shining brightly on the men who formulated and voted for the law for the election of United States senators by the popular vote, all prominent in the councils of the Republican party. Here they are:

Senators—J. M. Marston, Brownell of Clackamas, Cameron of Jackson, Dinkley of Wheeler, Hunt of Multnomah, Johnson of Wasco, Loomis of Marion, Kelly of Linn, Kuykendall of Lane, Loomis of Marion, Masters of Douglas, Mays (author of the bill), of Multnomah, Mulkey of Polk, Porter of Clackamas, Probst of Umatilla, Stewart of Wheeler, and Williamson of Crook.

And President Senator Fulton: "Turn back again for the time for 20 years, and come on down the line, and we find every Republican state convention passing resolutions in favor of election of United States senators by the popular vote and the legislators of the state of Oregon following suit. All these resolutions and laws are violated even before the people have had an opportunity to try them out or enforce them."

Backward again, a little more than a decade, and we find that some of the now Republican leaders were then wandering away from the Republican fold, following after false gods, and voting in vain. It does not say that a man must be of a certain brand of Republican or Democrat.

The Republican party passed the primary law. All the Republican leaders of Oregon advocated it. Mr. Scott wrote some of the most able editorials that have ever been published in this state. Lincoln has said that "the best way to repeal a bad law is to enforce it." I have confidence in the people and in the Republican party that if they find the primary law is not a good law they will by their votes repeal it.

Wrote on Corruption.

The editor of The Oregonian has written many good, able articles in the past 20 years showing up the corruption and evils of the senatorial election at Salem. He has written many able articles about the use of money and the buying of votes and the holds ups in the Oregon legislature, and has been so unkind as to say that money was "spasmodic" as a means of election. In the session of 1903 to elect a United States senator, and he published affidavits that two of the leaders of the Republican party in Oregon actually gave a member of the legislature the sum of $1,000 for his vote. There is no prospect of a Statement No. 1 man ever getting $1,000, or any other sum, for his vote unless he violates his pledge made to the people.

It is to be hoped that wisdom will not die with The Oregonian and that some modern abuses will come forth and stand around the scattered hosts of the Republican party that Mr. Scott has kicked out, and that before another election rolls around they will be united, and that the Republican candidate who has been nominated at the primaries will be elected at the following election.

Probably these headlines have appeared in The Oregonian 100 times since the June election.

"Democrats Proved to Have Sworn in as Republicans and then voted for Cate in the primaries to defeat Senator Fulton. Granting that this is true, is it not also a fact that a large number of Republicans who registered as such and who also swore that they were Republicans, deliberately, with malice forethought, walked up to the polls and voted for George E. Chamberlain for United States senator?" By their votes they recommended that Chamberlain be elected as senator, and in November only a few months later, they came back to the fold of the Republican party and voted for President.

But the able editor of The Oregonian will say, as well as some prominent leaders of the Republican party: "Oh, we just voted for Mr. Chamberlain to put Statement No. 1 men out of business. We now want to reorganize the Republican party in Oregon and cut out all timber that does not come up to Scott's standard of Republicanism."

GRAND TRUNK LINES REBUILT

Railway Officials at Detroit Celebrate Great Construction Feat.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 12.—Many prominent railway men, promoters and civil engineers of the United States and Canada gathered in this city today to take part in a celebration arranged by the Grand Trunk railway to mark the formal taking over of the tunnel under the St. Clair river, the electrification of which was recently completed. The tunnel extends from Sarnia, Ont., to Port Huron, Mich., and it was at the latter point that the ceremonies of the day took place.

The electrification of the tunnel cost the company upwards of $1,000,000. The work, however, was but a small part of the gigantic task of reconstructing and standardizing the entire Grand Trunk railway system, which began 10 years ago, and has now been completed. To put the Grand Trunk in a position to take its place among the great trunk lines of the east the company has expended during these 10 years a sum approximating $83,000,000. In rebuilding of the road a total of 609 additional miles of double track have been constructed at a cost of $15,000,000, which is an increase in mileage of 1,634 miles. The cost of new rails was nearly $13,000,000. Nearly 200,000 new steel rails, more than $6,000,000 in purchasing locomotives, and nearly $2,000,000 in providing new passenger equipment.

LOOKING FOR TURKEY FOR THE ROOSEVELTS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Providence, R. I., Nov. 12.—On Thanksgiving as usual a mammoth Rhode Island turkey is to grace the holiday table at the White House. And as usual the turkey in all probability will come from Connecticut. Most of the Rhode Island turkeys now come from the Nutmeg state, just as most of the Vermont birds, formerly the best accepted substitutes for the Rhode Island bird, now come from Kentucky. Horace Vose of Westerly, this state, known all over the country as the Thanksgiving provider for the president—who has furnished the turkey to every president from Grant to Roosevelt—is on the alert for the best bird reared in this section of New England for the Thanksgiving dinner of the Roosevelt family. As this is to be Mr. Roosevelt's last Thanksgiving in the White House, Mr. Vose says he hopes to be able to send him a bird that will be record-breaker as regards both size and fine flavor. Mr. Vose has been looking over the flocks, but as yet is undecided as to what particular turkey will be sent to the president.

To Improve Tennessee River.

Huntsville, Ala., Nov. 12.—The Tennessee River Improvement association met in convention in this city today with a good attendance of delegates from the several states interested in the improvement of the waterway. The association purports to put forth every endeavor to secure an appropriation from the coming session of congress to carry out the plans for the improvement of the river in order to make it navigable.

RELENTLESS WAR ON SHEEP PEST

Wool Growers Will Urge the Legislature to Increase Coyote Bounty.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Pendleton, Or., Nov. 12.—Heavy pressure will be brought to bear on the legislature when it convenes this winter by the sheepmen of eastern Oregon and the Willamette valley to secure a bounty of from $1 to $1.50 per coyote. The pest is already ravaging flocks in the western part of the state and its depredations will exceed those of any former year on account of its increasing numbers.

Sheepmen Will Pay Half.

One half of the sum paid, according to the plan now under advisement, will be paid by the sheepmen through a special tax levied upon them for that purpose. This is in line with the old law.

Up until about six years ago Oregon paid a bounty of $2 per coyote. Under that system, according to Secretary Dan P. Smythe of the Oregon sheep commission, the coyotes were practically exterminated, and just at the time the county had ceased to be to an expense of any importance the law was repealed. As the result the animals have increased until they are a plague greater than ever before in the state.

For the first time in many years the valley woolgrowers are with the men of eastern Oregon in this matter.

The need of the coyote bounty law will be discussed in this city Saturday at the meeting of the county woolgrowers' association, and will also come up next week at the Hopper meeting. It is also probable that at the latter place the sheepmen will adopt the plan of organized fight against the beasts during the month of January, as during the past year, when some 20,000 coyotes are estimated to have been killed in the one month.

Negro Fair at Augusta, Ga.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 12.—The negro mission in its annual report will embrace a recommendation of a bounty of $1.50 to be paid for each animal killed. It will point to the success with which that plan combated the evil some years ago. The sheepmen of the state will also urge through their organization that such a bounty be given.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF TALMAGE A BRIDE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

New York, Nov. 12.—A fashionable gathering filled the First Presbyterian church in Brooklyn this afternoon to witness the wedding of Miss Hazel Talmage Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Smith and granddaughter of the late Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, and Martin Sullivan Baldwin of this city. Among the attendants and guests were persons prominent in society from Buffalo, Philadelphia, Washington and Richmond.
