

ADOLPH BAKER IN CITY COUNCIL

City Council All But Clears Docket by Sudden Outbreak of Industry.

The record of the session for the speedy transaction of weighty business, it is believed, was established yesterday by the council, which besides the usual amount of routine work, acted on three veto messages, passed two important ordinances, and, as Councilman Baker expressed it, nearly left itself without any question to discuss at future meetings.

Seidon has the city's legislative body accomplished as much with so little time as any other body in any city of the state. With the exception of one or two orations by the ubiquitous and not to be repressed Mr. Vaughn, most of the speeches were surprisingly short for Portland lawmakers, and when they threatened to lengthen, they were cut short by a motion to adjourn.

The "thin walls" building ordinance was passed by its vote of 10 to 2, directly against the advice of Building Inspector Dobson, who said that such an ordinance would place Portland in a class by itself among the cities of the United States.

"I say further," continued Mr. Dobson, "that many of the most reputable architects are opposed to such construction as is proposed by the ordinance. It may be possible to hold an extra session of the council to consider franchise applications, but it will not be held next Monday afternoon."

The ordinance requiring streets to be equipped with fences was also passed, where it has been sleeping most of the time for years.

At the theatres. A lively program. The Pantages this week is full of life and animation. "The Iron Man," which is drawing in the largest attendance, while Pink's comical plays, Van Bros., Graham, Dent & Co., Wittman Sisters & Robinson present a great laugh-producing show.

George Ade's Great Comedy. One of the big hits of the season is George Ade's "Just Out of College," which is being presented by an excellent company at the Baker all this week. The name Ade alone is sufficient to pack the theatre. Matinee Saturday.

"Sky Farm" at Bungalow. One of the best all rural plays is "Sky Farm," which is making a genuine hit as played by Baker Stock company at the Bungalow theatre. The pictures of farm life are ideal. Matinee Saturday.

OSTENSIBLE TAKE IN CEMETERY VAULT

Vast Store of Plunder Taken From San Francisco Hotels Is Located.

(United Press Special Wire.) San Francisco, Nov. 12.—Hundreds of dollars worth of plunder taken during night raids on hotel and apartment houses, was found secreted in a vault in the old Italian cemetery yesterday by police detectives. Clothing, jewelry and personal belongings were drawn from their uncanny resting place and taken to police headquarters to await possible identification by owners.

The cemetery is on the outskirts of the city near the ocean beach, and is somewhat removed from the course of travel. It furnished an ideal hiding place for buried treasure.
