Bulletins Uniformly Optimistic and Physicians Ap-

(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.) San Francisco, Nov. 14.-The Lane spital, where Francis J. Hency is lying under the watchful eyes of trained turses and physicians, was the mecca today of scores of persons. Never in the history of that institution has it been so crowded with visitors.

Relatives of the stricken assistant district attorney, friends of the graft prosecutor, friends of the family and citizens generally visited the hospital during the day to inquire after the health of Mr. Heney.

The telephone operator did not have moment's respite during the 24 hours that the patient had been there.

Flowers and telegrams arrived at the hospital every hour. The floral offerings were turned over to Mrs. Heney and placed in an adjoining room. The telegraph were from all parts of the United States and even Great Britain. All were solicitous about Mr. Heney's condition and expressed the hope for his recovery.

Telegrams were received from President Boosevell John Have Hammond.

Telegrams were received from President Boosevelt, John Hays Hammond, Lincoln Steffens, Judge W. H. Hunt of Montana, and J. Coprad of London. The message from the president was addressed to Mrs. Hency. E-Bay Locates Bullet.

Rydolph Spreckels was in practical charge in the early hours of today. He received all telegrams and met all visitors. He gave out messages to the press and discussed the condition of the patient with all comers. At 10 o'clock Mayor Taylor made his appearance. When asked to express his views he declined, stating that he was not in a mood to do so. Nearly every member of the board of supervisors called at the hospital.

No one was permitted to see the

No one was permitted to see the patient, but all were pleased to learn that his recovery was probable. During the morning hours the patient was taken to the X-ray room and a radiagraph was made of his head and neck with a view to locating the bullet. The first picture was not successful, which necessitated the taking of a second one. It developed that the bullet was imbedded in the jaw.

Trial Lasted Fortnight.

The trial of the case occupied two weeks from the time the examination of jurors was begun on Monday, November 2. One holiday and one Sunday intervened. The case was characterized by frequent legal battles over the admissibility of testimony, in most of which the state was the victor, though L. W. Humphreys, who had charge of this phase of the case for the defense, put up a vallant fight. The jury was composed of William M. Manning (foreman), H. R. Campbell, George Dilworth, L. C. McClintock, John Epperly, William G. Carroll. M. B. McFanl, E. P. Smith, W. R. Hiff, John M. Burroughs, John Batton and H. A. Calef.

Mr. Logan expressed himself as well satisfied with the verdict. He said that while he believed a first degree verdict would have been fully justified, the jurors in weighing the evidence might feel that the defendant should have the benefit of a possibility of inpocence by refraining from a verdict, that would put the life of the man beyond recall.

Mr. Humphreys said he was disap-

Bulletins Give Hope.

At 11 o'clock this morning Drs. Moffait, Bunnel and Terrey issued a bulletin stating that they were highly pleased with Mr. Heney's condition. They expressed the belief that if complications of an unforseen character did not set in he would recover.

Dr. Wallace I. Terry made the following statement:

"The condition of Mr. Heney is very satisfactory. The throat is quite dry, the flow of blood hawing ceased. His a man of vigor is greatly in his favor. Naturally, he is yet in danger. We will hold another consultation at o'clock this evening. An X-ray has been taken, but it will be some hours.

oclock this evening. An X-ray has been taken, but it will be some hours before the plates are developed."

Dr. Bunnell said:

"The patient's pulse is normal, as is also his respiration. He slept well after midnight, and I have every hope that he will sleep this afternoon. Another consultation will be held at 7 oclock, when a decision will be reached as to whether an operation is to be performed to extract the bullet."

If the supreme court should take the watches, or the similar crimes out of the case, the state would be badly weakened in another trial. In any case La Rose, if granted another trial, could not be tried for first degree murder, the verdict yesterday operating as an acquittal of that crime.

La Rose is under indictment for the brutal assaults on Herman and the days the doctor will be relieved of duty as an emergency surgeon in order that he may devote his entire time to the assistant district attorney.

Dr. Beasley stated that his patient rested well during the night and was recovering from the shock. He was hopeful for his ultimate recovery. He decilned to discuss what methods were being taken in the sick room to strengthen the stricken attorney.

Mr. Heney has been attended by his wife and two trained nurses, Miss Marks and Miss Strain of the California Women's hospital. The only persons who saw the patient during the morning hours were Rudolph Spreckels, James Foley, the body guard, and the physicians in the case.

That crime.

La Rose is under indictment for the brutal assaults on Herman and the Chinaman, but these charges will no doubt be dropped, unless a new trial is granted and the prisoner gets off with a lighter penalty. In that case he could be placed on trial for the assault on John Chung, which was practically admitted by the defense in the late trial, and in which the state apparently has a "cinch." For this crime, on conviction, a 20-year sentence could be imposed, and a like sentence in the Herman case, if an unexpected turn of events should acquit the prisoner on the murder charge.

The answer of the rallroads to this complaint is found in the new tariff. The roads have not lowered the rates to interior points. Instead they have increated the rates to Pacific coast points, thus not only answering the charges of unfairness preferred by the inland cities, but filling their own pockets at the same time by increasing the rates to the coast.

That the merchants and jobbers of Portland will not submit tamely to being compelled to lie in this procrustean bed made for them by the railroads seems certain. Already there has been considerable talk of fighting the ncrease before the Interstate Commerce increase before the interstate Commerce commission. All the wholesalers of the city are alarmed at the announcement of higher rates to and from coast points, and they are now considering some concerted action.

"If the rates are raised to coast points and not to interior points, it will give jobbers in the latter an enormous advantage over us," said one of the most prominent of Portland merchants most prominent of Portland merchants yesterday. "As I understand it, the increase will effect practically everything that the jobbers handle, the revision of the rates being most sweeping and affecting all kinds of commodities manufactured and shipped from here. It is something that it is hard to put your finger on and draw up a specific complaint about.

damage will not result at once. The trouble will be that when the railroads charge us 5 per cent or 10 per cent more than now we will have to add that 5 per cent to the cost of our goods. We will perhaps be able to sell as much next winter as usual. But in the spring when buyers begin figuring up the amount they paid our competitors in inland towns east of here, they will find that we have apparently overcharged them. This will cause them, one after another, to drop us. Nothing in the world can stand up against this, and it means ruin for us in the end.

"To say that it is a matter of importance to jobbers and wholesalers in Portland and everywhere on the coast is but putting it mildly. It is something that will eventually mean failure to us unless we do something to protect ourselves.

Mrs. McCormack is at the limperial hotel, and yesterday purchased the first supply of fish for the miniature lake in eastern Oregon.

The fish were bought from boys who caught them near St. Johns. Mrs. McCormack will take her new pets, 75 of them, to Pendleton today. The fish are a specie of bass and are commonly known as croppie. In some parts of the country they are known as "crappie" in the east and in many lakes throughout the middle west the fish, which ordinarily are about the size of sunfish, thrive and afford good sport for anglers.

Exceedingly Important Testimony in Establishing Corpus Delicti.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Laporte, Ind., Nov. 14 .- "The jawbone, teeth, bridge and crown found in the ruins of the Gunness home are those of Mrs. Belle Gunness."

The testimony of Dr. Norton was of the most important the state will pre-sent. It is on this coupled with sup-plemental evidence, that the hope of the prosecution to establish the fact establish of the woman's death rests. Dr. Norton testified that he had been the woman's dentist and that the bridge work and crown work were of a peculiar construction and he could not be mistaken in identifying them. He showed the and crown work were of a peculiar construction and he could not be mistaken in identifying them. He showed the jury a diagram of the woman's mouth, pointing out the peculiarities on which he relied to prove his identification. Herman Elbogan, a jeweler, identified rings found in the debris of the house as those worn by Mrs. Gunness. The state endeavored to prove that Mrs. Gunness was kind to her children, to show that she had no motive to seek their death. Mrs. William Flynn offered testimony in this line. Elbogan also testified that Lamphere brought watches to his shop for repair which were afterward identified as the property of men who met their death on the Gunness "murder farm."

Monday more direct evidence will be introduced to show that Lamphere knew of the death of Edward Helgelein, the first Gunness victim discovered. Bessie Wallace, one of Lamphere's intimates, will be called. The step is taken at the request of federal inspectors, who state that the authorities have the anthrax outbreak reasonably well in hand.

Hereafter shipments from South Dakota will be permitted to enter Montana when accompanied by federal health certificates stating that they did not come from the infected counties or any other county where anthrax has existed during the last six years.

ACTION AGAINST GOVERNOR SMITH HEIR TO MILLION

Recovery of Montana's Chief Executive.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Helena, Mont., Nov. 14.—News was received at Helena today that R. B. Smith, former governor, is in the hospital at Kalispell, and that there is little hope of his recovery. He is suffer-ing from uraemic poisoning and the end may come at any moment. His wife, son and a daughter are with him.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 14.—Attorney-General Galen today rendered an opinion to the effect that there is at present no one legally authorized to perform the duties of the office of governer in case of the absence from the state or the inability of that official.

The opinion is addressed to Governor Norris in answer to his query if any one is legally authorized to act during his absence or inability. The opinion says there is no statute making provision as to when the term of members of the legislature begin, but the constitution states that they start the day after the election unless otherwise ordered. A successor having been elected to Senator Miles of Park county, he is no longer acting lieutenant-governor, and as the lieutenant-governor-elect does not take office until January next, the office is therefore vacant.
