WALLA WALLA FETES HER GUESTS

Four Brilliant Receptions Tendered Visitors to Educational Congress — Deep Interest in Closing Day Addresses.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Walla Walla, Wash., Nov. 18.—Rain today has somewhat decreased the crowds at the educational congress, but interest is still high and the meetings are more enthusiastic than ever. The addresses today are of a high order and are creating a favorable impression in the minds of overseers and other guests.

At the meeting last night President Northrop of the University of Minnesota in a speech on "The Relation of State and Private Schools," declared that the day of the small school is nearly over; that the tendency is toward big schools, which are soon to have all the best of education. He said:

"It is a race between schools to see which can give the most and the best. And in this race the small school has little show. Education today differs from that of 100 years ago. Then a few class rooms, a few teachers, were all that was required. Now, with laboratories, equipment of machinery and other essentials, much money is required to have a good school. Where formerly a professor lectured to a class on chemistry, now there is a laboratory in the recitation room. Where the teacher formerly performed an experiment carefully and with little waste, on account of his accuracy students now make experiments until they succeed.

All Requires Money.

"All this takes money and the small school with little endowment cannot furnish the equipment. A technical education, for the development and maintenance of our industries, is an absolute necessity and to give that education all this equipment is necessary."

President Northrop expressed himself as favoring private schools, saying that they aided and did not hinder state schools in the same territory.

"Three states of the northwest," he said, "have more than three times the territory of New England, which supports 15 schools, as Whitman would be."

Need of Forestry School.

E. T. Allen, forest inspector of the Pacific, this morning made an address on "Education in Relation to Forestry." He said that Whitman would make no mistake if it established a forestry school, but it must be as good as any in the country, or it would be of no value. He declared that the multiplication of forest schools is a mistake, generally speaking, but if the school is good, it is of great value. At present there is little demand for foresters. Mr. Allen outlined a course of study which he said was better than any in any school, and would require more of a faculty, and a better one. He advised Whitman to proceed under no other circumstances.

Education on Irrigation.

"The Education Advantageous to Irrigation" was the subject of a speech by D. G. Henny of the reclamation service. He said that an irrigation school was a great thing, and that Whitman, situated in the midst of an irrigated country, was a proper school for the same. He was enthusiastic about the project and pointed out that it was feasible and that it would be a great help to the advancement of the country.

E. T. Lawrence, a Portland architect, gave a lecture on the plans of the new Whitman buildings, illustrating it. The cost of the new buildings will be several millions of dollars.

Following the speech of President Northrop last night, four receptions were given in honor of the visiting guests. They were the most brilliant series of social functions ever held in this city. They were given at the homes of S. B. L. Penrose, L. F. Anderson, J. W. Langdon and at Reynold hall. At the home of Professor Anderson there were in the receiving line Mrs. Louis F. Anderson, Rev. and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes Jr. of New Haven, Conn., Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Smith of Seattle, Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Brooks, Miles C. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reese.

In the receiving line at the home of President Penrose were President and Mrs. Penrose, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Paine, Judge Thomas Burke of Seattle, Dr. N. G. Blalock and President Cyrus Northrup of Minneapolis, Minn.

The line at the Langdon residence was composed of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Langdon, Dean Alfred E. Burton of Boston, Mass., Captain and Mrs. Howard, Honorable and Mrs. Gilbert Hunt, Dean and Mrs. A. W. Hendricks.

At Reynolds hall the faculty and students were in the receiving line.

HUNGER TOO MUCH FOR BUTTE STRIKERS

A revolt against the authority of Superintendent Briggs at the county rockpile at Kelly's Butte, which was set on foot Monday by two malcontents named Robertson and Kanause, ended at noon today, when the whole force called off the "strike" and went back to work. The men in the stockade who refused to work had not been permitted in the dining-room since yesterday, and they were beginning to feel the pangs of hunger. The noonday meal today was too much for them, and all agreed to return to work. The revolt started apparently in pursuance of an organized plan, when a vagrant named Tom Kinney was put into the dungeon as punishment for persistent refusal to do his share of work. Robertson and Kanause are now in line for solitary confinement for the part in inciting the strike.

How He Died.

From the New York Times.

Governor Hughes seldom enlivens his public addresses by relating amusing incidents, but at the Greene county fair recently he relaxed. He was inspecting, he said, by the aid of the principal, the school in a small town. After visiting the gymnasium, swimming pool and auditorium, they entered the history class room. An oral examination was evidently in progress.

"Thomas," said the teacher, "did Martin Luther die a natural death?"

"No, ma'am," was the prompt reply, "he was excommunicated by a bull."

A Turkish women's paper, with a woman as editor, and with women as contributors, has been in existence for several years. It informs its readers that "any contribution that is in accordance with Musselman faith and with Ottoman morals will be gratefully received."

In China the natives preserve vegetables by coating them with salt and drying them in the sun. Hams are cured by means of an alkaline earth and common salt. Pickled eggs are preserved with a compound of common mud, salt, saltpeter and soy bean sauce.

NOW IS THE TIME TO STOP THE CRIME OF CHILD WIVES

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Two earnest women, Caroline P. Wallace and Carrie A. Tennant, have been speaking throughout the United States since last April on the subject of child marriage in India, and arousing universal interest and attention.

They represent the "Indo-American Woman's Restoration League," and are soon to revisit India and renew their efforts to save the little girls of that land from compulsory premature marriage and all its attendant evils.

This miserable condition of the girls and women of India is not of Hindu origin. It began with the invasion of the Mohammedans about the sixth century, A. D. Before that period woman occupied a safe and honored position in India and for this reason the word "restoration" is employed by the league. This is woman's century, and just as the women of Turkey are casting aside the veil, the badge of serfdom to worn-out traditions, so the women of India must soon rise in revolt against the custom which has forced them to become wives and mothers before they ceased to be children, a custom which has done more than any combination of other events to cripple this land of ancient wisdom, the land which gave birth to the greatest and wisest seers and prophets of the world, and to a stupendous philosophy which was at once a great science and a glorious religion. But this science and religion has degenerated into a hundred superstitious creeds today in India, and these creeds seem to unite in keeping woman subservient and servile. A book has recently been published in India on the subject of child marriages, which is causing the government to seriously consider legislating on the matter. The title of the book is "Enforced Widowhood."

This volume is a collection of opinions for and against, received by Behranji M. Malabari, from representative Hindu gentlemen and official and other authorities. Malabari says:

"The practice of infant marriage has taken deep root in the soil and the efforts of private individuals by themselves will never dislodge it. Combined and sustained activity alone will cope with it successfully."

The whole book is replete with statements like the following from Hindus of education and position:

"What makes Hindus so feeble is the custom of early marriage. A girl cannot be kept unmarried beyond 10 or 12 years. Hence her parents are very anxious, at any cost, to get her married, even to an old man or a sickly man. Thus is the race being deteriorated."

"Compared with the uneducated masses, the educated Hindus are but a drop in the ocean. Small as this number is, it is not united. Some of them are as adverse to reform as the uneducated masses. With an enemy in the camp, this small knot of educated Hindus have to fight a combination of enormous forces."

The Ordinances of Manu.

Translated from the Sanscrit by Arthur Coke Burnell, Ph. D. and C. L. E., a scholar of unimpeachable authority.

Though of base conduct or debauched or even devoid of good qualities, a husband must always be worshiped (or served) like a god (or idol) by a good wife.

Day and night women must be kept in dependence by the males of their families.

A wife is the marital property of her husband.

A man 30 years of age may marry a girl of 12 who pleases him, or a man of 24 a damsel of eight. If the performance of his duties would otherwise be hindered, let him marry sooner.

These are specimens of Manu's laws for women.

Sir W. W. Hunter, director-general of statistics in India, said that "from five to eleven is the usual period of marriage for Brahmin girls all over India."

According to the census, the first ceremony is called a betrothal; but this is a misnomer. The moment the ceremony is performed the pair are irrevocably bound together.

"No Hindu who has at heart the real welfare of his community will expect the government to shut its eyes to the grossest outrage on humanity." These words were spoken by Rao Bahadur Krishnaji Lakshman Nulkar, a Hindu member of the council he addressed. There are many more in India just like him.

Attitude of Government.

"If there is a class which more than any other appeals to the manly instinct of every one worthy of the name of man, it is that of the helpless infant compelled to be a wife while she is in an entirely immature condition." These words were spoken by the Hon. C. H. P. Evans, an English member of the council.

"Looking at a mass of evidence before us, it seems impossible to deny that a state of things exists which imperatively calls for legislation."

In 1880 there were 5,000,000 more men than women in India, which proves beyond a doubt that some millions of women have been prematurely called out of the world, for the child-wives die by thousands, leaving the boy husbands to live on and take to themselves yet other little wives.

Miss Millicent Garrett Fawcett, writing on this topic, says:

"It is unnecessary, to dwell in any detail upon the results of forcing on little girls of 10 years the duties of wifehood and motherhood. Physical degeneracy of the race as well as of the individual, and moral degradation, too, are among its most obvious consequences. It also brings with it a state of things, so far as women are concerned, closely akin to slavery, and puts an absolute bar on any real progress in women's education. If anything more need be said, I will only remind my readers that the very same offense which in England is punishable with penal servitude for life, in India it not punishable at all. * * * And this wicked and cowardly delivering up of the weak and innocent to the strong and cruel is not a mere 'paper' crime. Actual instances of ghastly horror are constantly taking place. When they lead to the death of the child-victim they come before the courts and are reported in the papers. But we know, from the evidence of women doctors in India, that there are many cases which never come before the courts at all, of physical ruin which just stops short of causing the death of the sufferer."

Small and Slight.

The Hindus in the Bombay presidency and all over India where infant marriages are practiced, are small, slight, half-developed looking men and women, and the little girls of these parents, deprived as they are of healthy out-door exercise, are tiny and undeveloped, too; but this does not prevent the parents from marrying their little daughters to large and powerful men from the northern countries and hill tribes. The men are much better developed than are the women, who are deprived of all means of growth. At 16 years of age these wives are not so large, strong, or well-matured as most European girls are at 10 and 11. A little Hindu girl of 10 looks like our girls of 5 or 6. Picture such a creature given over to a husband 40 or 50 years old, who has neither love, kindness nor humanity in his heart for her, and who deliberately tortures her to such an extent that to avoid him she attempts to destroy her own life.

An American woman physician says, after relating many similar cases:

"I do not say there are no exceptions to the type of Hindu life here presented. There are Hindu men and women whom no religious belief, no custom or law could make dishonorable, unkind, or selfish, whose honor, education and sense of justice are equal to any in the world. I have personally known some such fine intellectual Hindu men and women, whom to know was to love and respect. There are good mothers-in-law, and homes where little girls are loved and kindly treated, but for every one such home, there are a hundred thousand of the type I have described. Some of the husbands who have brought their wives to me for medical treatment have been kind, humane and desirous of having them recover, but the vast majority speak of the wife's illness as we would speak of a dog that had served us.

Let Every Woman Heed.

"Let every woman take up the sad history of these little wives and tell it over and over—tell it to the old, tell it to the middle-aged, tell it to the children in happy homes. Be not content with simply telling, but earnestly study to find what you, individually, can do to right this gigantite wrong. All can help—all should work. Let not your interest stray from the cause until the task has been accomplished, and dying, bequeath the unfinished work to your daughters and your daughters' daughters."

All American men and women who are interested in helping the Indo-American Women's Restoration league can address it at its headquarters in that city of great inspiration and power—Los Angeles, Cal. Remember, humanity forms an endless chain, and when one link is weak the entire chain is weakened. To make the chain of womanhood strong all women must be lifted out of slavery.

I Cure Men

"I claim to know a great deal about a few ailments, rather than a little of human ills."

Dr. TAYLOR

The Leading Specialist.

THE WORK OF A SPECIALIST IS THE DOING OF A FEW THINGS BEST

There is not a physician living who can claim to be proficient in the treatment of all human ailments and diseases. To attain the highest possible degree of proficiency in all departments of medical science would require half a dozen lifetimes of study and as many more of practical experience. The regular practitioner is proficient in a large number of the commonest and most easily conquered diseases. The specialist must first become proficient for general practice, and must then go on to proficiency in a few of those conditions and diseases more difficult to understand and more difficult to cure.

What Weakness Is and How I Cure It

"Weakness" is merely a symptom of chronic inflammation in the prostate gland, brought on by the improper treatment of some contracted disease. A complete and radical cure is, therefore, a question of restoring the prostate gland to its normal state, and this I accomplish promptly and completely without the use of internal remedies. My treatment is a local one entirely. It is original and scientific and has been proven absolutely effective by thousands of tests. I am convinced that by no other methods can full and permanent restoration of strength and vigor be accomplished.

VARICOCELE

A thorough cure without pain or cutting. Every case of varicocele I treat proves the superiority of my mild and harmless method, and the folly of resorting to surgery. In most instances it is even unnecessary to detain the patient a single day from his business. The treatment I employ is distinctively my own, and can be had at my office only. Do not submit to the knife and hospital expenses, when a complete and permanent cure can be had without the loss of time, and without pain or cutting.

SPECIFIC BLOOD POISON

Others dose the system with mineral poisons scarcely less dangerous than the disease itself. The best they hope to do by this treatment is to keep the disease from manifesting its presence upon the surface of the body. Under my treatment the entire system is cleansed. The last taint vanishes to appear no more. I employ harmless blood-cleansing remedies. They are remedies heretofore unknown in the treatment of this disease. They cure by neutralizing and absolutely destroying the poison in the system. Such cures cannot be other than complete and permanent.

S.S.S. CURES CATARRH

During the warm Summer months Catarrh sufferers are not troubled with the effects of the disease, as in Winter. This is true because in the heated season every pore and outlet of the skin is open, and a constant, copious evaporation carries off with it a large percentage of the impurities and poisons which produce Catarrh. But at the first sign of cooler weather the sufferer's comfort ends; the skin does not secrete as freely, a congested condition of the system takes place, and soon every miserable symptom of Catarrh is harassing and causing discomfort to the unfortunate ones.

Catarrh is a deep-seated blood disease, one which no amount of local treatment will ever reach and permanently cure. The beneficial effects of washes, sprays, inhalations, lotions, etc., are only temporary, and when left off the old condition returns because the blood is infected with catarrhal matter and impurities. This inflames and irritates the mucous membrane and tissues and produces the symptoms of ringing noises in the head and ears, mucus in the throat, headaches, watery eyes, partial deafness, sore throat, general impairment of the health, etc.

To cure Catarrh permanently the blood must be purified, and the system cleansed of all morbid matters, and at the same time strengthened and built up. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose. It attacks the disease at its head, goes down to the very bottom of the trouble in the blood, and makes a permanent and lasting cure. S. S. S. removes every particle of the catarrhal matter from the circulation, making this vital fluid pure, fresh and healthy. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, because they are nourished with pure, health-giving blood, the head is cleared, mucus stops dropping back into the throat, every symptom disappears, the constitution is built up and health restored. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers and cures Catarrh by driving out the cause from the system. Being made entirely of healthful vegetable ingredients S. S. S. does not contain any habit forming drugs, which really do not cure Catarrh but often ruin the health; nor will S. S. S. injure the most delicate systems. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all who write.

NOSE STOPPED UP AND INCESSANT COUGH.

Gentlemen:—I suffered for a long time with a bad case of Catarrh, and took a great deal of medicine without any benefit. Several doctors told me I could not be cured.

I had a continual headache, my cheeks had grown purple, my nose was always stopped up, my breath had a sickening and disgusting odor, and I coughed incessantly.

I heard of your S. S. S. and wrote to you. On your recommendation I commenced to use it, and after taking several bottles, I was cured and have never since had the slightest symptom of the disease. I will always be glad to recommend it to other sufferers.

Respectfully, MRS. M. L. WESSERMAN.
2719 Caroline St., St. Louis, Mo.

CURED OF CATARRH.

Dear Sirs:—At the age of five years I contracted a bad case of Catarrh. It began with a profuse watery discharge from my nose. The matter falling into my throat kept me constantly hawking and spitting, and my breath, too, was fearfully offensive, but S. S. S. has cured me sound and well of the Catarrh and I cheerfully recommend it to the public.

When I began taking S. S. S. it was for another disease which the doctor called Tuberculosis of the bone, and since I began the use of your remedy, S. S. S., four of the five tubercles have healed and I feel as well as I ever did in my life. OSCAR WARE.

LOST HIS VOICE.

Goldsboro, N. C.

I suffered severely with Catarrh for a number of years and for eighteen months the disease was so bad that I lost my voice in consequence of it. I tried various treatments and doctors and was finally given up to die. I then took S. S. S. according to directions and in due course of time my Catarrh was entirely cured. My voice was restored and I have enjoyed good health ever since.
W. H. GRIFFIN.

CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDS S. S. S.

For the past twenty-five years I have been in the habit of taking a course of S. S. S. every spring as a blood purifier, and have always been well pleased with the results. I had Catarrh for a number of years which was cured by S. S. S. I cheerfully recommend S. S. S. as the best blood purifier on earth. Not only did it cure my Catarrh but I have known of its being used in other cases with entirely satisfactory results. LOCK McDANIEL,

BLOOD POISON

The origin of "specific" blood poison is not known. Numerous writers have attempted to prove its identity with various countries and have tried to fix its appearance upon the stage of history all the way from 2000 years before Christ up to the time of Columbus without results. It was, however, unknown in Europe until about the year 1495, when it broke out in the City of Naples with great virulence. But the story of its origin matters little, for it is now universally prevalent. The hydra-headed monster is encountered in palaces, mansions of the wealthy, in the home of the merchant, the mechanic and the hovel of the slave. It respects neither rich, poor, old, young, guilty nor innocent, for it may be either

CONTRACTED or HEREDITARY

After the system is once tainted with the disease it may show in the form of scrofula, eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, eruptions, or copper-colored spots on the face or body, little ulcers on the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, swollen tonsils, falling out of the hair or eyebrows, or a leprous-like decay of the flesh and bones. It is a variable disease and rarely affects two cases alike, even though they both be infected from identically the same source at the same time. I have spent many years in careful study of this dreadful malady, and there is nothing on which I can talk with a more positive knowledge than BLOOD POISON.

If you have any of the above symptoms, or reason to believe that you are in any way affected along this line come to my office and

WEATHER REPORT

The north Pacific storm has moved east to Saskatchewan, and another low pressure area is central over the lower lake region. A ridge of high pressure extends from California southeastward to the Gulf of Mexico. The following maximum find velocities occurred during the last 24 hours: North Head, Wash., 64 miles southeast, and Tatoosh island, Wash., 42 miles south. Moderately heavy rain has fallen in western Oregon, Washington and northern Idaho, and light snow has fallen in the interior of New England. It is much warmer in the lake region, and in the Mississippi and Ohio valleys. The temperatures are above normal in all the northern states except in New England.

The indications are for occasional rain tonight and Thursday in this district, with lower temperatures tonight in Oregon and Washington except near the coast.

SUTHERLIN VALLEY

THE LAND FOR

RED APPLES

The choicest spot in a choice fruit district. A soil exactly suited to the culture of fine fruit. Just enough slope to insure perfect drainage. Every acre carries a perpetual water right. You may raise fruit without irrigation, but you will raise more and better fruit with it.
