

NOW SCHEME TO EVADE THE CHILD LABOR LAW

Y. M. C. A. Managers Believe Roney Boys Do Not Properly Come Under Ban Inasmuch as They Do Not Sing for Money in Sacred Concerts.

Juvenile court officials and the superintendent of city schools are to be appealed by members of the Y. M. C. A. and others interested in the concert booked for December 14 by the Roney boys, which performance is barred by the Oregon child labor law.

Those behind the movement still have hopes that Judge Gantenbein and Superintendent Rieger of the city schools may in some way be induced to consent that the concert may take place. Unless this is done the appearance of Henry E. Roney and his youthful singers is hardly probable as the members of the association do not wish to violate the law.

Mr. Roney has been notified that the concert for which he is dated would be contrary to the child labor law of Oregon. As the singers will have to come to Vancouver, Wash., to sing, those interested are still holding out hopes that some arrangements will finally be settled and the concert given as planned.

The concert was to have taken place under the auspices of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. and it was believed that the proceeds from the concert would amount to enough to furnish the new rooms in the Y. M. C. A. building which will be used exclusively for the younger set. The concert was to have been the initial movement on the part of the boys' department in a campaign for the winter lecture course and other benefits by which revenue for the new quarters is to be derived.

Mr. Roney has dates not only in Portland but in The Dalles, Pendleton, McMinville and several other Oregon towns, all of which will have to be canceled unless some system of evading the law is discovered. And with this

NOTES TO ADVERTISERS

Executive Committee of the Union Republican Club Takes Action After a Stormy Session—Old Sores Are Reopened.

The executive committee of the Union Republican club met last night at a meeting held in the club building, 1000 Commercial street, and in view of everything possible is being done. Several attorneys are looking up the definition of the word "work," and other phrases of the law with the hope that something will be discovered whereby the sacred concert will be allowed to take place. The ministers have also been requested to take a hand in the matter, as well as the commercial organization members been appealed to.

The concert was to have taken place in the White Temple. On Sunday, December 14, it was planned to have the Roney boys appear in sacred concert at the White Temple, which was to have been held in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. building.

Some of the boys with the troupe are 14 years of age and the suggestion has been made that it would not be contrary to the law if the boys appeared in the afternoon. This is out of the question, the Y. M. C. A. officials say, as the performance would hardly pay expenses under such circumstances.

Members of the commission say the law was enacted for the purpose of protecting boys who worked at night as messengers and youths who might otherwise be compelled to work in factories and mills. The commission members say they do not even receive traveling expenses and that the question of salary has never been mentioned.

Members of the commission are rather inclined to favor the appearance of the boys in Portland and other cities of the state. But always there is the one obstacle in the way—the law.

The question will probably be settled definitely within a day or two. In the meantime those interested are doing everything in their power to bring about results which might permit the Roney boys to sing all the while there is the law, starting them in the face.

BENEFIT FOR MISS ROSE EYTINGE IS BRILLIANTLY SUCCESSFUL

The Rose Eytinge benefit given at the Hellig yesterday afternoon was an unqualified success and resulted in a very handsome sum which will go to Miss Eytinge as a birthday remembrance.

The following account of the benefit is contributed by a lady who was present:

Seldom has there been given in Portland a more delightful program. All the theatres in town and several amateurs contributed to make the testimonial a complete success. Miss Eytinge's complete success. Miss Eytinge's complete success. Miss Eytinge's complete success.

Perhaps the number that received greatest favor with the house was "Swastika Sue," a new Indian song by Smith and Thompson, sung by Miss Seymour and choral by Indian warriors. Scenery and costumes were wonderfully effective and Miss Seymour's singing in this pretty and catchy song was most sympathetic. The riding of the sun, the hills with the tepes in the background and Miss Seymour and her nine stalwart braves brought down the house.

Miss Augusta Glose sang bewitchingly three songs. Her manner is unusually engaging, her charm spontaneous. One of her songs, "The Old Rag Doll," written by Miss Maribel Seymour, was extremely well received. Her "Flirting With the Fan," was dainty and quaint, while her imitations of how

Catarrh A Blood Disease

Whether it manifests itself in the nose, throat, stomach, bowels or other organs, catarrh is a blood disease because it depends on impure blood.

Therefore it must be treated with a blood medicine for a radical and permanent cure.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most successful. It purifies the blood, strengthens the stomach and other organs, and builds up the whole system. It radically and permanently cures.

The most easily developed form of Catarrh is Nasal Catarrh, in the treatment of which Hood's Sarsaparilla is greatly aided by Antiseptic Catarrhals, which afford prompt relief.

How Committee Members Voted.

Those members of the Union Republican club's executive committee who believe that legislators should break their faith and word with the people, as shown by their vote last night, are Max G. Cohen, secretary of the club; T. J. Monahan, Louis Kuhn, W. W. Barks, W. H. Galvani, Gus C. Moser, Elmer B. Colwell, Jimmy F. Kertchem, R. W. Parker.

Those who believe that a legislator's pledge to the people is solemn and sacred, as a personal promise or private word of honor, and should be observed and fulfilled to the letter are John Gill, president of the club; C. M. Ideman, vice-president; W. M. Davis, Dr. Emmet Drake.

The executive committee of the Union Republican club at a meeting held last night voted to pledge the organization to aid and assist in the proposed attempt to induce the legislature to repudiate their pledges given to the people last June, and upon which they were elected, and to use every means possible to secure the election of some man for United States senator other than Governor Chamberlain, who holds the popular endorsement of the voters of the state. The vote by which the club pledged to this work was 10 to 2, with seven members of the executive committee not being present.

The meeting last night, held in the offices of the secretary, James L. Gleson, in the Trade building, was the most exciting of any held by the committee since its creation. The adjournment was immediately after the session had been called to order, and ranged back and forth for a couple of hours. During the debate, bitter denunciations and scathing personalities were hurled from side to side, the heated arguments ending with the adjournment.

Today the membership of the club and of the executive committee are sore and strained after the conflict, and wounds of internal dissension supposed to have been healed by the consolidation of the old Portland Republican club and the Beaver Republican club two years ago are once more raw and aching.

Influential members of the club, who have fought for it since its organization, are disheartened and dissatisfied at the action taken and are fearful that the result will be lack of harmony and ultimate disorganization. They are charged that outside persons, selfishly interested in the senatorial fight, should be kept out of the club's affairs, and that the club should be used for the purpose of internal dissension, and destroy its usefulness. I am afraid that the action of last night will prove to be most mischievous in the future.

Trouble was started at the meeting by Mr. Ideman, who is a member of the club and ex-chairman of the county central committee, who had been listening to the speeches of those in favor of the resolutions under discussion. The speakers had been referring to the "bunko game," and Mr. Ideman asked them to explain.

"What do you mean by bunko game?" Mr. Ideman asked.

"I mean the scheme by which 2,500 Democrats registered as Republicans and voted for Calkins to beat Fulton for the nomination and then voted for Chamberlain to defeat Calkins," said J. Monahan, who was loud in his denunciation of Statement No. 1.

"Is that it?" retorted Mr. Ideman. "Now you know that you are engaged in one of the biggest bunko games ever attempted in Oregon. You know that you are guessing when you say that $500 Democrats voted for Calkins. You do not know that any such thing was done. But you do know that thousands of Republicans in the general election

MRS. DE CICCO MUST GO TO STATE PRISON

Graft Defense Told That Too Much Time Is Being Consumed—Gallagher Firm Under Fire of Questions—Court Warns Attorneys.

(United Press Lined Wire.) San Francisco, Nov. 20.—Repeated rebukes administered by Judge Lawlor to Attorney Henry Ach, who is appearing for Abe Ruef in the trial of the indicted ex-governor on a charge of bribery, marked the entire morning session of the trial today. Ach repeatedly disobeyed the instructions and was repeatedly called to time by the court. The morning session was disastrous to Ruef.

The cross-examination of James L. Gallagher, the prosecution's chief witness, was the most exciting feature of the day because of Ruef's attorney's attempts to impeach the witness by trying to pin him down to minute points of time and circumstances. The matters testified to on direct examination that Judge Lawlor rebuked him.

Ach Makes Charge.

Ach declared at the outset of the session that he would show Gallagher was "an arch-partisan of the graft prosecution" and that upon the impression his testimony against Ruef and other indicted men might make on Assistant District Attorney Henry depended whether or not he himself would be indicted.

Ach drew from the witness the fact that Andrew Wilson, a member of the board of supervisors, had been indicted at the beginning of the immunity contract between Rudolph Spreckels and the members of the hooded board. The attorney for Ruef declared that Henry had broken the immunity contract with Wilson because the supervisor had not agreed to suit the attorney of the prosecution.

"Henry told me he had indicted Wilson because he had not told the whole truth," declared Gallagher in a question if he knew why Wilson was indicted.

"I know that the immunity contract you signed was illegal," asked Ach.

"No, I did not, and I was surprised when Henry had Wilson indicted."

Stopped by Court.

Ach was stopped by the court from going into the exact time of the signing of the immunity contract, and he started out at length that, as he understood the views of the court, the questions would be allowed.

"I can't help how much time it takes, your honor," began Ach.

The purchase price of the corrupted Judge Lawlor, "and I shall help it."

When Ach later attempted to pin down Ruef to a categorical answer to questions, Judge Lawlor said:

"Let the witness answer the question in his own way."

Ach said another lengthy explanation, but was cut short by the court with the curt remark:

"The purchase price of the corrupted Judge Lawlor, and I shall help it."

Gallagher Firm.

Ach attempted to prove by Gallagher that Ruef had asked him to go to Ruef after the supervisors had confessed and offer Ruef immunity if Ruef would testify against the "higher-ups."

"I went to Ruef on my own volition and not at the request of anyone," declared Ruef against the "higher-ups."

The entire session was disastrous for Ruef. Gallagher remained unshaken in his story.

Several times Ruef's attorney attempted to show that Gallagher had differed from his testimony at the former Ruef trial, but the court would not permit him to impeach the witness in this way.

Use of Club as Tool.

"The result of the vote last night," said one influential member of the club this morning, "clearly shows that what we had hoped was a thing of the past, namely that one faction, unsuccessful in carrying out its program at the primaries and general election of last April and June, is now trying to secure through manipulation of the legislature that which it could not secure at the polls by the vote of the people and to aid in the accomplishment of its purpose is using the club as a tool."

"Such work will dissipate the influence of the organization, break it open by internal dissension, and destroy its usefulness. I am afraid that the action of last night will prove to be most mischievous in the future."

Trouble was started at the meeting by Mr. Ideman, who is a member of the club and ex-chairman of the county central committee, who had been listening to the speeches of those in favor of the resolutions under discussion. It is understood that the purchasers bought the property as a permanent investment and will improve it as soon as a suitable tenant can be found.

NO DERRINGER IN HAAS' SHOE

Expert Gunsmith Testifies Gun Would Show Rust If Next the Foot.

(United Press Lined Wire.) San Francisco, Nov. 20.—Chief of Police Biggy, whose resignation from the department may follow the outcome of the coroner's inquest into the suicide of Morris Haas, who shot himself in his cell at the county jail while guarded by several policemen, was shown today to have been in personal command of the men who searched Haas.

According to Coroner Charles F. Groat, who took the stand today in the second day's session of the inquest, he rode to the jail handcuffed to Haas, in Chief Biggy's automobile with the chief and several detectives.

There Biggy directed the search of the prisoner.

Should the jury find that Haas had the little derringer with which he committed suicide in his shoe when searched the fact will be taken as evidence to support charges of inefficiency which Detective William J. Burns declared will be brought against Biggy.

Captain Thomas B. Duke, who made the first search of Haas in the court room, as an expert to prove that Haas did not have the weapon in his shoe when he shot Francis J. Heney.

Bremser testified that the derringer had been carried for any length of time in Haas' shoe the barrel would show rust. The derringer showed no sign of rust, and Bremser declared it could not have been carried next to the skin.

IDAHO-OREGON SCHOOL CREATED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Weiser, Idaho, Nov. 20.—The United Presbyterian church of the district comprising Idaho, Oregon and Washington has purchased the land and property of the Weiser academy, located in this city, and will make of it one of the leading educational institutions of the west. It will be known as the Idaho-Oregon college.

The Presbyterian synod of the Columbia, at its meeting at Portland last September, appointed a commission to investigate the proposition of purchasing the property and if satisfactory to take it over. The commission has been in session here three days, adjourning yesterday and closing the deal. Arrangements will be made for the opening of the school next year.

MEYERS CASE IS REOPENED IN SALEM

Mystery of Stolen Package Containing Notes and Jewelry to Again Become Matter for Litigation—November 30 Set for Hearing

Salem, Or., Nov. 20.—The controversy between Joseph Meyers and his two sons, Milton and Henry, was reopened today when S. T. Richardson, counsel for Joseph Meyers, petitioned the circuit court to perpetuate a testimony to show that notes held by the father against the two sons, amounting to $28,600 had been lost or stolen, so that, in case any material witness died, Joseph Meyers could bring suit for the collection of the notes.

The petition of Joseph Albert, president of the Capital National bank and H. Beckwith, general agent for Wells Fargo Express company, is part of the evidence Joseph Meyers desires to put on record.

A SECRET FOR WOMEN

Madame Moncaux, deceased beauty specialist of New York, long possessed the greatest of all secrets pertaining to feminine charm. And what is this great secret, so much desired by women—the secret that has made a vast fortune for the madam's heirs, and that brought her all the famous actresses and society leaders for patrons?

It is a simple but sure method of developing the bust, arms and neck of women who through defect of nutrition and circulation, are completely absorbed in undeveloped arms, neck and bust. Ugly, deformed women are developed into charming personages, with well rounded arms and neck and full normal bust of exquisite curve and proportion. Get separately "two ounces glycerine," "three ounces rose water" and "one ounce tincture cadomene compound" and five cents' worth of borax. Take home, mix the glycerine with tincture cadomene, shake and let stand two hours; then add a teaspoonful of borax and the rose water. Shake well and apply to the neck, arms and bust, rubbing and massaging until completely absorbed. Then wash thoroughly with hot water and soap and dry thoroughly. Apply morning and night regularly for several weeks and the most beautiful development will begin to reward the efforts. It is believed by experts to be the most necessary and effective prescription ever conceived.
