CANNOT WAIT FOR CONGRESS

State Legislature Should Make Appropriation for the Oregon City Locks Says B. F. Jones—Electric Company Is Greatly in Debt to the State Already.

That there is grave danger the appropriation for the purchase of the Willamette locks may not be secured at this session of congress, and that the coming session of the legislature should meet the emergency either by an extension of time with reference to the state's appropriation or by appropriation of a sufficient sum to pay the entire cost of the old locks or of constructing a new flight, is the statement of Honorable B. F. Jones, father of the Jones bill, and representative-elect from Polk county.

Three years from the passage of this act, the sum of $200,000, as herein provided shall be turned into the general fund of the state of Oregon.

Therefore it will be seen that if an appropriation is not made by the general government this session it will be necessary for the state to take some action in the matter, either by having the time extended for another two years by which the state may assist, or by appropriating a sum sufficient to build the locks, which would, according to estimate, be $200,000, less the amount now due and owing the state of Oregon by the Portland General Electric company, under the recent decision of the supreme court of the state of Oregon.

locks was from $300,000 to $225,000. Of this sum the state practically loaned the company $200,000, inasmuch as the company has never paid the state any part of the 10 per cent of the earnings of said locks which they were to receive, the state of Oregon should at least be entitled to lawful interest on the money for those 28 years, which would amount to the sum of $808,900, add to this the principal, $200,000, and we have the sum of $1,008,900, which said sum this company is morally and legally held to the state of Oregon.

ing into consideration the fact that the saving to the producers and shippers of western Oregon in the reduction of tolls on their products would be sufficient in two years to build the locks on the east side, it might be wise for the legislature to make an appropriation sufficient to build new locks or take over the old.

CONGRESSMAN PAYS FOR AN UGLY WORD

Grass Valley, Cal., Nov. 24.—Congressman Eaglebright is just as poor today as he was yesterday. Instead of answering the congressman in kind, Larus swore to a warrant charging the statesman with disturbing the peace. Eaglebright, having cooled down, pleaded guilty and paid a $5 fine.

WAIT TOO LONG IN VERMONT

A letter comes from Welcome B. Eastman, the druggist in St. Johnsbury, Vermont, as follows:

"I have trouble to get the names of kidney-troubled people until their obituary is written. The compound I worked well in every case I have sold since I began to get letters from druggists announcing favorable results in every case. Very naturally Eastman wants to tell his people.

"My wife has been using Hyemol for two months for catarrh and pulmonary trouble. She has received more relief and benefit than from any other treatment."—E. S. Parrett, Jeffersonville, O.

"Hyemol cured me of terrible catarrh, and brought me back to my normal condition. I would not be without it in the house for a single night."—Mrs. J. E. Fuller, Columbia, S. C.

Mr. Jones' information as to possible failure of the congressional appropriation is the result of a conversation with Congressman Hawley, whom Mr. Jones quotes as saying that an appropriation for the Willamette project may not be secured from the coming congress because it is a short session.

Company Will Not Be Idle. It is not to be expected that the Portland General Electric company is going to stand idly by and see the keys to the Willamette valley taken away from them, while a struggle, after they have had them in their hands for over 30 years. The water power alone at Oregon City, created by the dam known as the locks, is in itself an income annually of thousands of dollars to this company, and if the state or the government shall either purchase or build new locks, a large percentage of this must be lost to the company.

The power capacity of the Willamette river at Oregon City is about 55,000 horsepower. This estimate is based upon the computation of the United States engineer for the lowest stage of water during the dry season. The vertical fall is 40 feet. In order to get a better idea of the importance of the great Oregon water power, comparison is here made with several other great water powers known to the world: "Oregon City, 55,000 horsepower; Spokane, Wash., 20,000 horsepower; Minneapolis, Minn., 25,000 horsepower; Lowell, Mass., 24,000 horsepower; Lowell, Mass., 11,845 horsepower."

"The government has held that the right of the courts is to give the water of the locks supercedes the right of any corporation. I am of the opinion now, and I believe was two years ago, when I introduced a bill at that session of the legislature asking the state to appropriate $400,000 for the purchase of the old or building new locks on the east side of the river, that the corporation now owning the canal and locks on that side of the river would speedily offer to compromise with the state, and would in fact give back to the state its own. The locks on the west side of the river would be sold to the state of Oregon, rather than have the state build new ones on the east side, which would result in the loss of their locks on the west side by reason of the state operating their locks, and for the further reason that the corporation would lose thousands of dollars annually by reason of the loss of power they are now selling various other corporations at a tremendous profit.

In Debt to State. According to the report of the engineer in charge of the works, Captain Isaac Smith, the original cost of the
