WASHINGTON "U" FEARS BEAVERS

Eakens' Absence Weakens Evergreen Eleven in the Championship Game.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Washington, Nov. 24.—The University of Washington is rapidly rounding into first class shape for its championship struggle here Thanksgiving day with Oregon Agricultural college. While the Oregon Agricultural team do not look on O. A. students and team as such a formidable proposition as they did before the Oregon-O. A. C. game in Portland Saturday, they realize that overconfidence on their part together with the determination with which the Aggies will play to make some kind of a showing this season would prove a very disastrous combination.

This has been a season of surprises in northwest intercollegiate football, but of surprise has been the surprise like that of Oregon's victory over O. A. C. The students here were simply amazed at the result and are generally believed to have been misled by the news that Eakens did not receive the news with great rejoicing as he knows his team may become overconfident.

Washington will go right on practicing hard this week as though O. A. C. had given Oregon as bad a trouncing as Washington did. A team that has a punter and kicker like Wolfe and a brace of linemen like Jamieson and Pedergosa must be strong, think the students, and they will not count the same won until the final whistle blows. And yet the victory of the Oregon team which Washington completely blanketed in all departments except punting, and Eakens equalled Clarke there, makes the students willing to bet their money freely on their team at present O. A. C. money can not be found.

Team in Great Shape.
Outside of Eakens the team will be in fine condition for its closing and most momentous battle of the year. On this contest hinges the championship for Washington and the purple and gold can be expected to do their utmost not to fall down at the last moment. Eakens' right leg is still in bad shape, and he can scarcely walk on it. If he is out of it Thursday, Coyie will have to do the booting, Coyie is not bad in that department, but is far inferior to Eakens. Washington will without doubt use the same lineup as in the game with Oregon. While Willis and Wand will not be able to play, the team will lose practically nothing in having Westover and Taylor who played against Oregon, in their places. Taylor is very light to meet the heavier O. A. backs, but he has the knack of finding a hole when he can see the light glimmering through, and this makes him a dangerous player. The hardscrapping Muckelstone, who is absolutely fearless, will be seen at the other half, and Westover, who played great football in high school last year, will play full-back.

Tegmeyer will hold down center and will be flanked by Babcock, the giant guard, who tore the Oregon line into shreds, earning for himself marked consideration for the position of All-Northwest guard, and Jarvis, another veteran. In at tackle will be Eakens, who is able to play, and Banta, a 195 pounder. Grimm and Mattson will play end, Coyie will run the team from the quarterback position.

Jarvis Shifted to Tackle.
If Eakens cannot play Jarvis will likely be shifted to tackle, and this makes him a man of two years' experience, but lighter than the rest of the line, or Swartz will guard in Eakens' absence will materially weaken the team, not only through the loss of his punting ability, but because his scrappy, fast work in the line will be missed.

Never has the university and in fact the city of Seattle become so enthusiastic over a football game as this week. This is the first time in five years that the championship has been brought to the city, and it all depends on this one great struggle, a record-breaking crowd is expected. The game will begin at 1 o'clock, instead of 2:30, as heretofore.

The student body intends this year to extend their demonstrations beyond the confines of the campus, and the alumni will forget their dignity and get out and root for the team. A big parade, with two bands, the alumni and coeds, riding in autos and the undergraduates marching behind, will be held the night before the game.

The practice the rest of the time preceding the game will be light and on Wednesday the squad will go into the country and rest up for the fray of the morrow. Doble has a number of plays, not used in Eugene, which he intends to use against the Oregon Aggies.

DEFEAT DOES NOT BLUNT SPIRIT OF O. A. C. STUDENTS

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Nov. 24.—In spite of Oregon's victory over the O. A. C. team in Saturday's game in Portland, local students and townspeople are proud of the Beavers and of the spirit displayed in the contest.

The general impression is that O. A. C.'s lack of experience coupled with a slight tinge of overconfidence lost the game for the Beavers.

Oregon profiting by the experience gained in three hard games and with the sting of defeat, will meet the Beavers on Saturday and redeemed herself nobly. It is agreed that no team from the university ever went into a game with a greater do-or-die spirit than did the victors in Saturday's contest.

The game was almost a complete reversal of the O. A. C.-Oregon game of 1906, when the green Aggies held the otherwise northwest champions to a scoreless game and outplayed them in every department.

Local supporters of the orange believe that O. A. C. would have won on a dry field on account of the speed of the backfield and of opportunities for trick plays, but too much grass can not be accorded the Oregon eleven for their team work and splendid spirit. The victors enjoyed the victory.

Very little speculation is being made on the outcome of the O. A. C.-Washington game Thanksgiving day, but despite the dull prospect for O. A. C. the student body is backing the team as only a loyal band of students can.

UNDEFEATED CHAMPIONS OF EASTERN OREGON

FOOTBALL TEAM, PENDLETON, OR. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Pendleton, Or., Nov. 24.—Pendleton High school claims the record of eastern Oregon by their list of victories of the past season. The school won the championship in 1907 and has not been defeated during 1908. They beat Westport Normal, 19 to 0; La Grande High, 14 to 5; Baker City High, 0 to 0. La Grande High defeated Baker City, 6 to 0. Reading from left to right the players are: Top row—Waters, 185 pounds, right tackle; Storle, 145 pounds, left half; Kimball, 119 pounds, quarter; Baker, captain, 138 pounds, fullback; McMill, 154 pounds, right half; Devine, 187 pounds, left tackle; Professor Hampton, 19 to 0; La Grande High, substitute; Chapman, 130 pounds, substitute; Bowman, 142, substitute; Hoskins, 157, left end. Bottom row—Sturges, manager, 137 pounds, right end; Graham, 242 pounds, right guard; Chapman, 151 pounds, center; Hinderman, 162 pounds, left guard.

OLD STYLE GAME FOR MULTNOMAH

Clubmen Cut Out Tricks to Win Thanksgiving Contest From Oregon.

Old style football in huge chunks will be the offering of the Multnomah club in its game with the University of Oregon Thanksgiving afternoon. On the other hand Coach Forbes' proteges promise to induct a whole lot of new style football into the game. The former Yale man has taught his youngsters a whole lot of modern variations. They were not sprung in the O. A. C. game because there was no necessity for them, if this day is not too damp they will be used to mystify the clubmen.

The Oregon squad, which has been practicing assiduously at Seaside this week, has, with the exception of Forbes, fully recovered from the effects of the hard contest with the Aggies. Michaels received a hard whack on the head Saturday, and has not recovered enough to enter.

Michaels has an excellent substitute in Dodson, the Baker City boy, who made such splendid showing against the Beavers. Michaels had a hard time beating Dodson out for the place and Forbes feels that he will show just as well against the heavier clubmen. Otherwise the lineup will be the same as against the O. A. C.

Referee Matter in Air.
It just who will be referee for the big holiday game is not certain. It was originally planned to have Oliver Cuttsman, who is the referee who officiated in the Oregon-Aggie game, look after the play, but Physical Director Angell of the Corvallis team wants Cuttsman. Manager Pratt is willing to let Corvallis take Cutts to Seattle for the game against the University of Washington provided Manager McEwan of the Lemon-Yellow eleven agrees to have Hugo Boyd, the Portland official, take Cutts' place. McEwan had not been heard from on the subject up to noon today.

The "Winged M" players had an excellent practice yesterday afternoon and by Thursday the team will be fit. Longman, Pratt and McMillan were in uniform and though suffering from a slight soreness after the exercise were otherwise in excellent condition. Alexander, promised Manager Pratt that he would be back for Thursday's game and the clubmen are banking on him to look out after one of the end positions.

Manager Pratt stated this morning that spectators would be admitted to the grounds and grandstand from the two gates on Twentieth street, the Chapman street gate and the Chapman street vehicle entrance. This will prevent a recurrence of the Saturday game in Eugene, which was a portion of the game because of inability to handle the immense crowd through one gate on Twentieth street.

EASTERN GAMES ARE CALLED OFF

Washington State Centers All Efforts on Game With Whitman.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
State College, Pullman, Nov. 24.—Whitman college and the State College of Washington will strive for the honors of the gridiron on Rogers field next Thursday afternoon, Thanksgiving day, and immediately following the game will be a concert in the evening auditorium by Madame Nordica and her company. The afternoon's events will close reports relative to bringing the University of Michigan team to Spokane for a big game are of no real significance in the light of present situations.

The proposed Spokane game with Notre Dame of Indiana has been called off. The Washington State eleven will not go to St. Louis to play the St. Louis university eleven, and the reports relative to bringing the University of Michigan team to Spokane for a big game are of no real significance in the light of present situations.

Today Manager J. H. McCroskey received word from the Whitman management that the missionary institution would run an excursion train to Pullman for the game, and that from 400 to 500 persons would come from Walla Walla to see the contest. Other excursion trains and special rate arrangements are reported from neighboring towns of eastern Washington, and a view of the local and out of town interest which is manifest, there is no doubt that next Thursday will be a memorable in the affairs of Pullman.

The local players expect that Whitman will give the contest a hard fight. The Missionary team did that trick last year, playing the Grange and the Corvallis teams. Cochem's bunch of crack forward passers from St. Louis in Spokane on Christmas day. Big Otto Deaner and Arthur Bryan, whose cases have been hanging fire throughout the football season, and who were recently scolded from participation in the game with Idaho, after each of them had played in the game against the University of Washington, have at last been definitely cleared up and eligible by the Washington State college faculty committee. Professor H. V. Carpenter, team manager, will not be in the Whitman game, and the prospects for the Crimmon and Gray are not bright either thereby. The lineup will be as follows:

KETCHEL PLACES BET ON CHANCES

First Punch to Again Decide Champion of World's Middleweights.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 24.—Tom Corbett holds $5,000 today placed in his hands by Joe O'Connor, manager of Stanley Ketchel, to be wagered on his fighter's chances in the Thanksgiving fight.

Ketchel and his business agent had been contemplating a large bet and have finally decided to place the juicy amount mentioned. The odds holding when the money was placed were, and remain, 7 to 1 with Papke favorite.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said the Michigander, "we'll make two bets of $2,500 apiece. One that I win the fight and the other that he doesn't win in 18 rounds." That settled the matter and it is more than likely now that Ketchel will go up a point in the betting. Papke declared that he could accommodate Ketchel in the betting and indignantly added that he never went into the ring in his life without having a good bet that the other fellow would lose.

While Papke's decisive victory over Ketchel at Los Angeles probably makes him a 7 to 10 shot in the betting, the middleweights are so alike in style and hitting power that the odds seem to be just a little topsy-turvy.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said the Michigander, "we'll make two bets of $2,500 apiece. One that I win the fight and the other that he doesn't win in 18 rounds." That settled the matter and it is more than likely now that Ketchel will go up a point in the betting. Papke declared that he could accommodate Ketchel in the betting and indignantly added that he never went into the ring in his life without having a good bet that the other fellow would lose.

Looking at Thursday's scrap from this standpoint, it looks simply a case of the winner who gets there first with the punch. Either scrapper can turn the trick by landing solidly.

But who's going to get there first? That is the question.

BITTER STRUGGLE BETWEEN FIGHTERS

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24.—Bitter indeed will be the struggle between Abe Attell and Freddie Welsh at Vernon tomorrow evening, judging from a diversity of opinion exhibited by the public. Fifteen rounds with two such clever men mixing will be anything but wearisome.

It is a question as to whether either boy can dispose of his opponent on such limited time. Very few there are venturesome enough to predict a knockout. Cleverness predominates to such an extent that the average person is wondering which one possesses the shade-battling Johnson and Jim Flynn meet for the third time this evening in a scheduled fight before Tom McCroskey's Naud Junction club.

Tom McGrath of San Francisco, who is a visitor in Los Angeles, wagered $200 against $300 Monday that Flynn would win by a knockout. The bet was made with Jim Gaines, manager of Battling Johnson.

Betting on the Attell-Welsh fight is of a fluctuating nature with lots of Attell coin at $-10.

NINTH SOCCER GAME THANKSGIVING MORN

The ninth game in the city league of association football teams will be played Thanksgiving morning at 10:30 o'clock, at a new, larger stadium, and with it comes the second round in the city league series. At the same time the results of the games begin to have a more important aspect, since the next month will pretty well determine which will be champion of the state. With the termination of the city league, the decks will also be cleared for a bigger and better game, such as the international games between the league champions, and a picked eleven from the remainder of the league and games with outside teams.

The Thanksgiving morning contest of the Beavers and Multnomah and each Rangers, and with many elements against them, the clubmen will be lucky to win at all, let alone get away with any such decisive score as that by which they overwhelmed the Rangers yesterday. The ground will be wet and heavy, which will help the latter team, whose weight being much greater per man than that of Multnomah. The day being a holiday, the Rangers will also be able to put on their best eleven, which has not been possible before. As a result they have nearly 30 good players to pick from. Multnomah, in addition, has not had a game for several weeks, while the Rangers have been playing steadily.

Victory for the Rangers would make the city league race much closer. It would leave both Columbus and Crickets with a chance to get into the finals.

Australian Wins at Tennis.

Melbourne, Nov. 24.—The final victory in the single tennis championship was won by A. E. Wilding of Australia, who defeated F. Alexander, the American contestant. Wilding won three sets out of four, the score being 6-9, 6-2 and 6-3.

GENERAL CORBIN MAY GET REWARD

Helped National Republican Committee and May Receive Honors.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—Politicians are waiting to see whether the prediction that Lieutenant General Henry C. Corbin, U. S. A., retired, will be selected chairman of the inauguration committee, is to be realized. The prediction followed the announcement that Mrs. Corbin contributed $10,000 to the Republican campaign fund. The chairmanship is a much sought prize but it rarely goes outside of the district.

The inaugural chairman has a long list of appointments and a myriad of social distinctions to bestow. Although General Corbin is now listed as a resident of Ohio, he married Miss Edith Agnes Fatten in Washington seven years ago and they have always regarded Washington as their home. General Corbin on his own account

Jack Gleason, to prevent the Papke-Ketchel bout was thrown out of court today.

No further legal obstacles will be thrown in the paths of the fighters and their scheduled meeting on Thanksgiving day afternoon will not be interrupted by injunction or restraining order. Gleason claimed he held a prior right by virtue of an agreement signed by Joe O'Connor, Ketchel's manager. O'Connor became convinced that the building where Gleason was to hold the fight was too small. He broke the agreement under the pretext that it was made subject to the acquiescence of Ketchel.

GRAMMAR RACE NOW BETWEEN TWO TEAMS

The race for the lightweight championship of the grammar school football league was yesterday narrowed down to two clubs, Irvington and Stephens, when Irvington defeated Brooklyn, 8 to 0. A touchdown, the resulting goal, and a safety netted Irvington 8 points. Fred and Floyd Kirkland played great ball for Irvington. Fred making a long run as interference for Magius, who was carrying the ball for 55 yards for a touchdown. Lloyd played a great defensive game. The lineup: Brooklyn—McClure, L. E.; Rasmus, Steiner, L. T.; Adams, Gorfis Logan, L. G.; Agnew, Mulrennan, R. G.; H. Smith, Versteeg, R. G.; McDonald, Weaver, R. T.; Thompson, F. Kirkland, R. E.; C. Smith, Hansen, G. J.; Marshall, Fred Kirkland, L. H. B.; Wilson, Morgins, R. H. B.; Steherts, Britz, B. B.; Adams.

FIGHTERS' FLOP IS ALL RIGHT WITH JUDGE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Nov. 24.—After 10 minutes' hearing before Superior Judge Seawell the suit of the fight promoter, helped the national committee considerably in getting funds during last summer's tight and trying times and it is on this score that some of the party leaders have been trying to induce Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock, to select the inaugural chairman, to give the place to the veteran soldier. In the meantime, Mrs. Corbin herself has been trying to enroll Test in her husband's behalf.
