

IDE HAMMER AND BOOST FOR ALL

California Promotion Committee Advises People of Coast States and Outlines Plan for Getting Things of Congress.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Nov. 25.—That the sentiment for a "united Pacific states" is daily growing stronger is the gist of a statement issued today by the California promotion committee. The statement reads in part as follows:
"When the people have come to a full realization of the force of the statement that what benefits one part of the Pacific slope benefits every part, a great forward step has been taken in the development of the western country. In bringing about this situation, no more potent factor can exert its influence than the chamber of commerce, board of trade or other development body. By a persistent and systematic campaign of education on broad lines, progress can be made effectively."
The committee looks forward to the day when every one of the Pacific states—Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Nevada and Utah—and the territory of Arizona will have a state central organization affiliated with all the local bodies within it. When that time comes, representatives of these seven central organizations have been invited to discuss the needs of the region as a unit, and, for instance, unite on what is to be asked in the way of congressional appropriations. Obviously, before that condition can be brought about, each state must be unified, and sectional jealousies must be eliminated.

RARE HONOR TO CHAMBERLAIN

Of All the 46 Governors, He Is Chosen to Announce Conservation Program.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)
Washington, Nov. 26.—Governor Chamberlain has accepted an invitation to address a mass meeting here during the conference of governors, December 8, and unless arrangements partly effected are changed, at the same meeting President Roosevelt and President-elect Taft will also speak. The intention of the conservation commission in arranging the mass meeting was to select one governor to speak for all the governors, and they decided to ask Oregon's chief executive. Obviously, being believed that the nation has already endorsed the principle of conservation, and it is ready for details as to how to accomplish the desired ends.
President Roosevelt regards the coming conference as the most important yet held, and is taking personal interest. The details are in the hands of Chairman Clifford Pinchot of the conservation commission.
The selection of Chamberlain to address the mass meeting is regarded as a most distinguished compliment.

GAINED NOTHING BY EARLY BUYING

Thoughtful Purchasers of Turkeys See Prices Drop at Last Moment.

Those who waited until the last moment to buy their Thanksgiving supply of turkeys, received bargains. For several days it has been noted that the big retail markets had secured more turkeys than they could possibly sell at the high prices quoted, and when this condition confronts the market it usually results in a lower price.
Good birds were sold in the retail markets last night as low as 15 cents a pound, and even fancy stock seldom brought over the figure. The glut was complete, and even the auctions conducted last night by some of the larger retailers failed to clean up the bulk of the supplies. The price of turkeys for the bulk of the holdings were hauled down to the cold storage plants, where they will remain until the demand grows better—about Christmas time.
Every effort was made by the large retailers to hold up the price by endeavoring to place an artificial value on the wholesale market. For awhile the smaller dealers were excited, and bid higher prices than the market justified, but the scheme proved a flat failure, although many consumers were forced to pay fully 5 cents a pound more for turkeys than they should were the market not manipulated.

PROVIDES APPEAL FROM INSPECTOR

The new Williams building ordinance introduced in the council yesterday was read and referred to the judiciary committee of the council. The ordinance provides for a board of appeal from the decision of the building inspector, and prescribes his duties and powers. Another ordinance aimed to disqualify the present building inspector was likewise referred to the judiciary committee.
The architectural club has gone on record as favoring the following amendment to the Williams ordinance: All buildings of four stories or less, the front story to have a wall thickness of at least 17 inches, and the upper three stories to have a 13 inch thickness, or the equivalent to an eight inch thickness for a story not over 15 feet.

TRIES TO KEEP WORD TO RETURN TO ASYLUM IF MIND FAILED

Angus Duncan MacCloud, a man of grizzled beard and halting step, presented himself to Jailer Hunter at the county jail this morning and asked what he should do. In response to questions he slowly told a pathetic story of failing memory and fear that he would do something that is wrong. He said he remembered that he had hired a number of men to work for him yesterday, though he had no work for them. He said he told some of them to report to the O. B. & N. car shops.
The old man said that he spent last winter in the asylum for the insane at Stielacoom Wash., near Spokane. He was discharged last spring, but says he promised that if anything went wrong with him he would come back. He went to southern Oregon and worked at Grants Pass. About two months ago his memory began to play him tricks and he realized that he was becoming irresponsible. Then he began to work

GAVE SON DEED TO DODGE LAW

Epllers Made by Court to Produce Enough to Satisfy Claim.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Epller spent some uncomfortable hours on the witness stand before Judge Gantenbein in the circuit court yesterday afternoon. They had been cited to appear to answer questions concerning their property. Sheriff Stevens having reported that he could find nothing to levy on to satisfy a judgment of $450, recently given by a jury against the Epllers in favor of Mrs. Mary A. Stark.
Dan J. Malarky and John F. Logan conducted the examination, and their inquiries soon developed a lack of memory in the witnesses as to the transactions by which it was claimed they have disposed of all they owned. It was shown that five days after they were served with summons in the damage suit brought by Mrs. Stark they deeded their entire holdings to their son Fred J. Epller, taking a note for $500. This note was placed in a bank at Vancouver, Wash.
The attorneys for Mrs. Stark told the court that they were on the track of a

CONFESSES HE GAGGED HANSON

Lee Furlong Declares, However, Robbery Drunken Row and Nothing More.

Lee Furlong, arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Hellyer and Moseley, confesses to being one of the men who bound, gagged, cut and robbed E. H. Hansen early yesterday morning at Railroad and Randolph streets—only, he says, it was not a holdup, but a drunken quarrel over money matters. This story, however, is not believed. The detectives are positive that Furlong and another man, for whom they are still looking, committed the crime described by Hansen.
Hansen states that about 1:30 yesterday morning he ate lunch in a chop house in lower Albina and showed about $45 when he paid for it. When he left the place two men followed him. Hansen took the precaution of putting the $45 into his shoe. When he reached the corner of Railroad and Randolph

He managed to free himself and reported the occurrence to the police. The arrest of Furlong followed, and the detectives expect to be able to get the other man before long.

EMPLOYMENT MEN FORGOT THE LAW

Seven employment agents were yesterday called upon by Acting Judge Seabrook to contribute to the support of the city, fines being assessed against them for violations of the city ordinance regulating employment agents. Five of them paid $15 each for failure to post in their offices copies of the city ordinance dealing with their business, and two others were fined $25 each for having failed to give copies of the ordinance with the receipts they gave to laborers. Those punished were J. A. Mortenson, C. B. Hansen Jr., F. Bradford, J. E. Welch, G. Shag, E. A. Savas and J. D. McCauley.
