SECOND PAVING FIGHT PROMISED

Outbreak Awaits Decision of City Attorney on Council's Authority.

The council yesterday afternoon voted to pave Fourth street from Burnside to Gilsan with vitrified brick. This surface is manufactured by a Seattle company which also seeks to obtain the big north end paving contract which will cost property owners $200,000.

City Attorney Kavanaugh is now investigating to see whether the council has the authority to create the assessment district which calls for the expenditure of this large sum of money. Petitions to pave this area with Belgian blocks are also on file, and when the city attorney has rendered his decision another big fight in the council is threatened.

Advocates of the stone blocks say that if this new district were to be paved with such a surface that new quarries would immediately be opened up on the Columbia and Willamette rivers to compete with the St. Helens quarry, which now has a monopoly on the block business. The opening up of the block mining industry would mean an important addition to the industrial and commercial growth of Portland and the retention of money in local enterprises. Otherwise there will be a large annual outflow to the Seattle firm.

Can Live on Candy

Chocolate Creams and Peanuts Would Keep You Alive, says Prof. Olsen.
Professor JOHN C. OLSEN, Ph. D., United States Food and Drug Inspection Chemist, in his lecture on "Pure Foods and their Preparation," among other things said: "It was shown that two-thirds of a pound of peanuts and two-thirds of a pound of chocolate creams contain sufficient nourishment to feed an adult twenty-four hours. A diet of this kind would not be expensive compared with the cost of other foods."

EXTENDS ESPEE'S TIME ON FOURTH

Councilmen Willing to Have Steam Trains on Street for Months Longer.

Portland must endure steam trains on Fourth street until December 31, 1909, unless Mayor Lane vetoes the ordinance passed by the city council yesterday afternoon granting the Southern Pacific the extension of time asked for. This action of the council is rather surprising, considering the fact that Mayor Lane directed the city attorney to prosecute General Manager O'Brien for violating the ordinance now in effect by operating steam locomotives since November 11. The case is still pending in the municipal court, and the city, according to its legal adviser, has a good chance of winning the suit to cut the railroad.

Efforts by Councilmen Cottel and Rushlight to have the passage of the ordinance deferred and the matter referred to a special committee to hold a joint conference with the railway officials were defeated. Councilman Rushlight said that he had opposed the granting of the time extension to the company in the first place and had predicted that a lawsuit would result. He is opposed to any further extensions for such a long period.

Councilman Baker thought six months would be a sufficient time for the railway to show its good faith in arranging to remove locomotives and freight cars from the street. He said if the railroad showed that it was doing all it could to comply with the law and needed a further extension that he would be willing to allow it.

C. M. Sutherland, a representative of the Southern Pacific, appeared on the floor of the council and tried to persuade the members that his company was acting in good faith and was willing to complete the cutoff to Beaverton. He said this would be done by September 1, 1909, but he was unwilling to make any definite promises other than his roundabout assurances that in less than a year there would be no more steam engines on Fourth street.

COTTEL CHANGES VOTE IN COUNCIL

In spite of the fact that the liquor license committee of the city council recommended the revocation of the liquor license of Gus Swanson, the council yesterday refused to revoke the vote being 10 to 4. Chairman Cottel of the committee voted for revocation at the committee meeting, but yesterday in council he changed his vote, saying that he had only voted for revocation in the first instance in order to get the matter before the council where he believes such things should be threshed out. The councilman apparently forgot that the committee reports go to the council or misheard the liquor license committee.

Maud Powell and Her Associates Are Greeted by a Large Audience

By G. I. W.
A true compliment to her worth was the size of the audience that greeted Maud Powell last night at the Hellig. Last year Madame Powell came here practically unknown to the coast, except to the few who know the names of all the successes in the musical world. She played to a small crowd, but she could not have found more sincere or more spontaneous enthusiasm in an attendance many times the size.

Last night she came here no better advertised, on paper, but she played to a capacity house which applauded with all the enthusiasm of delighted surprise. The reason? Those who heard her last year had rewarded her for the delight she had given them by advertising her personally—and that, after all, is the best advertisement an artist can get.

And the artists deserved all the enthusiasm that pulsated throughout the house. It was a thoroughly artistic concert, one marked throughout by taste and musicianship. Madame Powell represents all that is fine in violin playing. She is a lovely artist from whom emanates strength and character tempered by warmth by womanliness. Her interpretations are individual. She and her music as she plays it and her violin seems to sing the music instead of being played upon. She and her instrument are at one.

The program showed her in widely varied work and whether it required a strong, virile touch or a dainty delicate shading, it was always faultless. A Wieniawski concerto in three movements opened the program. It combines brilliancy with rich, beautiful strains. A beautiful singing melody in the second movement in rich, low tones made the romance movement which is sometimes given as a solo. The tone was beautiful and her legato work was absolutely flawless. The climax of the concerto was reached in the Zingara movement, with its gypsy abandon and grace, and it caught the audience so well with its spirit that after repeated recalls the player returned to play Schubert's Serenade.

"An Otello" fantasia was her next number and the various airs of the opera were carefully woven together. Much of the enjoyment of such a number depends on familiarity with the airs employed, that the weaving together may be better understood. Her final solos included three short numbers, two very well known, a Brahms Hungarian dance and a Chopin Berceuse. Sarasate's "Cobbler's Dance" was played with a captivating air and called for a physical encore, a Chopin minuet waltz and a Fiorillo study without accompaniment.

When Powell demonstrated her generosity when Miss May Mukie, cellist, appeared, for the latter shared honors with the better known artist. Miss Mukie is very young, but of an artistic temperament and has a charming young manner, more boyish than girlish. But she has not any cause for them except getting rid of the grease beneath. When she does that she finds her complexion improves.

In this way only can I account for the clear, natural complexion acquired by those who use the formula receipt: One half ounce Marmola, 1/4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 1/4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, 1/4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic. By causing the excess flesh to be absorbed, it clears the blood of the globules of fat which, physicians say, cause the greasy, oily skin of the over-fat.

This simple receipt makes a mixture both pleasant and harmless. It causes neither wrinkles nor stomach disturbances. It is also quite inexpensive. Make it a point to try some; take a teaspoonful after meals and 1/2 before bed a week or two and see if your oily skin does not quickly disappear. As you lose your fat, your complexion should progressively improve, and after a month or so, when you have lost 25 or 30 pounds of flesh, it should be nearly perfect.

TELLS ELKS HOW LARGE IS ORDER

Rush L. Holland, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, who arrived in Portland yesterday to pay an official visit to the lodge, is in Vancouver, Wash., this morning accompanied by the two other national officers who are accompanying him on the trip. This afternoon Mr. Holland leaves for Salem. An informal reception was tendered the visitors last evening, after which Mr. Holland made an address.

Portland lodge members most fully and spoke in the highest terms of the organization building here and the tasteful and expensive manner in which it has been arranged. Mr. Holland also gave some interesting facts concerning the growth of the Elks' lodges and of the membership and the financial standing of the order. There are 1140 lodges in the national body with membership of upward of 300,000 men. The Elks, he said, have more than $200,000 in the national treasury and owns property worth millions of dollars.

INSANE MAN'S BRAIN PROMOTION BEE IN

Charles Englike, a man with great promotion schemes chasing each other through his brain, was declared insane after examination at the county jail yesterday, and was taken to the asylum at Salem today. He pleaded with Judge Phillips to be released early in the morning because great droves of men were coming to see him at an office he said there were millions in it. For several days Englike has been trying to make an appointment with Harvey W. Scott, and it was thought wise to confine him before his mania took a dangerous turn. It was necessary to place him in a padded cell for a time.
