

DEDICATE NEW COLLEGE HOME

Christian Brothers to Open New Building on Grand Avenue.

The dedication ceremony of the Christian Brothers Business college at Grand avenue and Clackamas street will be celebrated Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The principal address of the day will be delivered by Bishop O'Dea of Seattle. The occasion will be notable to the old students of the Christian Brothers' college by the visit of Brother Michael, the only survivor of the little band of Christian brothers which came to Portland and started their work here 25 years ago.

The new college is situated on the block bounded by Grand avenue, East Sixth, Clackamas and Wasco streets. It is a three story concrete covered building practically fireproof and 112 by 62 feet in floor dimensions.

The new college building is the result of the pioneer work of Brother Andrew, president of Blanchet institute. Shortly after his arrival in the city a year ago Brother Andrew decided that the new building was needed and set about to secure it. He has been aided in his work by the former students of the brothers' school and by the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

W. P. Sinnott, president of the Christian Brothers' college Alumni association, will be chairman of the day at the dedicatory services Sunday afternoon. Besides the principal address delivered by Bishop O'Dea of Seattle, several well known clergymen in the church and public life will speak. Bishop Glorieux of Idaho, Bishop O'Reilly of Baker City, Archbishop of Portland, Governor Chamberlain, Mayor Lane and others will be on the program. Music will be furnished by a double quartet from the cathedral orchestra under the leadership of Professor Goodrich.

Immediately after the dedicatory exercises the general program will be given in alumni hall in the new building.

VET MINSTRELS' READY FOR SHOW

Last night at Auditorium Hall the Spanish War Veterans' Minstrel company, which is rehearsing for the big benefit at the Hellig theatre, December 15 and 19, held an informal session to boost the big minstrel show.

Refreshments were served and a clever lot of impromptu stunts were presented to the audience. Among those who contributed to the fun are L. W. Larrimore, Jay H. Upton, Lincoln Hart, George Evans, Andy Vaughn, Gordon Peel, L. W. Sook and Mr. Wright.

Lincoln Hart, stage director, announced that the next rehearsal will be held at the Hellig theatre, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock and every one taking part in the show should be present.

LAY NEW PLANS FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

The thirty-seventh annual meeting of the Equal Suffrage association opened this afternoon at the city hall with a business session and the election of officers. As the nominees for official positions are the present incumbents, it is conceded that they will be elected to succeed themselves.

At the open meeting this evening, to which the public is cordially invited, addresses will be made by Mrs. Abigail Scott Duntaway, Mrs. Clara B. Colby, Mrs. Alice Webster, Mrs. Kate Bonham, Mrs. Sarah A. Evans, Rev. Benjamin Young, Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Dan McAllen and others. The new plan of the Suffrage association to obtain the right of ballot for tax-paying women will be discussed.

MILLION OFFERED FOR PETER'S PENCE FUND

(United Press Special Wire.) Rome, Nov. 27.—A coterie of American millionaires has offered a contribution of $1,000,000 to the "Peter's Pence" fund if two American cardinals are created at the coming consistory. Those well informed in Vatican circles say the group comprises New York, Chicago, San Francisco and St. Louis millionaires.

"TEXAS" HOT AND SPICY, SERVED MEXICAN STYLE AT THE HEILIG

There will be a good many dyspeptics in town today judging from the number of people who completed their Thanksgiving day feasts last night with a chili con carne dish called "Texas" which that invincible theatrical chef, Calvin Heilig, offered as his holiday chef-d'oeuvre.

Fashions in dramatic Thanksgivings feasts seem to change as in everything else. Time was, but a few years back, when not to have a romantic southern play on Thanksgiving evening was to go to bed hungry. It might be "Beneath Southern Skies" or a Tom show but it must be southern. Our tastes have changed evidently. Now we like a dash of spicy, peppery, powder-stained west to round out the day. We like 'em loud and we like 'em hot. And unless we carry an antidote around in our vest pocket we are apt to suffer the next morning.

Texas, according to the author, J. Maullin Feigl—the program geographically errs by spelling it "Mauldin"—Texas is a land that fully deserves the attention that has been heaped upon it. There English ladies in evening dress mingle with the simple herdsmen of the kine, dragging their court trains carelessly like about chicken yard and coral. The talk is of greasers, and horse thieves, and dirty English lords and gold-mounted pistols and "I'm honest and r-r-r-revenge! r-r-r-revenge! There is a greaser called Pasquale with a drop of Spanish blood in him.

That drop flavors the whole meal and causes the trouble to your digestive organs. It makes Pasquale jump at the English ladies in their court dresses and frighten them. It makes him come light into the Fourth of July dances at the ranch house and shoot Freshwater Jack in the back. It makes him return while Freshwater is lying prostrate on a couch and try to stab Freshwater on the other side. Best of all it is probably responsible for the fact that when the exhausted Freshwater, too weak and ill to rise, grabs him about the neck, chokes him until he drops his knife and then holds the weapon towards him, he hesitates not a moment but hurls himself upon the weapon thus extended.

That was the piece-de-resistance of the dinner. There were other side dishes. Lord Angus Trevor, Lady Cecille Trevor and Lady Francis McKenzie comprise the chestnut salad. Lord Angus, who was really well played by Gerard Fairfax, has a ranch in Texas, and has designs upon Colonel Buck West's gold mines and Colonel Buck West's daughter, the honest cow girl. Both come to naught. The English ladies are apparently just trimmings. They are like the parsley placed to grace the side of the platter. Their only "business" is to adorn. They do it with a minimum of exertion.

The waiters who serve up this repast include Harry Matland as Colonel Buck West, Miss Nora Shelby as Texas, the lovely cow girl, Miss Winona Erickson as Mrs. West, Ethel Clifton and Louise Sanford as the real ladies and Ted F. Griffin as Pasquale. The head waiter is Frank Conway, Freshwater Jack.

PORTLAND TO BE HEADQUARTERS OF FORESTERS FOR BIG DISTRICT

Portland's stenographic brigade is to be added to materially next week when the headquarters of the United States forest service for Washington, Oregon, northern California and Alaska opens in the Beck building with a full set of officers, assistants and the chiefs of respective divisions. The work will begin next Tuesday, and those connected with this department of the government have already commenced to arrive.

There are more than six typewriter pounders, and all of them are not blondes. Neither can all of them sing and dance. But most of the young women you may depend upon it, are good looking, to say the least. There are 14 stenographers coming—let the men take note—and they are from various parts of the country.

Here they are. See if you know any of them: Misses Pearl Shrader, Anna Mason, Doris Reams, Agnes McNair, Elizabeth Garth, Buelah Westlake, Louise Helmick, K. L. Reed, Clara Gontier, Agnes V. Schannell, Ida Estes, Florence Wilson, Mrs. J. R. Anderson and Mrs. M. F. Rube.

There are to be five other districts beside that established in Portland. In all 37 persons will be assigned to the different districts. This change of the system from Washington to the various parts of the country was done so as to enable the men in charge to be nearer the scene of their work, and to be able to more readily personally inspect the districts of which they are at the head in the forest service.

The list of those who will make their headquarters in Portland on and after December 1 is as follows:

E. P. Allen, district forester; G. E. Cecil, assistant district forester; C. H. Flory, chief of operation; C. J. Buck, assistant chief; W. E. Herling, chief engineer; W. H. Benton and E. H. Darling, engineers; W. F. Staley, chief section of occupancy; D. F. McGowan, claims clerk; T. M. Moorman, settlement clerk; Frank A. Law Jr., uses clerk; A. H. Cousins, fiscal agent; Miss Florence D. Strauss, C. C. Brunner, Miss Lucy I. Brader, and Miss Augusta W. Russell, accounts clerks; Shirley Buck, chief section of maintenance; Miss E. J. Bernhardt, file clerk; Mrs. A. P. Mulford, assistant file clerk; Mrs. L. G. Riddell, mail clerk; O. E. Haring, R. H. Robertson, G. Hilton and Miss L. W. Cottrell, draftsmen; Howard K. O'Brien, chief office of grazing; T. P. McKenzie, assistant chief; Mrs. M. L. Joynt, clerk; J. B. Knapp, chief office of products; H. B. Gekker, assistant chief; Miss Erma F. Bell, computing clerk; F. E. Ames, chief office of silviculture; C. S. Judd, assistant chief; T. T. Muger, chief section of silvics; J. F. Kummer, chief section of planting; C. H. Pierce, law officer; G. E. Frowbridge, assistant law officer; N. F. McDuff, Doris Skeels, Max Rothmund, P. S. Buhl, O. P. M. Goss and E. B. Starr, forest assistants; William T. Andrews and J. P. Hughes, lumbermen; C. L. Farrar and A. L. Thayer, land examiners; W. McBride and T. O. Erickson, assistant land examiners; J. G. Giddings and H. S. Riggs, expert miners.

To Clean the Sink. Every sink should be provided with a three-cornered sieve made by covering a metal frame with very fine wire netting. When water is thrown into the sink it should be turned into this sieve, which retains every particle of solid matter, preventing its getting into the pipes and causing trouble. It is also much neater. Each morning the sink should be thoroughly cleaned. Dissolve a teaspoonful of Gold Dust washing powder in hot water and with a whisk broom wash the basket thoroughly; then carefully scrub every portion of the sink, pouring some of the hot suds down the pipe to loosen grease that may have gathered in the trap.

No Shoddy Heels on Selz Royal Blue Shoes

The heel of a shoe doesn't seem very important to the wearer. But it is to the maker. A solid leather heel costs more than one made with one or two layers of leather and the rest composition. Some makers use these shoddy heels, because you can't tell the difference, except in the wear. Selz Royal Blue shoes have leather heels. They might use shoddy, too; but even if you didn't know it, they would. Every Selz shoe is guaranteed all leather by the maker to you.

BOYS' CONFERENCE CONVENES TODAY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Eugene, Or., Nov. 27.—The Boys' Conference of Oregon and Idaho, under the supervision of the Y. M. C. A., met in third annual session at the Central Presbyterian church in Eugene this afternoon. The visiting delegates will spend part of the afternoon sight-seeing, the principal place to be visited being the University of Oregon. At four o'clock the preliminary meeting will be held and from 5 to 6 o'clock the assignment of delegates to place for entertainment will be made. This evening I. B. Rhodes, of Portland will address the conference, on the subject of boys' clubs. The address will be followed by discussion by the Salem, Albany, Corvallis, Eugene and Portland conferences.

GOOD ROADS MEETING AT EUGENE TOMORROW

Eugene, Or., Nov. 27.—The Good Roads meeting will take place at the courthouse in Eugene tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. The merchants of the city have agreed to close their stores from 1 to 2 o'clock. Judge John H. Scott of Salem, president of the Oregon Good Roads association, will be the principal speaker.

Others will be John H. Albert, president of the Capital National bank of Salem, and the following local speakers: County Judge G. R. Christian, Joel McCormack, J. L. Adkinson, Rodney Scott, W. C. Conner, D. W. Bath, J. M. Starford, S. L. Moorhead, C. K. Hale, John H. Hartog, D. E. Yoran, G. D. Linn, A. W. Osborn, R. K. Hemphill, George A. Dorris, J. Beebe, Elijah Bangs, T. A. Schaber, F. J. Hard, Dr. L. D. Scarborough, H. A. Bowers, J. A. Younggreen, Jack Rodman, I. H. Bingham, L. E. Bean, and President P. L. Campbell of the University of Oregon.

To convene the meeting the Eugene Military band has been engaged to furnish music. The band will meet at the Commercial club rooms and head a parade from there to the courthouse, where the meeting is to be held.
