Taking Turkeys to Alaska.

There has been quite a radical change in the turkey situation here during the past 24 hours. While storage houses are still quite liberally supplied with birds that remained unsold after Thanksgiving the supplies are not depressing as they were yesterday. While there is as yet practically no demand from the city trade for turkeys, outside markets are buying. One Front street handler sold quite a bunch of turkeys to the north during the past 24 hours around 20c for poor quality, while a large retailer cleaned up the bulk of his storage birds to a northern house for Alaska shipment at close to the top figures of the week. This nothern buying puts an entirely new phase upon the turkey situation. While the situation in the turkey market at this time is far from being pleasing to handlers, it might be considerably worse. One feature of the market at this time is that there is scarcely a first class turkey for sale in the Portland market at this time. There are many "culls" in the ice houses—nearly six tons, or 12,000 pounds, going in Thursday night and Friday morning. Of this amount one ton has already been moved out and from present indications the situation will be considerably improved in the near future.

No Market for Chickens.

A remarkable feature of the present poultry market is the fact that there is practically no demand at all for chickens. While the receipts of chickens are quite liberal they are not near so heavy as usually shown at this period of the year. The demand seems to have topped off altogether.

Holding Eggs Very Firm.

Eggs are being held firmer in the Front street markets today, but so far as known nothing over 40c is obtainable for supplies unless perhaps for stamped stock from nearby places. Arrivals of local eggs are smaller and this has been a stimulant of much importance to the entire egg market here. Eastern eggs are advancing and the market is firmer at the higher prices.

New Mackerel Is Arriving.

New catch mackerel is arriving in this market from Norway. Prices on imported fish are about 20 per cent lower than a year ago. American fish are about 10 per cent lower. Most of the catch of mackerel in Norway waters this season consisted of small sizes with no bloaters noted. On the other hand the catch in the American Atlantic was principally large fish.

Market Full of Celery.

The local market is full of celery at this time. Local supplies are arriving quite freely and still another car of California stock was unloaded this morning. The latter, however, was of quite good quality and sells at $4.25@4.50 a crate.

Orange market is steady here at unchanged prices, supplies selling at $3.00@3.25 a box.

There is little demand for horseradish at this time and quality is poor because of long keeping.

Sales of hops are again reported in the country around 7@8c a pound, the latter for good quality. There is a scarcity of choice goods and this quality is likely firm at 8½c, although none of the dealers are offering over 8c at the moment. There is no change in the foreign situation, brewers generally showing a disposition to take their contracts without making additional purchases.

Brief Notes of Front Street Trade.

Cranberries are in liberal supply. Prices same.

Banana offerings are still scant.

Nut market is quite slow here and in the south.

Dressed meat market is firm at unchanged values.

Front street sells at the following prices. Those paid shippers are less regular commissions:

Portland Union Stockyards, Nov. 28.—The livestock market showed nominal arrivals for the past 24 hours, receipts including but 130 hogs and 20 cattle. No sheep came. The outlook for the hog market is rather mixed. Good stuff is scarce and if it came would probably bring as high as $6.25, but none of this class of stock is coming forward at the moment.

Sheep market is quite firm with trade famished for want of supplies. Even the larger packers are not able to fill the demands of their trade and this may bring forth higher values in the near future.

The tone of the cattle market is quite good, with everyone asking about supplies and prices stiffly maintained at former figures.

Select Hogs Not Available.

"Select hogs are not available in the market just now," says W. P. Gould. "The market is rather weak for them just now, but so is the quality. I believe it still possible to obtain as high as $6.25 for good hogs but those hogs must weigh from 240 to 250 pounds each and must be fat and finished. Hogs that weigh that amount and are not finished will not bring the price.

"Already there is a better demand all through the cattle market and all sorts of stock are being taken up by killers with prices held very firm though unchanged.

"While there is no change in the price of sheep as yet the prospects are good and although I don't like to have shippers hold back their supplies too much, I am of the opinion that prices will do better after awhile."

Today's arrivals of livestock in the yards compare with this day in recent years as follows:

	Hogs.	Cattle.	Sheep.
1907	80	..	215
1906	236	52	220
1905	70	..	116

A year ago today all lines of livestock showed a steady tone with values unchanged.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—There was a very narrow range of prices in the local wheat market today, with a very slow tone abroad. The market has a waiting attitude and neither side is willing to go much out of its way to induce trading.

While the market started a fraction or two higher here this morning, the price did not reflect any changed conditions in the pit. There were a few shorts who wanted to be square over Sunday and as most of them had paper profits they took them and covered at the fractional advance. After this covering was over there was practically nothing to sustain the advance and after drifting into intense dullness a weaker feeling appeared and the market closed ⅛c under yesterday for the December and unchanged for the May and July options.

Liverpool traders were undecided in their views and the market there closed unchanged to ⅝d above yesterday.

BEAR ACTIVITY LOWERS STOCKS

New York Market Generally Lower Today With Smelters Much Depressed.

New York, Nov. 28.—Bearish activity was the feature of the trading in the stock market, and general losses were recorded. Smelters was inclined to lag in view of sagging tendency of silver metal, which, it is thought, will affect earnings of the company materially and Amalgamated, Anaconda and Steel were in slow demand and participated in the movement. The expectancy of large orders for rails caused a fairly steady feeling to prevail in steel shares, and the two issues show but small losses.

DESPERADO KILLS DEPUTY IN UTAH

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Ogden, Utah, Nov. 28.—Seymour T. Clark, a deputy sheriff, was killed last night at Uintah, a few miles east of here, by an unknown desperado. Deputy J. J. Murphy and a sick man the two deputies had in custody were also wounded. Posses are in search of the desperado.

Union Pacific detectives have joined in the hunt. Unless a large force of officers is on hand when the man is captured he will probably be lynched.

Deputy Murphy believes the man was robbing a box car when he was surprised by the officers.

ROOM THEFTS HIS SPECIALTY

C. J. Johnson was arrested this morning by Detectives Mallett and Smith and booked at the police station on a charge of larceny. The detectives claim that Johnson is a "room worker," who has been operating about the city for some time, and has robbed about eight rooms in lodging houses. Johnson was taken before the police judge, waived examination, and was bound over. Being unable to raise the $1000 bail money demanded he was remanded to jail.

With the slowest demand for flour ever seen upon the Pacific coast there is very little doing in a wheat buying way just now by millers. The only movement of note is the purchases of liberal lots at interior point but even these lots exports are not making very much effort to purchase.

The cash wheat market is showing no change in value so far as publically made, but it is quite doubtful if anything over 89c could be received for club, track Portland.

On the Portland board of trade there was a feeling of weakness in wheat futures. For December option the bids were ⅜c lower and a like decline was shown by holders of the same option. For November wheat board of trade bids are ½c a bushel under yesterday at 91c while asked prices are ⅜c down.

There was no change in coarse grains either cash or future delivery, prices being the same as yesterday.

MISSING WITH $8600 NOTE

John H. Eppler in Contempt for Failing to Produce Paper in Court.

Where is John H. Eppler?

That is a question that is becoming exceedingly pointed in the circuit court, where he was ordered to appear not later than 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon with a note for $8600. The note was to be held for sale to satisfy an excution for $4500 under a judgment given against Eppler and his wife in favor of Mrs. Mary A. Stark.

Instead of appearing with the note, as he was ordered to do by Judge Gantenbein, Eppler has himself disappeared. Mrs. Eppler says he left home Thanksgiving morning, saying he was going over to Vancouver to get the note, which was on deposit there. He has not been seen since. Thomas J. Cleeton, attorney for the Epplers, says he does not know where his client has gone, and thinks that the man is not fully responsible for his actions.

"I want Eppler here, and the note as well," said Mr. Cleeton today. "I have no idea where he is. He is 71 years of age and from information I have gained from a physician I do not believe that he realizes what a serious thing he is doing in disobeying the order of the court. That is the only way I can excuse his action."

Dan J. Malarkey and John F. Logan, the attorneys for Mrs. Stark, declare that no stone will be left unturned to uncover property owned by the Epplers, which they are alleged to have transferred to their son after suit was begun against them in order to defeat the judgment. The disappearance of Eppler and the probability that he has fled from the state with the note from which it was hoped that the judgment might be realized, puts new complications in the case.

Mrs. Eppler appeared yesterday afternoon and paid into court $40 that she was ordered to produce by Judge Gantenbein last Wednesday, so she is not in danger of being declared in contempt of court. Hearing in the matter is set for next Monday afternoon.

SOON OPEN BIDS ON NEW DEPOT

Plans and specifications for the new East Portland station for the Southern Pacific railroad have been completed and will be ready for the inspection of contractors and prospective bidders Tuesday. The building is to be of concrete blocks and the entire half block of ground, upon a part of which it will stand, is to be covered with a concrete platform.

Bidders will be allowed about 10 days' time in which to submit bids after they have been placed for inspection. If a satisfactory bid is received, construction work on the station should commence by the middle of February. It is impossible to tell how long it will take to complete the building, which will be made large enough not only to accommodate present east side traffic, but that from all the trains of the west side branch of the Southern Pacific which will come into the station by way of the Beaverton-Oswego cutoff. The plans will be on exhibition in the office of Chief Engineer Boschke in the Wells-Fargo building.

CALIFORNIA MAN IS FOUND DYING

H. Gushaw, who, from letters in his pockets is believed to be a fish dealer of Fortuna, Cal., is in the Good Samaritan hospital, and is believed to be dying. Gushaw, as his name is supposed to be, was found at Second and Flanders streets Thanksgiving afternoon, apparently suffering from an alcoholic epileptic fit. The authorities at Fortuna have been communicated with, as today it was feared Gushaw had but a short time to live.

BOOKKEEPER IN JAIL FOR THEFT

W. B. Glenn Charged With Conspiring With W. P. Harlow.

The preliminary examination of W. B. Glenn, charged with larceny by bailee, was begun before Acting Judge Seabrook this morning, but was not concluded. It will be resumed Monday morning. Meantime Glenn is held in jail in default of bail.

Glenn was bookkeeper for the contracting firm of Willett & Burr on construction work which they were doing outside the city. He and the superintendent of construction, W. P. Harlow, were left in charge of the work, Willett being away and Burr going to California.

Burr arranged it that all pay checks drawn against the pay account in the bank must be signed by both Glenn and Harlow. It is charged that the two men entered into a conspiracy to steal the money. Checks were drawn in Harlow's favor against the account, and it is said Harlow and Glenn divided the proceeds and had a high time on about $1000 which they are said to have obtained unlawfully.

Glenn protests his innocence, and lays the blame on the other man. A warrant is out for the arrest of Harlow, but he is still at liberty, although it is stated that he was seen on the streets yesterday.

In addition to embezzling the money in the bank, it is claimed that Harlow and Glenn went so far as to sell for $2000 an $8000 steam shovel belonging to the company. It was the effort of Glenn to cash a check for $1200 given in part payment for the shovel that lead to his arrest. When he presented the check at the bank he found that payment on it had been stopped, the purchasers having become suspicious that things were not just as they should be.

WON'T PLAY AT BAKER PRICES

Protesting against popular prices for the sale of seats to "The Land of Nod," Sam E. Rork, the owner and manager of the show, yesterday secured a temporary injunction from Presiding Judge Gantenbein in the circuit court to prevent the sale of orchestra or parquet tickets at the Baker theatre for less than $1.50 during the week beginning December 6. That is the date scheduled for the coming of "The Land of Nod."

Manager Rork, on the one side, contends that his managerial pride will be greatly hurt by cutting the price of top seats to 75 cents, and that he will lose standing throughout the country if the news gets out that seats are selling for 75 cents in Portland. On the other hand Manager George L. Baker of the Baker says that he is determined to keep faith with his patrons, and that the regular prices of his house shall not be broken. He says the show is under contract to play at his house, and he will not consent to cancel it.

Judge Gantenbein will hear argument on making the injunction permanent next Monday afternoon. Manager Baker went to Seattle last night to confer with John Cort regarding the tangle.

COUNCIL ON FRISCO'S WATER SUPPLY GRANT

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, Nov. 28.—The local congressional delegation, comprising Senator George C. Perkins, Congressmen Julius Kahn, E. A. Hayes and Joseph R. Knowland, pledged themselves today to the support of a bill to be introduced at the next session of congress ratifying the grant of the Hetch Hetchy and lake Eleanor water sites to the city of San Francisco for the purpose of securing an improved water supply.

The congressional delegation met and conferred with Mayor E. R. Taylor and the members of the board of supervisors today regarding the support of the measure and the advisabilty of interpolating new terms in the grant. It was decided that any change might jeopardize the grant and that it would be better to let it go through in its present form.

Furlong's Bail $1,000.

Lee Furlong, one of the men who, it is said, held up and robbed E. H. Hanson a few nights ago, at the same time badly beating him and cutting him in the face with a dirk, this morning waived examination in police court and was bound over, bail being fixed at $1000.

AIMS BLOW AT ASPHALT TRUST

Citizen Sues to Enjoin Contract for Cleveland Street Pavement.

Charging that the Barber Asphalt Paving company is a trust and that the city has no right to close a contract with it for street improvements under conditions that make competitive bidding by contractors impossible, the Investment company, of which E. Quackenbush is president, has begun suit in the circuit court against the city, Mayor Lane and Auditor Barbur.

Quackenbush is after an injunction to prevent the city from contracting with the Barber concern for the improvement of Cleveland avenue from Killingsworth to Ainsworth avenue, in Piedmont. The complaint sets out the ownership of 22 lots on that avenue by the Investment company, and says that more than half the burden of the contemplated improvement will fall upon it. The cost to the plaintiff would be about $5,000, it is claimed, without any compensating benefit.

The complaint also alleges that four rain sumps are proposed to be located at the intersection of streets outside of the assessment district. These are declared to be of no advantage to Cleveland avenue property and to provide insufficient drainage. It is charged that under the plans prepared by the city engineer the materials to be used could only be furnished by the Barber trust, and that only one bid was submitted or expected.

The complaint, filed this forenoon, alleges that the bid was opened "on or about the hour of 4 p. m.," on November 28, the time fixed for opening proposals. The suit is thus several hours ahead of the actual opening of the bid.

SUE CONTRACTOR FOR ADVANCES

Archie Mason, James N. Davis and Walter F. Burrell, composing the firm of Mason, Davis & Co., have begun suit against Benjamin F. Jacobs in the circuit court for $10,542, balance alleged to be due on advances made to the defendant for work performed for the plaintiffs on the Klamath reclamation project.

The complaint states that Mason, Davis & Co. was organized for the purpose of contracting with the United States for work on the Klamath scheme, and in March, 1906, made an agreement with Jacobs by which he was to perform part of the work. Later, it is alleged, Jacobs became short on funds to pay his laborers and carry on the work, so advances were made to him by the company, with the understanding that these sums should be repaid with 10 per cent interest.

It is alleged that $116,450 was paid out for the benefit of Jacobs, and that there is $3,324 interest due on that sum. From the United States, in payment for work performed, the company has received $105,820, which has been credited to the defendant, and it has also received $3,412 from Jacobs. This leaves a balance of $10,542 unpaid, for which judgment is asked.

WASHINGTONIANS PLAN TRIP SOUTH

Encouraging letters are being received by General Passenger Agent William McMurray of the Southern Pacific concerning the three California excursions that the Southern Pacific will run out of Washington this winter. There will be a special train of Pullmans each from Puget sound, the Walla Walla valley and Spokane and the Inland empire. It is proposed to entertain the excursionists while in Portland at luncheon and dinner at the Commercial club.

ONE-ARMED MAN IS NOT EXCUSED

"Stand up and be sworn," said Acting Police Judge Seabrook to Joe Merick, charged with being drunk and begging.

"No, not your left hand; put up your right hand when you take the oath—Oh, I didn't see," and his honor actually looked embarrassed for a moment as he discovered that the man had no right hand, the arm being missing from a short distance below the shoulder.

But that was no excuse for begging, and Merick, and his partner, Al Adams, will spend the next 20 days with Superintendent Briggs at Kelly Butte. They will be out in time to participate in the Christmas festivities.
