

PORTLAND, OREGON, SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 29, 1908.

The Olds, Wortman & King Store Alive With the Spirit of Christmas

TOYLAND The dolls and toys make their bow and beckon in the throngs of Christmas gift seekers. For with us all, 'tis the children and gifts for the children that does the most to make the spirit of Christmas—the spirit of joy and generous desire to give, so characteristic of the holiday season

Our mammoth Toy Section will be Santa Claus' Headquarters this year, and right well are we equipped to carry out his demands on us for the newest and the best. We've dolls from the best factory—by the hundred—dolls with long lashes and sleeping eyes—dollies with dark, light or auburn hair. Dolls with kid bodies, with bisque bodies or all of celluloid. Dolls as low as one cent and as high as twenty-five dollars.

FOR THE BOYS, there are mechanical toys, rocking horses, tool chests, Irish Mails, everything for exercise or amusements.
