NEW THOUGHT FOR BODILY HARMS

"Room of Silence" to Be Established in New York City—Cooperation of Professional Men Invited to Tests.

New York, Dec. 5.—Moving with swiftness which intelligent physicians are free to admit, and which many of the intelectual caliber of Dr. S. Weir Mitchell of Philadelphia, Dr. Parker, the successor of Dr. Osler at the Johns Hopkins university; indorse, the Emmanuel Movement, originated by the Rev. Dr. Elwood Worcester of Boston has within six months attained a prominence which no propaganda of similar character has attained in that many years.

Dr. Worcester recently addressed an audience which filled every pew in St. George's church, and included many of the most prominent physicians and clergymen in New York. "Functional Disorders of the Nervous System' was the theme, and its delivery practically was the introduction of the new system of psycho-therapy to the people of this city. Dr. Worcester made it clear that there was no intent to promulgate a new doctrine, or to oppose the practice of medicine or surgery, but on the contrary to invite the aid and cooperation of these agencies in demonstrating that mind dominated matter, and that by intelligent domination the sensory nerve centers could be transformed in to a storage battery with curative power.

The establishment of stations, with their "silence rooms," for treatment is only a question, apparently of the selection of location. The Rev. Dr. Worcester is a Columbia university man. He is robust and energetic, and an enthusiastic advocate of the outdoor life. He fought his own way into college, and after his graduation he told Bishop Potter that he wanted to lay the foundations for his theology training in Germany. To carry out his intention he rented a room in New York and studied day and night, so that he might pass the first two years of his course in the general seminary. Then he went abroad and studied under the eminent psychologists Wundt and Fechner, where he absorbed the ideas that later brought him into such conspicuous place.

Was a Rector in Brooklyn.

He became the rector of a church in Brooklyn after his return to America, and after a brief pastorate entered Lehigh university as a professor of philosophy and chaplain of the institution. Throughout his period as an instructor he devoted every minute of time he could spare to the study of metaphysics. His mind was so active and his physical strength and endurance so great that, in addition to his duties in the university, he was able to become the colleague of Dr. Samuel McComb as counsel for Dr. Crapsey, charged with hersey, and whose defense attracted the attention of the entire church world.

The Emmanuel movement has its beginning in the fall of 1904, when Dr. Worcester, according to Ray Stannard Baker in the American magazine, had become discontented with the work of the church, and felt that the time had come when the church should enter more deeply into the lives of the people.

"He saw the need," wrote Baker, "of the great faith which cures the Catholic who kisses the stone toes of the saint, but he saw also the need of the best reason that science could give for such a cure. Medical science and psychology have shown that a very large proportion of all the diseases from which men suffer—nearly half in fact—are diseases in which the mind, the personality or the moral nature, is the controlling factor—the point at which the vicious circle of physical and psychical misery can be broken. They are called, roughly, functional nervous disorders, and include morbid fears and morries, addiction to alcohol and drugs and moral disorders of many kinds."

The Emmanuel Movement.

The fundamental beliefs of the Emmanuel movement are that the mind, when inspired by suggestion, can cure many diseases of the moral nature, and aid in the alleviation of pain, but, unlike Christian Science, the belief does not assert that organic ailments should be treated by the influence of the mind, but on the contrary that they should be left to medicine, surgery, hygiene, isolation and skilled nursing. There is no conflict with the surgeon or with the professor of materia medica. Instead of opposing him he is asked to lend his knowledge and experience.

"The basis of the whole system," says Baker, "is a vital belief based partly on religion, partly on the applications of new psychological knowledge that a man is, indeed, largely the master of his fate; that there is new hope for the weakest and the lowest; that if a man will place himself where he is in the current of good and high thoughts —if he says 'I do,' 'I will,' instead of saying weakly and helplessly 'I can not,' 'I do not,' his life will become a new thing. This is the phenomenon of the new birth, the transformed life. In short, it is a living faith in the free will of men as against the old fatalism."

In the many stations that are to be established in New York, the patients who apply for relief will first be examined by physicians, who are in sympathy with the work. Careful records will be kept of each case. Those who require medical treatment will be referred to doctors, those who require mental and religious treatment, will consult Dr. Worcester and his assistants. The patient will be placed in a reclining chair, and the stream of external sensation will be cut off by darkening the room.

"With quiet thus insured," says Dr. Worcester, in describing the treatment, "I tell him that in a few moments he will be asleep. If he knows that hundreds of others have undergone this experience he will be more certain to accept my assurance and obey my suggestion. A patient with a palpitating heart comes to me. I soothe him with a few gentle words and tell him his nervousness is passing away, that his heart is beating regularly, and that a few minutes he will be calm and happy. He listens to me, believes me, and the prediction is fulfilled."

"There is no miracle and nothing magical in this," said Dr. Mitchell, of Philadelphia. "It is simply obedience of the physical man to the mental man. Grief is a mental condition that brings forth physical tears. Merriment is the mental conditions that controls the risible muscles, and provokes laughter. The palpitating heart is quieted by the same philosophy."

Turned Down Job to Please Mother

Jockey Butler, Who Turned Down a $10,000 Job for His Mother

that if I ever got to be a good rider and made lots of money the first thing I would do would be to buy a home for my parents. You know, a boy can never do too much for his parents. I have found that out, and I know lots of other boys that have, too. Some of them mean better and just naturally can't get themselves out of the old rut.

"When I had success on the coast last winter I saved up my riding fees and every week would send them home. Mother saved up my money and this year I went to Lexington and we bought a farm. The place is well located near Lexington and when I get too big to ride I am going home to mother and be a farmer. I would like to breed horses and cattle, too, but I don't know that I will ever make enough money to stock a place like that.

"To have the place, of course, is something, and then, better still to know that I have a little nest egg laid away besides. That I am happy is putting it mildly, because I know that mother is."

Down near Lexington, Ky., on a farm known as Walnut Hills, is the happiest father and mother in the country. Little Jimmy Butler, the pride of their hearts, has turned down a $10,000 per year contract for the sake of staying in the country and being able to be with them part of each year.

When the Vanderbilts were looking for the best rider available to go to France for three years and guide their horses to first place on the French turf, Butler was selected. Mr. Winn acted as their representative and offered Jimmy $10,000 per year for a three-year contract. After some careful thought on the jockey's part he decided to stay in America for the sake of his mother. This is very interesting as showing the better side of a jockey's life.

Asked if he ever made a bet, he shook his head saying: "I have only one best bet, my mother.

"You see," continued Butler, "when I first started to work for Mr. Hawkins, to whom I was apprenticed, I thought

VICTOR RAISES EMPLOYES' PAY

Civil List of Italy's Ruler Is the Largest in Europe.

(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.)

Rome, Dec. 5.—King Victor Emmanuel has raised the salaries of all his employes at the Quirinal palace and a dozen other royal residences, the clerks getting an increase of one fifth and the servants one tenth. This general "raise" will cost the king about $15,000 a year.

The civil list of King Victor is one of the largest in Europe. He receives $3,200,000 from the state, and out of this he has to pay $80,000 annually and jointly to the "Aosta brothers—the Duke of Aosta, the Duke of the Abruzzi and the Count of Turin—the same amount to the Duke of Genoa, and $200,000 to his mother Queen Margherita. This leaves him $2,840,000 to keep up the many royal establishments, to pay his father's debts and those of his grandfather.

But somehow the king manages to live within his income and to spare a large proportion for charity. This, however, does not make him as popular as if he spent it upon lavish entertainments. His subjects sneer at his "middle class economies," and of his donations to charity they say cynically: "He can well afford it."

WEALTHY PEER'S PLAY A FAILURE

But Lord Howard de Walden, Richest English Bachelor, Is Undaunted.

(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.)

London, Dec. 5.—Lord Howard de Walden, the richest bachelor peer of England, is determined to become a playwright. Not many months since, under the nom de plume of T. E. Ellis, he produced a blank verse drama entitled "Lanval," which received friendly treatment at the hands of the critics, but was a box office failure.

Now the noble lord is busily writing a romantic play, with a musical setting by Joseph Holbrooke, which will be produced next spring. It is a cycle of three dramas after the Wagnerian manner, each occupying three hours. The cycle will be called "Dylan, Son of the Wave," being based upon the famous Cymric legends, "The Mabinogian."

De Walden, who is a keen student of electricity, is devising some remarkably novel stage effects.

TEXAS, THE DIVIDED STATE

The shaded portion of the Pecos river indicates the territory which it is proposed to form into a new state. Compared to the rest of Texas it seems small, but in reality it would make a state larger than Maryland.

The state of Texas may be divided into two separate commonwealths.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 28.—Conditions are such in the southern part of Texas that it is safe to prophesy that within a few years the state of Texas will be divided into at least two parts, perhaps five. Just now the section of Texas indicated by the dotted space on the map is dissatisfied with the present state government. The Lone Star state seems to be too large and too varied in the temperament of its population and its topographical conditions to insure equity under one state legislature. Laws passed for the benefit of the great majority in Texas and favorable to the grazing sections are unfavorable to the mountainous sections of the extreme south. People of this section, too, differ widely from the vast majority of the Texans and are much more closely allied in temperament to their neighbors on the south—the Mexicans. Sooner or later they are going to separate from the Lone Star state or ally themselves with New Mexico. This is possible owing to the fact that when Texas was admitted it was with the understanding that she could at any future time divide herself into five parts. This is the first time the division has been sought.

The men at the head of the movement do not care to be called secessionists, for this brings back the memory of the civil war, but term themselves separatists.

The movement is still young and it will be many years before the fruits of this undertaking will be felt. But sooner or later a new state will be formed.

John R. Mott has just begun an extended tour among the students of Great Britain. He is devoting the time until Christmas to working in the student centers of England and Scotland. He plans to visit in turn the students of Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia. For the first time he will visit the needy student centers of Spain and Portugal and visits will also be made to France, Belgium and Switzerland.

By their own initiative six leading Spokane firms, one a bank and another the largest lumber company, offered to pay one half the expense of boys in their employ who would join the Young Men's Christian Association for educational and physical advantages.

Politics and Politicians

Linwood, N. J., furnished probably the closest contest of the November elections. John C. Steelman was elected mayor of the town by a plurality of one vote.

President-elect Taft has accepted an invitation to attend a celebration of Lincoln's birthday in Chicago, arranged for February 12 next.

The race for United States senator in Ohio seems to have narrowed down to Senator Joseph Benson Foraker and Charles P. Taft, the Cincinnati editor.

Thomas L. Hisgen, recently a candidate for president of the United States on the Independence party ticket, announces that he is out of politics for good.

The National League of Democratic Clubs is to hold a meeting in Washington next week to take steps to keep the organization intact and in working shape during the ensuing four years.

Representative William P. Hepburn of the Eighth Iowa district, the only Republican candidate for reelection in that state who was defeated on November 3, may contest the seat of his successful Democratic opponent.

For the Indiana senatorship it is said that ex-Chairman Tom Taggart and his friends are solidly behind John W. Kern, and that there is little possibility of Mr. Kern's defeat, but on the contrary every assurance that he will succeed Mr. Hemenway.

The Prohibitionists in Missouri propose to lose no time in taking advantage of the initiative and referendum law adopted last month. Under the law it will be necessary to secure about 50,000 signatures to petitions for the submission of a prohibitory amendment before it can be submitted to the voters of the state.

Owing to the close contest between the Republican and Democratic candidates for the minor state offices in Missouri and the provisions of the law respecting the tabulation of election returns, the result of the November election on those offices may not be definitely known until after the general assembly convenes in January.

It costs big money to become governor of Connecticut. George L. Lilley, the successful Republican candidate in the recent election, reported his campaign expenses as $23,375. It cost Judge A. Heaton Robertson, his Democratic opponent, $33,000 to be defeated. The governorship pays $4000 a year.

On his way from Nebraska to Mexico William J. Bryan stopped off in Corpus Christi, Texas, long enough to buy 20 acres of suburban property at that place. It is understood to be his intention to build a home on the property and spend a part of each winter there.

Eight times in succession has the state of New York been carried by Republican candidates for governor, and four times in succession has it been carried by Republican candidates for president. Before 1895 New York was the most doubtful state politically in the country. From 1859 up to that time there had been Democratic governors for 23 years and Republican governors for 13 years, while in presidential campaigns the state had a habit of switching from one party to the other every alternate election.

Notes From the Labor World

The dye workers in Minneapolis, Minn., have recently organized.

The Operative Plasterers' International union has joined the American Federation of Labor.

The Retail Clerks at McAlester, Okla., have obtained a reduction in working hours.

The labor unions of Albany, N. Y., have erected and opened a tuberculosis pavilion.

The various central bodies of Orange county, N. Y., have joined a county labor union.

The annual convention of the Seamen's union will be held at New Orleans, beginning next Monday.

The wages of women in Asiatic Turkey vary from 10 to 15 cents a day for ten hours' work a day.

A reorganization of the building trades unions has been brought about in Buffalo, N. Y., after many years of warfare.

United Brewery Workmen of America have a cash surplus on hand of $97,622.41 and an investment in municipal bonds of $300,000.

Additional death benefits of $250 for a membership of seven or more years and $300 in one of ten or more years have been established by the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers.

Fifty per cent of all the men employed in the printing trades in Kingston, Jamaica, have given notice to their employers that they will go out on a strike next Monday because the employers have refused to pay the American union scale of wages. The cost of living in Jamaica is less than one half what it is in America.

An official census of Berlin and its suburbs shows that there are in that territory 40,124 persons without employment at the present time. Of this number only 1716 are women. The figures do not include pensioners, but they comprise 1938 others who enjoy small fixed incomes. The small number of unemployed women is due to the great demand for domestic servants.

James Tansey, president of the Fall River, Mass., textile council, has notified the union representatives that under the wage agreement between the Manufacturers' association and the council there will be a further reduction in wages in the cotton mills next month of about 8 per cent. The Fall River mills employ 30,000 operatives.

My Treatment for Men Is a Medical Triumph

IT PROVES THE SUPERIORITY OF MY SPECIAL METHODS OVER THE ORDINARY PRACTICE FOR THE CURE OF AILMENTS OF MEN

My Fee in Any Uncomplicated Case..... $10

Dr. TAYLOR, The Leading Specialist

PAY ME WHEN YOU ARE CURED

The failure of others to cure you does not mean that you are incurable. It more likely signifies that their methods of treatment are wrong, or merely experimental—as medical treatments usually are.

I cure because my methods are as accurate as mathematics. I do not need to experiment. I passed beyond the experimental stage over 20 years ago in the treatment of men's diseases. I know that my treatment ALWAYS CURES any ailment peculiar to men. I also know why it cures. Still, I am learning something from each case I treat. I am learning, for instance, how to make my treatment cure different cases a little quicker; how to completely overcome certain temperamental conditions in which no two men are alike, and adapt with still greater precision my treatment to each man's case.

When I think of the great number of suffering men who come to me after they have been pronounced incurable by other doctors, I wonder how many there must be who have given up in utter despair, thinking that there is no treatment that can restore them to health.

To all such I want to send a MESSAGE OF HOPE. Don't despair, because some other doctor has told you your case is incurable. Perhaps it is not. In any event, come to me before giving up hope. To others your case would doubtless be positively incurable. But to me, I sincerely believe it would be comparatively easy to cure. I have cured thousands who were told by other doctors that they were beyond medical aid. I cured most of these in a very short time and they are strong, vigorous men today.

WEAKNESS

So-called "Weakness" in men is curable—fully curable. It has not been cured by those measures commonly employed for they are methods based upon supposition and not upon fact. Prematureness and loss of power in men is due to a chronic state of inflammation in the prostate gland, and not to a disordered nervous condition, as has been supposed. I treat the inflammation by a local process that does not fail to accomplish its purpose, and with this condition corrected full and complete strength and vigor returns.

STRICTURE — My treatment is absolutely painless, and perfect results can be depended upon in every instance. I do no cutting or dilating whatever.

CONTRACTED DISORDERS

Every case of contracted disease I treat is thoroughly cured. My patients have no relapses. When I pronounce a case cured there is not a particle of infection or inflammation remaining, and there is not the slightest danger that the disease will return in its original form or work its way into the general system. No contracted disorder is so trivial as to warrant uncertain methods of treatment, and I especially solicit those cases that other doctors have been unable to cure.

I have the largest practice because I invariably fulfill my promises.

My Colored Chart, showing the male anatomy and affording an interesting study in men's diseases, free at office.

VARICOCELE

Without using knife, ligature or caustic, without pain and without detention from business, I cure Varicocele in one week. If you have sought a cure elsewhere and been disappointed, or if you fear the harsh methods that most physicians employ in treating this disease, come to me and I will cure you soundly and permanently by a gentle and painless method. Don't delay. Varicocele has its dangers and brings its disastrous results. If you will call I will be pleased to explain my method of curing.

SPECIFIC BLOOD POISON — No dangerous minerals to drive the virus to the interior, but harmless blood-cleansing remedies that remove the last poisonous taint.

Consultation, Advice and Complete Diagnosis FREE.

It will cost you nothing to call on me for consultation and advice. Furthermore, I will give you a complete diagnosis free of charge. I will tell you the extent of your ailment and about how long it will take to effect a cure. I will not accept your case for treatment unless I know I can cure you. Call at the earliest possible moment. A delay of one day may be very serious. Office hours, 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.; Sundays, 10 to 1.
