PORTLAND VISIT CAUSED TROUBLE

Two months spent in Portland by Mrs. May Rowan were fatal to the marital happiness of David S. Rowan, according to the testimony of the latter in Judge Gantenbein's department of the circuit court, where Rowan secured a divorce this morning on the ground of desertion. He said that while he was living in Pendleton

WOES OF MAN WITH DOG IN A KENNEL

The dog is still being searched for. That is the principal point of the story of a search warrant, Mrs. S. V. Adams, who manages the King's Hill kennel at the old Exposition building, J. E. Otterheimer, who wanted to get his dog, Officer Teavin, who held the search warrant and several interested bystanders. It seems that the pup belonging to Otterheimer had taken temporary abode in the kennel and yesterday his owner wished to take him away. His appeal to Mrs. Adams, who stoutly refused to let the dog go. Otterheimer procured a search warrant and the services of Officer Teavin. Approached again, the woman still obstinately refused admit-

FORMAL PROTEST MUST BE FORWARDED

Washington, Dec. 11.—Senator Fulton seems disappointed that the commercial bodies of Portland have not protested against the confirmation of John A. Young for postmaster. A formal protest is necessary, but it fails to arrive and Fulton is worried.

WOES OF MAN WITH DOG IN A KENNEL

Sheldon, Minn., in July, 1908. She said he choked her and used bad language, finally leaving her to support her two children. The other cruelty case was Marie Larfield. They were married in October, 1904, and various acts of cruelty treatment are alleged. Maud E. Murphy was granted a decree separating her from Paul M. Murphy. They were married in Oakland, Cal., in 1900 and the wife testified that he left her in June, 1905. Desertion was the ground in three other cases, in which Lola Cook sued Abel Willis Cook, William B. Kauffmann sought to be anted from Veda Kauffmann, and Catherine A. Kinsey sought freedom from G. Sherman Kinsey. The Cooks lived together a little over two years, and the Kinseys a little more than three years.

WOES OF MAN WITH DOG IN A KENNEL

W. G. Tobin interfered and Otterheimer was liberated. In the melee the dog, who was the innocent cause of the turmoil, is supposed to have escaped.
