

OTLEY

Miss Leslie Knapp, Whose Engagement to Mr. Hurlburt is Announced

THE past week has been unusually busy for one coming so close upon Christmas. Usually all entertaining dies down just prior to the holidays for there are too many other interests demanding attention at that time. The past week the assembly was the pre-eminent affair and it was a brilliant success. The subscription dance Friday night was a pretty affair and the supper that followed engaged many of the young people. The Whitehouse tea, Mrs. Kerr's bridge, the Portland Heights club night, the Scottish dance Friday night, and the Hartmann concert and the University of Oregon Glee club concert made the week pass quickly. The coming week promises to be most quiet, though some good offerings at the theatres will afford recreation.

What was pronounced the most beautiful and most successful of the assemblies ever given opened the season of the Assembly club Tuesday evening. The Portland was the scene this time, and no effort had been spared to make the room a scene of dazzling beauty. Dancing was in the main grill room, with Parson's orchestra, greatly augmented, playing for dancing, and only palms were used in decoration. In the dining room supper was served at a table, all decorated with graceful vases of cut flowers. There Waldemar Lind's orchestra played. The breakfast room was converted into a Japanese bower with a delightful tea-house, from which two tiny Japanese women in their native costumes served punch. Oriental draperies and oriental coloring lent a charm to this place. The halls were made attractive with oriental rugs, Japanese screens, palms and comfortable chairs.

One of the most delightful retreats was formed in the conservatory, which was decorated with masses of white and gold chrysanthemums, banded against masses of palms. Huge baskets of flowers were suspended about the walls. There Wilder's harp orchestra played all evening. The drawing rooms and smaller parlors were thrown open to the guests, and the place was made altogether delightful. The brilliant effect of the occasion was enhanced by the bright coloring of the gowns worn. Even the older and more staid matrons donned white, and the soft colors now so popular helped to make a lovely color scheme.

Much of the success of the evening was due to the officers, Roderick Macleay, Henry Ladd Corbett and Tom Robertson. The patronesses were Mrs. J. C. Ainsworth, Mrs. W. C. Alvord, Mrs. W. B. Ayer, Mrs. C. F. Beebe, Mrs. Walter J. Burns, Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, Mrs. Thomas Kerr, Mrs. John K. Kollock, Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd, Mrs. L. Allen Lewis, Mrs. K. A. J. Mackenzie, Mrs. William H. Warren, Mrs. Theodore S. Wilcox, Mrs. Holt C. Wilson and Mrs. Gordon Voorhes.

A few of the handsome gowns worn were as follows: Mrs. Wilcox was beautiful in pale blue shimmering satin on directoire lines and trimmed with beautiful oriental lace. Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett wore a stunning gown of white satin with gold trimmings. Mrs. H. W. Corbett was in handsome smoky chiffon combined with velvet with pearl ornaments. Mrs. J. McL. Wood was stunning in pressed cherry satin. Mrs. C. F. Adams wore a handsome gown of yellow tulle over a deeper yellow satin foundation, cut empire and trimmed with handsome lace. Mrs. John C. Ainsworth wore white with beautiful head trimmings and touches of Venetian point. Mrs. David Honeyman wore white chiffon handpainted in pastel shades with edgings of black satin. Miss Frances Wilson was in yellow satin cut on empire lines. Miss Effie Houghton was in white net over pink liberty satin trimmed with folds of pink satin, and worn with directoire comb. Miss Lulu Hall wore yellow marmaline cut on directoire lines. Miss Dorothy Morrison wore pink chiffon trimmed with bands of satin and white lace.

Mrs. Hunt Lewis was beautiful in white lace. Mrs. L. Allen Lewis wore satin of a deep yellow shade trimmed with lace and handsome passementerie. Mrs. Foulheux, the attractive young matron from Maryland, wore a satin gown in a deep red shade. Mrs. Clarence Sewall wore turquoise blue satin trimmed with velvet and lace.

Miss Hazel Dolph was in white satin with trimming of Venetian point and pink cloth of gold in graceful knots. Miss Frances Lewis wore white silk cut directoire and beautifully embroidered. Miss Josephine Smith was in yellow directoire satin cut on empire lines and was unusually attractive. Miss Elmore of Astoria, whose engagement has been recently announced, was most attractive in a gown of basket green silk with her hair done in a Grecian knot and worn with Grecian bands.

Mrs. William H. Warren wore a handsome gown of black net spangled with silver sequins. Mrs. John Eben Young wore one of the most striking gowns of yellow satin cut directoire—a style that particularly suits her tall, stately bearing. It was ornamented with rose point.

Miss Susan Stott was in pink liberty satin. Mrs. John K. Kollock was in white embroidered. Miss Kathleen Burns wore pink directoire satin. Mrs. William Muir wore a dainty gown of blue chiffon beautifully hand embroidered. Mrs. N. E. Ayer wore black satin ornamented with duchesse lace. Mrs. Wesley Ladd was in heavy pompadour satin of white. Mrs. David Lewis wore pale pink, and Miss Genevieve Thompson wore pale blue with silver passementerie. Miss Lisa Wood wore a parisian gown of pale blue tulle and Miss Nan Robertson was charming in white lace. Mrs. Samuel Kerr wore white lace, and Miss Claire Houghton was in white satin.

The sale of the Christmas stamps for the anti-tubercular work is progressing rapidly and in a most encouraging manner. Every one seems to have taken hold of the work in an enthusiastic manner. Special attention was excited by the record made by Katherine and William Mackenzie, children of Mrs. W. B. Mackenzie, who have sold between among their school friends.

The booth at the postoffice is in charge of Mrs. J. Hamilton Brooke and volunteers were called for from the Visiting Nurse association to take charge of the sales. Mrs. Shatto, Mrs. Butler, Miss E. J. Campbell, Miss Jennie Doyle, Miss Harding, Miss Hadden and Miss Anderson have been taking turns in attending the booth and they sell between 2000 and 3000 every day.

Mrs. W. D. Jellison and her daughter Miss Jellison entertained with a large five hundred party Friday afternoon at the new Portland Heights club, the first of such private functions to be given at the delightful new clubhouse. The card tables were arranged for the assembly room, which is rich in brown draperies, and many vases of red carnations with small grave a pretty effect. Mrs. Jellison was gowned in black net handsome embroidered and made over black satin. Her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Woolcott, assisted her, and she was gowned in white net over silk trimmed with lace. Miss Jellison wore yellow chiffon with a pattern border in shaded colors, cut empire and trimmed with a contrasting shade of panna velvet. At cards Mrs. Edward Gerding and Mrs. Charles Runyon wore the prizes.

The guests of the afternoon were Mrs. A. C. Parson, Mrs. John Keating, Mrs. Ben Gadsby, Mrs. F. E. Beach, Mrs. F. D. Kuetner, Mrs. C. C. Colt, Mrs. C. G. Hickok, Mrs. E. W. Hall, Mrs. T. J. Geiler, Mrs. M. Valerius, Mrs. E. Butler, Mrs. Charles Runyon, Mrs. Ben Trencman, Mrs. John Toft, Mrs. Frank Vanduin, Mrs. G. W. Simpson, Mrs. McKinley Mitchell, Miss Hazel Reed, Mrs. W. E. Bridges, Mrs. George W. Bates, Mrs. Edward Gerding of Dallas, Mrs. Fred Lehenweber, Mrs. Charles W. Clark, Miss Jocelyn Foulkes, Mrs. George W. B. S. Sigel and Mrs. Wilson of Linton.

A beautiful tea was given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. B. G. Whitehouse introducing her new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Morris Homans Whitehouse, and at the same time marking her golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Whitehouse have been among the foremost residents here ever since their marriage and have a large circle of friends.

The rooms Tuesday were a perfect bower of beautiful flowers sent in for Mr. and Mrs. Whitehouse in memory of their son, Mr. Whitehouse. The drawing room was decorated with golden yellow chrysanthemums chiefly, but the flowers sent in made a lovely variety of color. Chrysanthemums, roses, violets and lilies were banded everywhere. Mrs. Whitehouse was gowned in handsome black lace. The young Mrs. Whitehouse, was in a directoire gown of pink satin trimmed with rich white lace. Receiving with them were Mrs. Whitehouse's daughter, Mrs. Cookingham, and Mrs. J. A. Sladen. The latter wore a soft wool gown of white cloth, and Mrs. Cookingham wore a white gown trimmed with handsome applique. Another daughter, Mrs. Edward Leavitt Brown, assisted and she wore a sheath gown of velvet in a rich taupe shade.

In the dining-room a number of Mrs. Whitehouse's contemporary friends assembled. The room was lovely with flowers with Bride roses on the table. There Mrs. H. W. Corbett, Mrs. Rodney Gillan, Mrs. Phila Schuyler and Mrs. Raleigh Stott poured tea and coffee. Assisting them in serving were Miss Susan Stott and Miss Inez Barrett.

Icees were served in the library where yellow chrysanthemums were used in decoration. There Mrs. C. E. S. Wood and Miss Mary Falling served. Miss Bertie Bear Coe, Mrs. W. C. Alvord, Mrs. William Cross of Boston, Mrs. Wallace McCannan, Miss Gillan, Mrs. David T. Honeyman, Mrs. James Canby and Miss Frances Lewis, Little Miss Katherine Brown, a granddaughter of the hostess, was a figure of prominence and in her dainty white frock with pink ribbons attracted much attention by her quaint ways.

In the evening there was a family dinner and following that a number of Mr. Whitehouse's friends in many of the Masonic friends of Mr. Whitehouse presented him with a handsome silver loving cup and his employees gave him a comfortable leather chair.

The second of the younger set's subscription dances was given Friday night, at Murlark hall, and it was a delightful party. Pruss's orchestra played exceptionally well. The patronesses were Mrs. David T. Honeyman, Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. Kollock and Mrs. William H. Warren.

After the dance Mr. and Mrs. Kollock entertained 25 of the young people at their home with a buffet supper in compliment to Miss Houghton and Marlon Dolph. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. Horton, Miss Effie Houghton, Miss Claire Houghton, Miss Alta Smith, Miss Leslie Knapp, Miss Madis Hart, Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Lisa Wood, Miss Margaret Walter, Miss Grace Monroe, Miss Kathleen Bunn, Miss Hazel Dolph, Miss Grace Warren, Miss Aveline Webster, Mr. Bodine, Harry Falling, Mr. Roser, Kenneth Beebe, Richard Koehler, Max Wood, Miss Monroe, Elsie Hoffman, Marlon Dolph, Antoine Labbe, Mr. Moore, Mr. Bradley, George Warren, Raymond Wilcox, George Warren, Tom Robertson and Mr. Vernicke.

Mrs. Charles Ross entertained delightfully at cards Wednesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Catharine Daly, who has just returned after a year and a half abroad. The rooms were pretty with many subdued lights, and on each refreshment table was found a tiny red light adorned with the Christmas greens. Mrs. Ross was assisted by Miss Mayme Helen Flynn, who wore a yellow satin frock with a large black hat. Mrs. Ross was seemingly gowned in a dainty pink silk. Mr. Daly appeared in an imported gown worn with large picture hat. Mrs. Millie Perkins sang several numbers. At cards the prize, a hand painted plate, was won by Mrs. Perkins. This is the first of a series of informal affairs Mrs. Ross will give. The guests were Mrs. Daly, Mrs. James B. Moffett, Mrs. B. F. Weaver, Mrs. Singler and Gage, Mrs. Bert M. Denison, Mrs. Abe Tichner, Mrs. P. J. Jennings, Mrs. Charles Runyon, Mrs. F. M. Branch, Mrs. E. Pague, Mrs. W. Wynn Johnson, Mrs. W. L. Straugh, Mrs. Millie Perkins, Mrs. R. F. Graham, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. M. Rogers, Mrs. Doris Carter, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. William Bryant, Mrs. J. Ferguson, Mrs. Hertsche of Omaha, Mrs. John Manning, Mrs. Will See and Mrs. A. Denison.

An Intercollegiate prom will be given the Portland students of the Pacific coast colleges, Friday evening, January 1, at Ringer's hall. Stiles' orchestra will play and the grand march will begin at 9 o'clock. Invitations and presentation cards are being sent out to the college people in town. The patronesses are Mrs. George E. Chamberlain, Mrs. Walter F. Burrell, Mrs. Henry Waldo Coe, Mrs. Frederick Eggert, Mrs. Luther R. Boyd, Mrs. M. Rogers, Mrs. Douglas and Mrs. William Y. Masters. A large committee has taken charge of the arrangements in company with Mr. Ringier, the master of ceremonies. The committee consists of Gordon Moores, William Calk, Arthur Van Dusen, Robin Nelson, Louis Pinkham and Curtis Gardner. E. Riley, A. G. E. Abendroth, Harold Landfare, Joe Chernis and Harold Fugh of the Oregon Agricultural college; Scott Jackson and W. E. Harrison of the Washington State college; Jesse T. Canright of the University of Washington; and William H. Masters of Stanford university.

Mrs. George W. Caldwell's Irvington home was the meeting place of the Portland club last Tuesday, and the members enjoyed a delightful afternoon. Potted plants, Oregon grape and lovely yellow chrysanthemums gave a charming effect to the rooms. Mrs. George F. Brice and Mrs. R. F. Graham won the prizes at five hundred. The next meeting of the club will be January 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Bissinger expect to leave in January for southern California to spend several weeks.
