The Foresters of America last night instituted a new lodge at Fulton with 102 charter members. The following were duly elected and installed by A. B. Dalgity, grand secretary, as officers of Court Fulton, No. 75. John Chuinard, chief ranger; Benjamin Williams, subchief ranger; Benjamin Williams, subchief ranger; Benjamin Williams, subchief ranger; A. Margulis, treasurer; G. Robse, financial secretary; F. Speake, recording secretary; E. Brandstetter, senior woodward; J. W. Burke, júnior woodward; J. W. Burke, júnior beadle; E. Lindquist, junior beadle; I. Chuinard, lecturer; R. Keller, C. Kruger, John Anderegg, trustees; George Haak, J. P. C. ranger; Dr. F. Dammasch, physician. After the regular order of business a fine funch was served, and hardly had the social committee got started when some 30 or more brother Foresters from Portland paid a fraternal visit. Some well-chosen remarks were made, and only for the fact that the last car was in sight they would probably have been there yet.

Max Sniderman, aged 19, who has been buying up junk outside Portland for J. W. Weinstein, a Front street dealer, was freed after a hearing before Judge Van Zante today. Weinstein had Sniderman and for the city ordinance regulating the use of electric wires and specifying the kind of poles and equipment to be used, which became effective November 24, until he read of it in last night he kind of poles and equipment to be

Max Sniderman, aged 19, who has been buying up junk outside Portland for J. W. Weinstein, a Front street dealer, was freed after a hearing before Judge Van Zante today. Weinstein had Sniderman brought back from The Dalles by Officer Graves last evening because, as he alleged, Sniderman had taken from his trunk in Weinstein's house a moving picture machine which Weinstein says he regarded as security for Sniderman's expense account. Sniderman showed to the judge's satisfaction that the machine had never been put up as security, and the case was dismissed.

Rose L. Hathaway has filed suit in the circuit court for a divorce. In her complaint she says that she was married to C. L. Hathaway in Council Bluffs, Iowa, on April 28, 1990. Her husband deserted her, however, and without sufficient cause three years ago. She asks that she be allowed to resume her maiden name, Rose L. Mc-Coy. The papers in the case were filed this morning by Attorney Alex Sweek.

Miss Emma Goldman will debate with J. B. Barnhill, in Alisky hall, tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. on the subject, "Jeffersonian Democracy and Not Anarchism, the True Solution of the Social Problem." Mr. Barnhill takes the position that anarchism is the most serious obstacle with which the forces of progress have to contend. Miss Goldman leaves Friday night for Seattle, where she will debate with Dr. H. F. Titus, a well-known Socialist.

The final account and report of the estate of the late R. R. Thompson was filed with the county clerk this morning by the administrator, William J. Hawkins. The papers show that the estate in this state is worth $220,-296.30. Of that some $36,956.30 is in cash and $883,340 is in real property, consisting of valuable pieces of real estate and in the share of the estate in a steamboat line.
