PETERSON HERE FOR JANUARY 7

Former Wrestling Champion of Sweden Matched With Eddie O'Connell.

Eddie O'Connell, the Multnomah club wrestling instructor, who has vanquished every opponent sent against him in Portland, has come to terms with Jack Peterson, former middleweight champion of Sweden, and the men will meet on the mat in Exposition rink in Portland Thursday night, January 7. The matching of O'Connell and Peterson will be welcome news for the mat loving fans of Portland and vicinity.

That the match will be a whirlwind is assured from the fact that Peterson is one of the best men in the world at his weight. He has taken advantage of O'Connell's challenge to meet any man in the world under 155 pounds for a side bet of $250, and will weigh in at the maximum weight at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the battle.

Peterson, whose home is now in St. Louis, but who has been cleaning up all the good things around the Windy City during the past few months, wired from Chicago this morning that he would reach Portland four or five days before the match in order to get acquainted with the fans.

Peterson is a lithe, rangy fellow, built much after the fashion of O'Connell. He is young but has had plenty of experience at the wrestling game; in fact, about as much as has O'Connell. Those who have seen him work in the east say he is a slashing grappler and ready to mix things at all times.

Whether he is as fast as O'Connell remains to be seen. He is said to be as clever as the local wonder and just about as strong. Everything taken into consideration, the match should prove the most exciting and interesting that has ever been pulled off in Portland.

SPEEDY INDIANS ARE READY FOR DALLES

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Chemawa, Or., Dec. 28.—The Chemawa football team returned from Portland late Saturday night in the pink of condition and would be ready this afternoon to put up as strong a game against another team were it required of them. Not a single man was injured in the game and they came out of the hard contest on Saturday with the Portland C. Y. M. C. as they have come out of every game this season.

However, they will rest today except for some light signal practice and tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday morning, they will buck the second team line, as they have been doing all season, for their final game with The Dalles Athletic club on New Year's day at The Dalles.

They won by their endurance coupled with the splendid teamwork that Coach Fleming has developed. This is remarkable when it is known that Mr. Fleming took hold of the team on the 31st of October and that nearly the entire team is composed of men playing their first year of football.

CHICAGO WANTS GOTCH-MAHMOUT MAT MATCH

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Chicago, in all probability, will be the scene of the next championship heavyweight wrestling match between Frank Gotch and Yusif Mahmout. The local promoters are testing the Turk's ability by matching him with men regarded as the best aside from the champion to find out whether he is a worthy opponent for Gotch. Up to date he has done all that has been expected of him and the general opinion now is that he will give the world's champion the hardest bout he has ever had.

The match between them is not a certainty as yet, as the Turk has many more matches billed before he takes on Gotch. If he is beaten decisively in any of the coming contests it is probable negotiations will be declared off. Promoter Joe Coffroth arranged some good contests for him. He is scheduled to meet Jesse Westergarde, whom "Farmer" Burns thinks is the coming champion. He will be the biggest man the Turk has been asked to meet. He stands about 6 feet 1 inch and weighs close to the 230 pound mark, and is said to be a powerful man. It is said that if Mahmout succeds in throwing him in straight falls there will be no question of his right to grapple with Gotch for the world's laurels.

RED HOT GOSSIP FOR RABID FANS

Oakland without Truck Eagan next season will not seem like an Oakland team. Truck has been playing with the Oaks so long that he is the first man picked out when they come on the field. President Walter of the Commuters has traded Truck to St. Paul for Catcher Noonan. Noonan has tried out with Connie Mack's Phillies and is said to be a comer. Truck is one of the most popular players who ever donned a uniform on the coast. Time was when he was the heaviest slugger on the circuit but his eye has grown dim of late.

NEW YEAR MATCH IS DECLARED OFF

No Chicago Wrestler Can Be Secured to Meet Edgar Frank.

Multnomah club's plans for a boxing and wrestling meet New Year's eve with Edgar Frank, Pacific coast wrestling champion in the 125 pound amateur class, against a Chicago featherweight, as the feature of the card, were disrupted when a wire was received this morning from Mike Dwyer stating that no Chicago man could be secured to come on such short notice. Dwyer stated when he was here that he would send some small wrestler out to meet the Multnomah champion and very likely the match will be held late in January.

There will be no entertainment at the club New Year's eve. At one time arrangements had been made with a team from the Olympic club of San Francisco, but when the football game for New Year's day was cancelled the mitt and mat artists from the southern organization concluded that they could not make the trip north. This leaves the club without an attraction on the evening preceding the big football game with Whitworth college of Tacoma New Year's day.

SEASIDE "DADS" MAY LOSE JOBS

Tax Controversy Causes Attack on Constitutionality of Charter.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Astoria, Or., Dec. 28.—The little city of West Seaside, in Clatsop county, bids fair to win considerable renown as the result of a peculiar litigation that has just arisen. West Seaside is the summer home of many prominent Portland families. The very existence of the municipality is now threatened, and its mayor and councilmen and other officials may have to step down and out.

The charter of the city of West Seaside was granted by the legislature in 1905. This charter declares that all electors therein must have a certain property qualification as a condition precedent to the right to vote. But more than that—upon its face the charter apparently does not demand that the voters shall be residents of that city and no other, and it is out of this that the main source of trouble has arisen.

As a result of these charter provisions the town of West Seaside has for its mayor Dan J. Moore of Portland, well known as a voter, resident and property holder of the metropolis. With one or two exceptions the councilmen are also Portland men, and thus the peculiar condition arises of a little city being governed by men who reside in another municipality. It is even alleged that the mayor and councilmen hold their council meetings in Portland and there pass resolutions and adopt ordinances for the city by the sea. The charter does use the word "inhabitants," and in the final adjudication of the matter much may depend upon the interpretation given this word by the courts.

Several cases have been brought recently. Yesterday it was stated that more litigation is probable. Several of the leading members of the Clatsop county bar, including G. C. Fulton and John H. and A. M. Smith, have brought suits in the interests of their clients. The case instituted by Attorney Fulton may be taken as a type of the whole litigation. This action was brought at the instance of the Grimes Grove Land company. This company owns large tracts of land in Seaside. An ordinance, said to have been passed by Mayor Moore and his councilmen in the city of Portland, required the building of certain sidewalks in West Seaside and provided for the usual delinquency penalties. It seems that the Grimes Grove Land company refused to pay its assessments for the sidewalks constructed and later many of its lots were sold by the city marshal and bought by the city.

Grimes Company's Action.

The action brought by the Grimes company is to clear its title to these liens and to quiet other titles being an action in equity. The complaint is voluminous. It alleges that the provision of the charter which ostensibly permits nonresidents to vote and to hold office is void. It also alleges that the provision of the charter which demands a property qualification as a condition precedent to the right to vote is also unconstitutional and void; and lawyers interested in the matter point out that the constitution of the state plainly states that no such qualification may ever be demanded and furthermore, that the supreme court has interpreted this constitutional provision in a manner entirely in consonance with its plain reading.

It is said there are about 20 voters in the little town who permanently reside there. There are said to be about three times as many men from Portland, who hold property there and vote there, and this big majority of the "outlandish" naturally permits them to run the town as they see fit.

In the original charter granted by the legislature, Dan J. Moore was named as mayor, and C. T. Henry, A. G. Long, Edgar B. Piper, P. L. Willis, M. F. Henderson, E. C. Johnson, Albert E. Butterfield, Paul Wessinger, John F. Logan, Otto J. Kramer, all of Portland, and E. M. Grimes of Seaside were named as councilmen.

Then in July of last year there was "an alleged and pretended election," the complaint states, "at which a large number of the votes cast were by nonresidents, by individuals residing in Multnomah county and outside of the state of Oregon."

At this election Mr. Moore was again elected mayor and he still holds that office. The present councilmen are nearly all Portland men: A. E. Butterfield, C. H. Hill, A. C. Johnson, J. F. Logan, A. C. Long, Dan J. Malarkey, C. H. Precedeuer, Edgar B. Piper, R. W. Wilson, and W. P. Grimes and Albert Johnson.

The complaint avers that the "entire machinery of the election" was in the hands of the Portland men.

The question seems to be a basic one, and seems to strike at one of the fundamentals of American democracy as ordinarily conceived by the average citizen. Can a man reside in one town and still vote in another town, or vote in both Portland and West Seaside? While there are elemets that lend a touch of opera bouffe, with the wealthy Portlanders holding all the offices and holding the common council meetings up there, nevertheless the West Seaside men see only the serious side since Marshal Lindsay began selling their lots for delinquent taxes.

Five Shots Fired Into Train.

San Jose, Cal., Dec. 28.—Five pistol shots were fired at the San Luis Obispo flyer as it passed through here. None of the passengers was injured. One of the bullets struck a window but the seat was empty. Glass was thrown for several feet around on the inside of the car. The conductor notified the officials at San Francisco and the sheriff's office was asked to look for the miscreants.

SECURE 15 MILES OF RIGHT OF WAY

Promoters of Upper Valley Electric Meet With Active Support.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Hood River, Or., Dec. 28.—The promoters of the upper valley electric railway, who have an application before the Hood River city council, have secured 15 miles of right of way for the proposed new road and are also stated to have secured stock subscriptions to the amount of several thousand dollars. The right of way obtained extends from the extreme end of the upper valley to Tucker's bridge, about five miles from this city. It is at the latter point that the new power company will develop 8000 horsepower from the Hood river.

It is stated that no action will be taken by the members of the present council, three members of which retire from office next month and that the matter of granting a franchise will be turned over to their successors. The other franchise for an electric road which has been prepared is being held in abeyance and will be presented to the incoming council.

Another matter which it is claimed will be brought before the new council is that of providing a municipal water system for the city. The plan is to bring in the water from what is known as the Tucker spring. The movement to do this is being taken up by the residents of the hill section of the city, who made a fight in the recent election for a mayor and councilmen whom they believe will be favorable to the project. To secure funds for this purpose it will be necessary to submit the proposition to a vote of the taxpayers.

READS PAPER ON ATONEMENT

Rev. John Bentzien Heads Discussion Before Baptist Ministers' Meeting.

Rev. N. B. Minaker was unable to prepare his paper for the Baptist Ministerial association this morning because of the inconveniences arising from the recent burning of his church. The series of papers on Socialism was consequently interrupted and Rev. John Bentzien read a paper on "The Reason for the Atonement." He treated the subject from a technical, theological standpoint and brought a number of scriptural quotations to substantiate his arguments. The purpose of his paper was to explain the reason why the atonement for the world's sins was made through the death and suffering of Christ, when God could as well have exercised it by the mere omnipotence of his will. Divine justice was the keynote of the paper, and was the explanation of the atonement, because the thought that sin must be punished is paramount.

The paper said that human nature demands above all things a penalty for wrongdoing; that when a crime is committed desire for punishing the criminal is stronger than pity for the wronged one. This feeling in man is a reflection of divine justice, and this divine justice demanded that Christ should suffer in expiation of sin. The awakened conscience is a copy of divine justice. It is justice punishing the wrong doer and it is what prompts so many criminals to confess their crime even when unsuspected.

The paper met with general approval, and in the discussion that followed there was no dissension.

TWO FALL IN FAMILY FEUD

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Greenville, Ill., Dec. 28.—While attempting to disarm George Willeford, who was intent on taking the life of their brother, Samuel File, Ruby and Noah File, aged 19 and 20, respectively, were shot by the former at the home of their father, Charles B. John and James Willeford, brothers of the murderer, who were present at the shooting, were arrested. The coroner's jury has held George Willeford for the murder of Ruby.

A sister of the Willeford boys with whom Samuel File has been keeping company is said to have been the cause of the affair. The Willefords and Files are among Bond county's wealthiest families.

GUARDSMEN OPEN SESSION

ADJ. GEN. W. B. FINZER

COL. JAS. JACKSON

COL. CHAS. E. McDONELL

Leaving for two days their offices, workshops and farms and forging the pen, the saw or the plowshare temporarily into the sword, the officers of the National Guard of Oregon have assembled in Portland for the third annual convention of the National Guard association, which is being held in the Armory. The first session was held this morning. There was a large attendance, although because the train from the south had not yet arrived, many of the officers who are expected were not present.

The proceedings this morning were of a routine character, the principal business being the reading of reports of the officers of the association and the election of officers for the coming year.

The election was uncontested, all the old officers being reelected with the exception of Treasurer R. G. Jubitz, who was supplanted by Major T. M. Dunbar. It appears that Colonel Jubitz has not given unqualified satisfaction as treasurer, and when a motion was made to retain the incumbent, a protest was made. One officer placed in nomination Major T. M. Dunbar, stating that "the association ought to have some one who is active and shows up here at least once a year."

Captain L. H. Bowman was nominated but declined the honor, and a ballot was taken on the other two nominations. Major Dunbar was elected by a vote of 45 to 5.

One Other Change.

Only one other change, or rather an addition, was made. General Daniel T. Brush was elected sixth honorary vice-president of the association, the by-laws permitting the election of any number of honorary vice-presidents. The officers elected are: President, Brig. Gen. William E. Finzer, first vice-president, Col. James Jackson; second vice-president, Col. W. S. U'Ren, first honorary vice-president, Brig. Gen. Owen Summers; second honorary vice-president, Governor George E. Chamberlain; third honorary vice-president, Brig. Gen. Charles F. Beebe; fourth honorary vice-president, Brl. Gen. Calvin U. Gantenbein; fifth honorary vice-president, Brig. Gen. Thomas M. Anderson; sixth honorary vice-president, Gen. Daniel T. Brush; secretary, Capt. L. H. Knapp; treasurer, Major T. M. Dunbar; chaplain, Capt. W. S. Gilbert.

In addition to these, there were two members of the executive committee to be elected, the terms of Col. Charles E. McDonell and Major Frank S. Baker having expired. Both officers were reelected. The other members of the executive committee are Gen. William E. Finzer, Col. James Jackson and Capt. L. H. Knapp.

President Finzer in reading his annual report said that the year had been an uneventful one, and except for the campaign in favor of the armory bill, there was not much for him to report. The officers had had few official duties to perform. The question to be decided, he thought, was whether it would be wise to go before the legislature again and endeavor to secure an appropriation by means of an armory bill, or try to get the money indirectly. He suggested the introduction in the legislature of a measure making it compulsory for counties to install armories, and thought such a measure would be favored by the people.

General Finzer Reports.

General Finzer reviewed briefly national legislation as it affects the national guard, and stated that under the law passed by the last congress the regular army and the national guard are so closely associated that in the event of war both organizations would take the field at the same time. In conclusion he thanked the members of the association for their earnest and loyal support.

Reports of committees were called for, but none of them had anything to report. Captain Clark for the committee on memoirs said he was very glad that his committee had no report to make, for the report of that committee is always a sad one.

President Finzer called upon the special committee on the campaign for a report, and Captain Sam White of Baker City replied.

"We have met the enemy and we are his'n," he said. "We tried to educate the people up to the importance of building armories but we failed. Two counties, Baker and Multnomah, I am glad to say, voted in favor of the measure. The opposition was chiefly on the part of the farmers throughout the state. We couldn't reach the fellow away back in the backwoods and we got the worst of it from him. I do not think this was on account of any particular opposition to the national guard, but from lack of knowledge. The men who voted against us were the men we couldn't reach to talk to.

People Waking Up.

"But I believe the people are waking up. The last campaign was educational. The committee is not discouraged because it got licked. We are ready to go at it again."

Captain George A. White, the other member of the special committee, indorsed what his namesake had said.

The election of officers concluded the business for the morning, and an adjournment was taken to 1:45 p. m. The legislative committee was called to meet at 1:30.

The convention lasts until tomorrow night, when the sessions will be brought to an end with a big Christmas tree celebration. The program includes a number of addresses by National Guard and United States regular army officers which promise to be very interesting. The addresses scheduled are as follows:

Major Harry L. Hawthorne, coast artillery corps, department artillery officer, United States army, "Coast Artillery Reserves."

Major R. H. Noble, First infantry, United States army, "The Relation of the Organized Militia to the Regular Army."

Colonel James Jackson, inspector general, O. N. G., "The Future of the National Guard."

Major George O. Yoran, Fourth infantry, O. N. G., "The Test of Time."

Major F. B. Hamlin, Fourth infantry, O. N. G., "The Oregon Rifle Team."

Captain Samuel White, Third infantry, O. N. G., "The Citizen Soldier, the National Reserve and Its Relation to the Regular Army."

Captain Charles A. Murphy, Third infantry, O. N. G., "Compulsory National Guard Service."

Captain Walter E. Carll, assistant surgeon, O. N. G., "Oregon Hospital Corps at the San Francisco Fire."
