To our friends and patrons, past, present and prospective, we extend our best wishes for a prosperous and happy New Year. With 30 years of continuous practical drug experience in the city of Portland, you can rest assured that all orders intrusted to our care can be depended on for purity, accuracy and reliability, and, while we at all times handle only the best grades of drugs, medicines and chemicals in our establishment, always considering quality of the first importance, our prices are no higher than elsewhere. We shall at all times endeavor to maintain the same high standard of quality, honorable dealing and prompt and efficient service, which has been characteristic of this establishment in the past, and hope, by strict attention to every detail, to merit a portion of your patronage, if we are not yet so favored. We guarantee the purity and quality of all our preparations, and respectfully invite you to give them a trial. Albert Berni, manufacturing and prescription druggist, 233 Washington street, near Second.

Warehouse Sites.—We are making a specialty of warehouse and factory sites, and have for sale some of the best pieces in the city in very favorable locations, with or without trackage facilities, on both the east and west sides. We recommend the following: Entire block, 200x200, on Thirteenth street, with trackage, $100,000. It will pay you to inspect this. On Twelfth street, north of Marshall, we have a full half block, 100x200, running from Twelfth to Thirteenth street, price $45,000. Desirable all-shaped piece on Thirteenth street for $30,000, having frontage on two streets. Quarter block on Twelfth street, this side of Northrup, for $30,000. Quarter block on Fifteenth near Johnson, $30,000. One corner on Twelfth for sale at $17,500. Also quarter block on Thirteenth street near Davis. We have other very desirable locations on East First and East Second streets; also on Water and Front streets, with fine trackage facilities. We have clients who will build warehouses on long leases. If you wish to buy property, or you have property that you would like to sell, call and see us. Charles K. Henry & Son, 250 Stark street, Portland, Or.

At the Wednesday afternoon W. C. T. U. meeting, Mrs. Sarah Ross, county president, conducted the devotional exercises. Miss Wooddy sang two beautiful solos, which were much enjoyed. Mrs. Margaret Christian had charge of the program. Subject, "Oregon Dry in 1910." Mrs. Ross introduced the subject. "Get new members, scatter literature and this makes votes," she said. Mrs. Unruh spoke of the federation of all the temperance forces for the 1910 campaign. She spoke of the harmonious action of the committees appointed and the bright outlook. She gave an interesting account of the committee meetings. Mrs. Christian told of the decrease of crime in all the prohibition territory, thus compensating for the loss of license revenue. She spoke of the W. C. T. U. and Frances Willard. She emphasized the need of reaching the children and securing votes by distributing literature. Mention was made of the New Year's reception, 2 to 5 p. m. The next meeting will be a business affair and monthly reports will be received.

A New Year reception will be given at the new Y. W. C. A. building tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 5, when the building will be open for inspection, and music will be provided. A new system of discount on meal tickets in the cafeteria of the association will be inaugurated next week, by which non-members of the association who desire to purchase membership will have an opportunity given, by retaining stubs from meal tickets to obtain membership. Enrollment in the various classes to be opened next Monday is large and gymnasium, English, domestic science, art and language classes will be opened with increased facilities and interest.

The Museum of Art has now on exhibition carbon photographs of the best paintings of the earlier times of subjects connected with the birth of Christ. "The Nativity," "The Annunciation," "The Adoration of the Shepherds" and other famous paintings are represented. This exhibit will remain until January 6. On New Year's day the museum will be open with free admission from 2 to 4:30 p. m., and also on Saturday afternoon.

The Monmouth Normal club meets the first Tuesday in each month at 329 Stark street, second floor Elks building, at 8 o'clock. Past and present members of the faculty, beneficiaries, students and graduates of the school are eligible to membership. Remember the meeting on January 5.

The Christmas exercises for the children at the Boys' and Girls' Aid society were held at the receiving home last night. Mrs. Margaret Hamshaw, the first Sunday school teacher at the home, was introduced and talked of old times. The exercises were led by E. V. Floyd, Miss H. C. Floyd, Lila Johnson, Miss Mabel Lewis, Miss A. H. Sanderson, Miss Georgia Ploegsted and Victor Russell.

The first annual reception and banquet of the State Retail Grocers' and Merchants' association was held at Lebanon last night in the Odd Fellows' hall and Lebanon hotel. Seventy-four members and guests sat at the banquet, which was presided over by A. M. Reeves of Lebanon, in the capacity of toastmaster. The affair proved to be very successful and is to be made an annual affair. A large delegation of Lenbanonites are expected to come to Portland next week to attend the state convention. Those who spoke at last night's banquet were C. B. Merrick, secretary of the association, M. N. Newport, Archibald Blackburn, Rev. W. P. Wardle, Oscar Ingram, Dr. Kinnel, F. P. Nutting, and S. L. Kine, president of the association.

The charms of boarding house life have brought Mrs. Anna Hartel face to face with the divorce court. In a complaint filed in the circuit court by Wesley E. Hartel, he says that she so dotes on the pleasures of life in a boarding house that she refuses to go with him to a house that he provided. All the traditions of love in a cottage did not appeal to her, and Hartel has decided that she is not the one for him. Hartel married his wife in Charlotte, Mich., he states, in October, 1898. He complains that she also entertains company that he regards as objectionable.

Suit for $1000 commission on the sale of a tract of timber land in Marion county has been begun in the circuit court by Joseph C. Hall again N. C. Olson. Hall says that he secured a contract to sell the land in August, and that he soon secured purchasers. The land was warranted to contain 40,000,000 feet of merchantable timber, he says, but when the prospective buyers wanted to cruise the land Olson would not proceed with the deal. He contends that his commission of $1000 is therefore due. The price of the land agreed on was $18,000.

The civil service commission yesterday afternoon heard the appeal of Patrolman G. E. Russell, who was dismissed by the police committee of the executive board some time ago for "loitering around a fire station while on duty." The commission took the case under advisement.

COUNTERFEIT GOLD $5 PIECE APPEARS

Several counterfeit gold pieces have appeared in Portland and vicinity during the last few days. The piece is a particularly deceptive coin, except that it is light in weight. It bears the date of 1906. The body of the spurious piece is of babbitt metal, heavily plated with gold. Some of these counterfeits are now in the hands of S. A. Connell, in charge of the United States secret service for this district. Mr. Connell believes that the money was passed here by outsiders and does not think it is being made in Portland.

MASQUE SKATING TONIGHT.

Great Watch Party at the Exposition Rink Tonight.

Everything is ready for the big masque carnival to be given at the Exposition Skating Rink tonight and the street parade at 8 p. m. will be a scream. This will positively be the greatest event of the kind ever held. There will be something doing every minute and the evening will be bubbling over with mirth. The rink will be steam heated and there will be room for 5000 spectators. The 25 elegant prizes will draw some fine costumes. There will be but one session, from 7 till after midnight. Don't miss this.

U'REN DENIES FALSE REGISTRATION CHARGE

Oregon City, Dec. 28.—To the Editor—Some time ago I was asked by a friend whether it is true that many Democrats registered falsely as Republicans and voted for Cake in the April election and for Chamberlain in the June election, as claimed by Senator Fulton and some others. My friend is not a politician and had been much impressed by the often repeated charge that the nomination of Cake in April by the Republicans and the selection of Chamberlain in June by the people was accomplished by fraud.

I have carefully studied and analyzed the registration and election returns to learn, if possible, about how many Democrats registered falsely as Republicans. The number certainly was not great enough to defeat Fulton, and the records indicate that he received fully as many of such votes, if there were any, as were given to Cake.

The returns indicate that no Democrats registered falsely and then voted their party ticket in June. If any Democrats registered as Republicans for the April election, they either voted the Republican ticket in June or did not vote. I hope others will carefully analyze the registration and election returns for the same purpose. The question is of great importance in its bearing on the direct primary law, one of the objects of which is to protect the voters of every party from interference by the voters of other parties in making nominations.

Takes Congressional Vote.

I have taken the vote for representatives in congress as the test of party loyalty. This is the standard in the direct primary law, because men almost universally vote their party ticket for that office.

The secretary of state's reports show that 28,758 Democrats were registered for the June election and that 28,706 votes were cast for their candidates for representatives in congress. If any number worth mentioning had registered falsely as Republicans, the Democratic vote for congressmen in June would have been much greater than the Democratic registration, but in fact it fell short 82 votes. It is therefore perfectly clear, taking the state at large, that no Democrats were falsely registered as Republicans. If there had been such they would have betrayed the fact by voting for Democratic congressmen in June.

In the 18 counties which Fulton carried at the primaries in April, the Democratic vote in June exceeded the Democratic registration by 152 votes, while in the 15 counties which Cake carried at the primaries the Democratic vote in June fell short of the Democratic registration by 128 votes. Had there been fraud as alleged, the June vote would have exceeded the registration and the fraud would have been shown up most clearly in the counties which Cake carried in April. What the figures prove is that if any Democrats registered falsely they must have voted at the primaries for Fulton.

Analyzes the Vote.

Only five counties in the state gave Cake fewer votes at the June election than were cast at the Republican primary election in April for both Fulton and Cake. Clatsop, Fulton's home county, fell off 536 votes; of these about 180 might have been Democrats, though that is not certain. In Lincoln there were 32; in Multnomah 4099; in Tillamook 90, and in Wasco 114 voters who cast their ballots for Fulton or Cake in the Republican primary election who did not vote for Cake in June. It is fair to assume that most of these were Republicans who voted for Fulton's nomination, because those Republicans who voted for Cake's nomination in April would naturally vote for his election in June. In Multnomah county it is possible some of these were Democrats, because in that county the Democratic vote in June exceeds the registration by 712, but there were probably 200 or more Democrats registered after the April nominating election. It is clear that not more than 300 or 400 men at the utmost registered in bad faith and voted for either Fulton or Cake, or both of them, and it is much more likely that such a number honestly changed their minds. In any event, it is absolutely certain from the returns and the registration that the fraudulent vote was not great enough to nominate Mr. Cake or Mr. Fulton, or any other candidates.

Figures in Registration.

The registration of Prohibitionists, Socialists, Populists, Independents, and those who refused to state their political party was 12,386, while the Socialist and Prohibitionist vote in June was 14,078, showing that from 1500 to 2000 who registered as Republicans must have voted these tickets, but it by no means follows that they voted at the Republican primary election. At the April primary election about 72,000 Republicans were registered and only 49,000 voted, showing that nearly 23,000 Republicans who were registered at that time cared so little for the difference between Fulton and Cake that they failed to vote for either. At the June election 80,921 Republicans were registered but only 67,468 voted for the Republican candidate for representative in congress, showing a falling off of 13,753 at the June election. Even in the presidential election, where the registration was considerably higher than at the June election, only 62,350 Republicans voted for Taft. The returns prove that nearly all the men who failed to vote, either at the June or November elections, were registered as Republicans.

What Vote Shows.

The returns show beyond question that 16,559 Republicans who voted for Hawley or Ellis, Republican candidates for congress, also voted for Chamberlain in June for United States senator, and with these were 2,112 registered Republicans voting for Chamberlain who did not vote for any other officer. Chamberlain's total Republican vote was at least 18,681.

If there was fraud in the nomination of Cake in April by reason of men falsely registered as Republicans who were in fact Democrats, I hope some of those who really believe it will show from the official registration and election returns the evidence on which they base their opinion. After a very careful study and analysis, I can find no reason to believe that one voter in a hundred in Oregon registered his party politics falsely. This is certainly a wonderful advance in political morals, over the system of a few years ago, when mercenaries often voted in another party's primaries for the purpose of helping one faction or the other.

W. S. U'REN.

BUSINESS OF BANKS BETTER

Bank clearings for the closing months of 1908 show a considerable increase over those of the corresponding months of 1907. In the past two months the gain has been great. For November 1907, the clearings of the Portland Clearing House were $20,548,909.06. For November of this year the clearings were $26,588,072.54, a gain of $6,039,163.48 in favor of this year. For December of 1907 the clearings were $18,317,237.10 and for the present month of this year they were $28,700,000, an increase of $9,882,762. While the clearings for the entire year show a slight falling off compared with those of the banner year 1907, they were much larger this year than any previous year, excepting 1907.

Sweden's royal forestry commission last year supplied forest products worth $12,250,000, yet accummulated timber resources equal to twice the amount of the timber felled.

MAKE PAINTS IN PORTLAND

F. E. Beach and Company Establish Factory and Sell Local Product.

F. E. Beach & Co., the pioneer paint company of Portland, although one of the oldest paint firms doing business in Oregon, has made a new departure during the past year by manufacturing the bulk of the paint that they have sold. While Beach & Co. have been in business for about 30 years, they have heretofore bought their goods from eastern factories. But recognizing the many advantages to be derived from manufacturing at home, commencing with the present season they installed a well equipped factory, and commenced manufacturing house paints, barn and roof paint, varnish stains, oil stains, wagon and implement paints and liquid fillers; in fact, nearly everything used in the painting line.

Recognizing that the first requirement for turning out high grade paint was to use only first class material, they adherred strictly to this policy. The results have been highly satisfactory, far beyond expectations, and they are planning to largely increase their facilities during the coming year.

While their plant has been in operation for less than a year, they have already demonstrated the advantages not only to themselves, but to allied local industries, as the packing cases, containers and labels which are required in large quantities are all produced in Portland, materially assisting in developing the manufacturing industries of the city.

OWL CARS RUN ON ALL LINES TONIGHT

A late service tonight on the streetcar lines will enable the merry makers who stay up to see the old year out and the new year in to reach their homes without having to walk or hire a cab.

Extra cars will leave the center of the city at 1 o'clock and 2 o'clock. This order affects all the 5 cent lines, including all lines of the Portland Railway division and the Sellwood, Mount Scott and Hawthorne lines of the O. W. P. division. There will be no late cars to Vancouver, however.

This will be a great convenience to people of Portland who object to winding up the old year by going to bed with the chickens and who prefer to start in the new year by being on deck to see it arrive.

BIG TRACT PLATTED

Old Ray Place, Opposite Dundee, Acquired by Portland Company.

H. W. Lemcke and Elnathan Sweet, who secured the old Ray place of 511 acres, opposite Dundee on the Willamette river, several weeks ago, have platted it into five acre tracts and will set it to the finest walnuts. Walnut land is eagerly sought and these realty dealers are assured of a heavy demand as this large tract is considered very choice property. It is situated 2½ miles north of St. Paul and 1½ miles from Newburg. There seems to be an increasing demand for walnut land, notwithstanding the enormous number of sales during the past year. The company handling this tract will be known as the Rayland Orchards company.

What Some Prominent Portland Physicians Say About Thompson

"R. A. THOMPSON,
"Portland, Or.

"Dear Sir: I wish to express my appreciation of your services to my patients and am glad that there is at least one optometrist in Portland who does not intrude his 'isms' and theories in the treatment of any case sent him by his professional friends, but attends strictly to business."

Another says:
"Allow me to express my gratification occasioned by our professional intercourse. The result of your exertions on behalf of friends and patients has been eminently satisfactory."

From another:
"If the profession at large could know of the advantage of the system you pursue in the examination for eye strain it would be better for our patients. I can safely say that the patients I have sent you have been greatly benefited and in no case has there been any complaint, the time having extended over the last seven or eight years."

Commendations such as these are most gratifying, particularly so because they come unsolicited.

Everyone who knows Thompson knows that Thompson's glasses have got to be right.
