City Will Carry Appeal to the Highest Court if a Temporary Injunction Is Denied by the Circuit Court Today.

City Attorney Kavanaugh worked beind locked doors all morning to prepare his argument before the circuit court his argument before the circuit court to secure a writ enjoining the Portland Rallway. Light & Power company from turning off the lights tonight. If Judge Gantenbein refuses to decide in favor of the city, Mr. Kavanaugh will take the case to a higher court. A defermined fight will be made, however, to secure the injunction this afternoon.

When the city attorney first assumed the office after the last election he asked Judge Gantenbein not to grant any injunctions against the city until the city attorney should have an sopportunity. Judge Gantenbein admitted yesterday that he had departed from this procedure in two instances, but then only in cases of great emergency. City Attorney Kavanaugh urged that the present case is one of most pressing emergency, but the circuit court arbiter said is could not see the matter in that light.

"It think it is a shame that the city said he could not see the matter in that light.

"I think it is a shame that the city cannot get a temporary restrainer against the lighting corporation, even if the city many possibly be in the wrong," said Deputy City Attorney Grant this morning. "I can imagine no stronger case of emergency than that which will result if the lights are turned out on the public streets. We will not abide by the decision of the local court if the decision should be in favor of the corporation, but will take our case to the supreme court or some higher tribunal if necessary."

the assumption that such is the case is given weight by the presence in Portland of Ormsby McHarg, a special assistant to the attorney general and the right hand man of Frank Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee.

Mr. McHarg was in charge of the contests effecting the acuthern delegations in the last national convention and together with Hitchcock was partly responsible for the appointment of inited States Senator Fulton to the position of chairman of the committee of credentials. He arrived at the Hotel Portland yesterday and since getting here has been busily engaged in conference with several of the Republican leaders who rather strangely are now in the city and rather strangely are now in the city and not at the scene of battle at Salem.

rather strangely are now in the city and not at the scene of hattle at Salem.

Mr. McHarg will not admit that the purpose of his visit to Portland is in the interests of the Republican party and with the end in view of eventually defeating the choosing of a Democratic senator. In fact, Mr. Hitchcock, his superior, has refused to admit that this is the attitude taken by the national party toward the unique political sit is the attitude taken by the national party toward the unique political sit to the Pacific coast, in Portland alone, but his influence has been felt in all parts of the state, gathering from his movements and the conversations he has had with the various politicians who are interested in the flight now on.
