sing in perfect tune, so do the trainers of really fine swimmers often find it impossible that men with every quality for racing otherwise can be made or taught to swim even in an approximately straight line.

Many a splendid swimmer is beaten on this account, for his inveterate habit of getting off his course naturally gives him a roundahout tourney. But the persons so arritted—universally and without exception swim with marvelous directness, indeed, in as perfectly straight a line as is humanly possible, even when the distance covered is very considerable.

considerable.

So much is this the case that Dr. Campbell of the College for the Blind at Upper Norwood, who particularly interests himself in the physical condition of the blind and has noticed this curious fact, recommends that swimmers who persistently foul each other on any course should practice experimentally when blindfolded.

Blind swimmers can, it appears, on hearing a noise in any given direction, not only swim absolutely straight to the point whence the noise proceeds, but when left to themselves their steering is just as accurate.

knowledge of any kind is needed for the investigation of this order of facts. "Tset conditions," as they call them—conditions which make deception impossible—can be imposed by an intelligent business man quite as competently as by a chemist, physicist, or psychologist. Crookes and Wallace, it will not be disputed, understood as well as anybody the value of the control experiment" in scientific investigation, and it is idle to charge that in the investigation of this particular problem they forgot or neglected the very safeguards which they were using every day in their own practical and theoretical work. Their earnest plea for consideration in this respect; their prayer asking their friends to give them credit in this work for the same caution and precaution which was freely accorded them in other work, is pathetic. Yet that credit has never been given them. "Dupe" is the word written across all their labors. Thus we see how much has been accomplished by scientific approved as far

CAUSE OF FATALITY

Pittsburg, Feb. 13.—Dr. J. M. Johnston, a well known dentist, living in the fashionable east end, was probably fatally injured and his wife and 5 year old daughter, Emily, terribly burned in an explosion of natural gas tonight in their home on Travelta boulevard.

INFLUENCE OF COLORS

Why Mrs. Leslie Carter Chose Red and Mrs. Fiske Chose Blue. From Good Housekeeping.

The decorator wishing to produce cer nin results upon people applies certain colors and combinations of color in his work. Their earnest plea for consideration in this respect; their prayer asking their friends to give them credit in this work for the same caution and precaution which was freely accorded them it other work, is pathetic. Yet that credit has never been given them. "Dupe" is the word written across all their labors. Thus we see how much has been accomplished by scientific approval as far as it has gone. And it is hard to say that the case for spiritualism would be strengthened if all of the fanatics, including geology and archaeology, were to be convinced, as were the two great Englishmen.

Making a Grave Mistake.

"A celebrated Nimrod tells how Roosevelt must hunt in Africa."

"Evidently, he is not aware of the fact that the word 'must' is not in the Roosevelt dictionary, except as it aplies to others."

Tungsten electric lamps are more effecient than those with carbon filaments for the reason that they can be operated at a higher temperature, producing greater brilliancy.

Collors and committations of color in flus work. Altogether unwittingly you may yourselves have responded to this very treatment. Extensive use is made of this principle of color influence in staging plays. Do you remember how Mrs. Leslic Carter used reds so much in the settings of Zaza, and how Olga Nethersole used reds and yellows in Sapho and Camille." That was done of passion. The reds and yellows in the stage settings were chosen to arouse the passionate instincts of the audience and so bring the onlookers into harmony with the spirit of the plays.

On the other hand there was Mrs. Fiske in Becky Sharpe. Do you remember the cool blue and gray settings in that play? Their effect was exactly opposite to the effect produced by the settings in Zaza or Sapho. The very atmosphere was one of intellectuality, coolness, calculation. And don't you see how necessary this was to the success of the play A woman who could say, the produced by the passion of the play and committee of the plays. Their effect produced by the operation of the play and co work. 'Altogether unwittingly you may

One flour sack of shells.

A false mustache.

Charley Day, foreman of a wood chopping camp near Estacada, sold his phonograph this morning and 150 records, purchased the above, resigned it, to an attract out to be a highwayman. He put the counterfeit whiskers on his face and distributed the arsenal around different parts of his person. Charley is now in the Oregon City jail. But before he got there he went far enough to make a good showing in three pages of any news stand "yellowback."

Yes. Charley certainly did go some. Here is what he did: He left the camp near Estacada early this morning and laid in his supplies. Then he came back to camp and asked Jim Howard to carry his blankets and clothing to the river, a mile and a half distant. Jim did. Charley walked behind him, carrying the Krag in one hand and the Colt in the other. Arriving at the river he dismissed Howard and securing a boat rowed across.

He next appeared to Louis Gerber and George Schults. The two men were driving toward Logan. He had them jump. He then relieved them of their valuables and rode off in the buggy. Shortly after this, he appeared at the Young farmhouse where he demanded to be fed. This was about noon. While he was eating he thought he heard officers. Grabbing a bun and his arsennihe ran into the woods nearby and defied the law.

In a few moments he emerged and finding that he had been mistaken, de-

The law.

In a few moments he emerged and finding that he had been mistaken, decided to give himself up anyway. He telephoned Constable Jones of Estacada and the latter secured him.

Charley is thought to be mentally unbalanced.
