Onion Situation Is Very Poor.

To the onion grower the present situ-tion is far from being a pleasing one. The price is dragging with speculators showing no inclination to dabble iround present prices. While the as-sociation is strongly entrenched at $2 per 100 pounds, many grocers are very willing to let go at $1.50 and this is practically stopping the sale of associa-tion stock. To make matters even more displeasing to the producer, much the larger per cent of his holdings do not show good keeping quality and therefore must be moved with as little delay as possible. Therefore for that reason, if for no other, most of them with the prospect of getting more. The fact that his onions will not keep for a long period hurries the selling. To the onion grower the present situ-Late Onions May Be Good.

Late Onions May Be Good. There is still another side of the story in the onion market that will prove even more interesting to the growers. While there is a very heavy surplus of onions remaining unsold in the hands of growers of this state the fact that most of them will not keep long gives out the impression that there will be a scarcity of onions toward the last of the season and those who have the keeping quality are confident that they will secure very good returns by holding back for the higher price. Pinces & 51.00 (allow) (al these firms are said to be very heavily short of the coming market and are making every effort to induce growers to cultivate their crops so that they will not lose on these sales. A report comes from England that many grow-ers are plowing up their yards because of the continued depression in prices, but the trade does not know whether to believe these rumors or not because last year the same sort of information came forward and was found to be untrue. untrue today than for any day during the past few months. The run, which consisted of 1906 head, was a surprise to the trade in general, both as regards qual-ity and volume. The trade has become two accustomed to hearing of the ar-trval of a few head each day or none at all that when a real fair supply puts in appearance there is in consequence real aurprise.

The big run which came from Prine-ville found a good demand because of its fine quality and former prices were safely maintained. . Cattle market showed a good run dur-ing the day but prices held well, es-pecially for the better class of stuff.

Hog Market Goes to $7.25 Today. There was only a very small run of hogs in the local yards during the past 24 hours, arrivals totaling $2 head compared with none yesterday and 183 head the day previous. Demand for hogs is very good and prices are there-fore firm with an advance of 25c for the day; best stuff going to $7.25 with ease. This advance was not due ex-actly to any betterment in the tone of the local market, but to the arrival of the stock in better condition. While there is a prospect that flour prices will be advanced, some of the leading operators argue against such a move because if prices here go too high it will force a much larger quantity of eastern hard wheat product on this market—a condi-tion that the milling trade in general is trying to avoid. ASH WEDNESDAY USHERS IN THE PENITENTIAL SEASON OF LENT

Rear Admiral Robley ("Fighting Bob") Evans will lecture at the Armory March 31 on the subject, "From Hamp-ton Roads to San Francisco in Command of the Atlantic Fleet." In com-mon with other sailor folk, Admiral Ev-ans has the gift of story telling and yarn spinning, and it is certain that his lecture will contain more of anecdotes and stories than facts concerning dotes and stories than facts concerning the trip of the fleet. One Portland man, upon hearing of the coming of Admiral Evans today, re-called to his mind a story told on the sulphurle sailor. Said he: "A number of years ago relations were strained between this country and Chile, and Admiral Evans was in com-mand of the cruiser Yorktown, in the harbor of Valparaiso. The harbor was full of Chilean war craft, any of them able to cope with the Yorktown. The order had been given to keep them moving about the cruiser. This got on "Fighting Bob's" nerves. He called the admiral to him, and without prelimina-ries, said:

admiral to him, and without prelimina-ries, said: "See here, you: I'm getting tired of garbage boats moving around my ship. If one of them touches the end of our booms I'll raise such a commotion that h-l will smell of garlic." Admiral Evans has nearly recovered from his Illness. For some time he has been devoting himself to preparation of the lecture.
