MRS. DAN MOORE PASSES AWAY

Wife of Prominent Hotel Man Dies After a Lingering Illness.

Mrs. Dan J. Moore.

Mrs. Dan J. Moore, who had been seriously ill since last September, died at Good Samaritan hospital, at 2:30 this morning of Bright's disease. While Mrs. Moore's case had been considered hopeless by those who had followed its course, her many friends had hoped that her naturally strong constitution might yet stay the ravages of the disease.

Mrs. Moore was the wife of Dan J. Moore, proprietor of the Moore hotel at Seaside, and until recently proprietor of the Danmoore, whom she married 22 years ago. Two children survive her, Harlow and Celeste.

Mrs. Moore was the daughter of Captain John Harlow, a pioneer of Oregon, and was born and reared within a few miles of this city. Three brothers are living at Troutdale, the family country seat, and a half sister lives at Stanford, Cal. She was a woman of fine qualities and had endeared herself to a wide circle of friends who mourn her early death.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed, but will be announced tomorrow.

STORIES DIFFER ON SHOOTING AFFAIR

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Canyon City, Or., March 19.—Details of the shooting affair Tuesday between A. A. Dean and William George, in the vicinity of Mount Vernon, about 10 miles west of here, only serve to intensify mysterious attendant circumstances. Dean is now in the custody of the sheriff, charged with assault with intent to kill. George, is in a critical condition. He was brought to John Day today for medical treatment.

Reports of the shooting are so at variance and so conflicting that an immediate solution of the case is impossible. George was herding sheep for A. J. Fletcher. It seems that he had been in the habit of grazing the band to the fence line of a ranch owned by Dean and on several occasions had allowed the band to trespass upon Dean's cultivated and fenced land, for which he had frequently been remonstrated with.

At the time of the shooting it is claimed that George, Oral Hinshaw and Jim Fletcher were herding the sheep and had gone down into a gulch to eat their dinner, when suddenly they were startled by the report of a gun. George claims that he ascended the hill and had reached a point of rimrock when he saw Dean about 200 yards distant, partly concealed behind a rock; that in all Dean fired six shots at him and his companions. One shot evidently struck a rock, part of the shattered bullet striking George in the eye, inflicting a very serious injury.

Dean, on the other hand, disclaims any knowledge of the shooting, as does also his wife and C. L. Angell, both of whom claim to have been with him at the ranch at the time the shooting is alleged to have taken place. He admits having had some controversy with George and his employer, A. J. Fletcher, over range rights, but denies his implication in the shooting.

Dean was brought to Canyon City today and released on bonds. A preliminary hearing will be had tomorrow before Justice of the Peace M. Dustin.

CORVALLIS PLEDGES $3600 FOR PUBLICITY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Corvallis, Or., March 19.—The booster meeting Wednesday was a marked success. After listening to addresses by B. W. Johnson, Professor C. I. Lewis, W. S. Brown and Mr. Richardson of the Portland Commercial club, Corvallis citizens pledged $3600 for the remainder of the year.

B. W. Johnson cited instances of the good results obtained from advertising, and Professor Lewis spoke of the superior quality and flavor of the apples grown in Benton county. Mr. Brown, who has recently purchased a large tract of land in Benton county, who is a New York orchardist, spoke of the excellent conditions for horticulture in this section. Mr. Moore, the editor of the Corvallis Times, gave a rousing talk on civic improvement and enterprise. He was followed by Tom Richardson.

ROAD COMPANIES SIGN PETITIONS

Ontario, Or., March 19.—Word was received here today from Walter Griffith, director of the Malheur project committee, that the Willamette Valley Road company, also The Dalles Road company, have signed the petitions to the reclamation department asking that the Malheur irrigation project be built. Two hundred thousand acres of the finest land in the Snake river valley will be watered by the scheme. Construction is expected to begin within a short time as all the preliminary surveys and estimates have been completed and the government has signified its willingness to start the building as soon as the people and the road companies express a desire for the project.

TAXPAYERS MAY ENJOIN COUNTY

At last night's meeting of the taxpayers' committee of 15, a drastic resolution of much import was adopted in which the undisguised threat is made that efforts will be exerted to prevent Multnomah county from paying its apportionment of state taxes unless all the county assessors in the state obey the statute requiring all property to be assessed at its full cash value, as is now done in this county. The following is the text of the resolution:

"Be it resolved: That inasmuch as the assessor of the county is proceeding to assess all property in this county for the coming year at full cash value as required by law, that the county of Multnomah will refuse to pay its portion of the state taxes unless the assessors of the respective counties comply with the law and assess the properties of their counties at full cash value as is done in Multnomah county, and we call the attention of the tax commission and ask them to demand the assessors in other counties to comply with said law."

The committee was organized by the election of Gay Lombard as chairman and Charles K. Henry, secretary. All was not harmony in the committee meeting, although in the main there was agreement that the tax levy is too high and the tax money is being wasted through official extravagance.

A. M. Smith took the position that if the city is to progress, there must be high taxation, although agreeing with the main contention that proper effort should be made to see that the money is honestly and judiciously expended. He called attention to what he said was a fact, that in most cases complainants owned property not sufficiently improved to produce a reasonable income.

Mrs. Preston Smith, D. C. Pelton and C. H. Dodd offered suggestions which served to bring out the sentiment of the committee on the more important questions.

It was generally conceded that there are enough bridges across the river and that more bridges would tie up the harbor and impede the growth of the city.

CHANGE RAIL ROUTE FOR MALHEUR PROJECT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Ontario, Or., March 19.—The chief locating engineer of the Oregon Short Line and the Union Pacific, Carl Stradley of Salt Lake, is in this vicinity with a large corps of engineers, making a new survey for the proposed Oregon Eastern railway across the south central portion of the state.

The object of the survey is to raise the grade from the present survey, in the canyon of the Malheur river to seven or eight miles above Vale, so that the proposed Harper reservoir of the Malheur government irrigation project may be built in the canyon. The present survey of the line crosses the reservoir site directly and the government has intimated to Harriman interests that the present line cannot be used.

The new survey will be much higher and will permit of the building of the reservoir as projected.

Pig Sty or Cotton Field?

Since Biblical times, the hog has had the reputation of being a very uncleanly animal. How then can hog fat, from which lard is made, be clean and wholesome, and make healthful, digestible food? It simply cannot, and does not.

A Strong Argument

The strongest asset this company can offer as an inducement to investors to purchase $100 units in its $300,000 building project is the location of the property. The northwest corner of Fourth and Alder streets, 100x100 feet square, is the actual retail center of a city of nearly 300,000 population. The property we have already secured. That such men as Theodore B. Wilcox, William S. Ladd and other Portland multi-millionaires are willing to pay HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS for similar corners, not nearly so well located, should appeal to the investor convincingly. To ask you to participate in such an undertaking as this is not asking too much. It is, in fact, conferring a favor upon you, as your money could earn you no more than this project will earn, no matter where it is invested. Have you $100 to invest in the best proposition that the city of Portland now offers? Full details at our office.
