

WOMEN'S CLUBS AND THEIR WORK

W HILE President Taft was in Panama, the Canal Zone federation was in session. Being invited to address the assembly, as both he and Mrs. Taft were visitors to it, he said in part: "It is a great pleasure for me to be here with Mrs. Taft, to express the sympathy we both feel in Women's clubs every where, but especially on the Isthmus and in the zone."

"The problem of the construction of the canal involves the presence of a great many people who, while here, are to be away from home, and in order to make it possible to secure the presence of those persons necessary in the construction, it is the duty of the government to make life here as bearable and tolerable as possible. Now the Americans, who are largely to construct the canal, are a gregarious people. They are a people who believe in social association, and a people who without association and without society are not apt to enjoy life, who are apt to become morbid; and those who are morbid and lonely and do not enjoy life never accomplish much in life, and certainly do not make the best agents for such a great work as the construction of the canal."

"For that reason the organization of clubs, the construction of this hotel, the building of churches, and everything that the government may possibly do to make life enjoyable here and to bring people together, the government has a right to do and has a duty to do. Americans do not lack initiative. American women do not lack initiative. I am able to say that from first hand—close association with the sex; and the organization of clubs of course is one of the first instruments by which society and intelligent association can be promoted."

"Ladies, I wish for your association all the good fortune possible, all the prosperity possible. I congratulate you on having developed to such an important stage as to call for a visit from the representatives of women's clubs in the United States. I congratulate you on their coming, and I hope this particular meeting will be productive of good. I congratulate you as citizens of the United States, residents on the Isthmus, upon the very great progress which is being made on the canal, and the fact that we can now look forward with some definiteness to a completion of the great work, and when it is completed, every one who has had any connection with it must take to himself or herself a great deal of credit in having participated in the great constructive work of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries."

"This was the fourth annual convention of the Canal Zone federation, which it will be remembered the United States government sent Miss Helen Boswell down to the Isthmus to organize."

"The federation works through four committees, education, philanthropy, home and art and literature. The strongest committee is the philanthropic, which, in operation with the clubs has done splendid work under the chairmanship of Mrs. Thomas W. Brown Jr."

"The formation of the Economic committee for the study of plant life on the Isthmus was one of the important acts of this meeting. This committee will have in its cooperation Dr. Charles F. Millspaugh, curator of botany in the Field Museum, who will take charge of the study of plant life and have them classified and written up."

"On the platform at the afternoon session, President Taft, Mrs. Taft, George W. Goethals, the president and vice president of the General Federation, Mrs. Philip Moore and Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. Squires, the wife of the minister to Panama, Mrs. Taft was introduced by the president of the Canal Zone federation as the patron and friend of the women's clubs in the zone and the one who made their organization possible. Addresses were also made by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Sherman. A reception followed."

"WHY should the Women's club oppose the participation of the school children in the Rose Festival parade?" This has been asked on every hand since a resolution to that effect was carried at the last meeting of the club. Of course it was not unanimously carried, and there are always some who see the reverse side of any proposition, and they are entitled to their opinion, but from the standpoint of a mother, quite independent of what any club may think or vote, there should be but one opinion, and that is, that the child has moved far enough along to quit exploiting children at the expense of their educational, physical and moral well being in order to add an attractive feature to a street parade for the benefit of the town, or amusement of the crowd."

"Everything that can be said regarding the attractiveness of children in parades and going through their drill or of their personal enjoyment of it, will be granted."

"But considering the other side of it, from the educational standpoint, the Rose Festival comes first previous to the year's final examinations, at a season when the child and teacher are ragged out from the year's work and when the weather serves, and retards the activities of the children, and to put the extra burden of the parade, preparing an elaborate drill, demoralizes the discipline and work of the school principals and teachers, tell me, and surely they are the best judges. The added burden to the child of preparation, and then the hours of waiting, the unnatural excitement and the strain upon the nerves cannot fail to leave its mark upon any child, but particularly upon nervous children of sensitive temperament. No years of a child's life should be so guarded as the adolescent period—the years between 12 and 18—just the ages of the children most desirable for street display."

play. And then that display! Could any thoughtful mother want her daughter gratifying through the streets for the amusement of the rabble? The Rose Festival has no better friend than the club women of the state. They are planning to come to the city by the hundreds; they have planted and cared for roses that they may contribute in abundance; they will give generously of their services and their means and in every possible way give it their help and encouragement; they believe it is a good and proper thing to do and will teach a love for the beautiful and instill a civic pride in the people of the entire state. But they cannot do this unless any nature which they believe conscientiously will interfere with the educational, physical or moral growth of the coming citizen."

OHIO club women have just organized for the next biennial convention, and have sent out the following notice from the organization: "The tenth biennial, in the spring of 1910, will be held in Cincinnati as cause for congratulation that the 'Queen Sue Walker' in her garments dressed may welcome to her borders the thousands of women who unselfishly and with singleness of purpose are working for the good of others."

The work of preparation has resulted thus far in the election of the local biennial board, whose meetings are held at the Women's clubrooms, the same being generously placed at their disposal. THE home economics committee of the general federation has been trying to plan the work in order that it may be somewhat uniform; although in our work it will have to be somewhat sectional, as the condition of our states varies in the relative amount of work that has been done in our line. The work that we would like to have you do in so far as you can at:

- First—To have domestic science taught in your public schools.
Second—To have some economic books put in your city libraries.
Third—To try and have your clubs have at least one program each year on this subject.
Fourth—To have one session of your state convention devoted to this subject.
Fifth—If possible, in order to show the clubs what a thorough comprehensive and interesting subject you represent and how much valuable information can be given out at such a discussion.
Sixth—To arrange with your state agricultural colleges and universities to secure from them people prepared in this line of work to talk before your conventions and clubs and if possible to send out from them instructors who can give short courses in places where you may arrange.
Seventh—To send in to me a record of your state speakers, work done; also the members of your state committee that I may keep the record of what ever is done and pass it on to others, who need this help.

MRS. O. F. GULDEN, Chairman.

A HOSPITABLE welcome awaits the general federation council when it assembles on March 31 at San Antonio, Texas. The Women's club of the city, with its large and enthusiastic membership and excellent organization, is well equipped to offer in the most efficient manner the provincial southern hospitality. It was organized in 1891 as a fraternal club with the avowed object of "mutual improvement and cooperation in all that pertains to greater good to humanity" and with its membership of over 200 it is the largest women's club in the southwest.

Every Wednesday afternoon during the club season is occupied by a club or department meeting with most interesting and suggestive programs on literature, music, parliamentary law, current events, domestic science and civics. The club constitution contains an admirable provision for admitting girls from 12 to 18 years of age as "student members," with all the privileges except the participation in the management of its affairs.

COMMISSIONER Rudolph Blankenburg of Philadelphia celebrated the New Year by presenting his three year's salary of $15,000, in equal parts to the teachers' annuity fund and the police and firemen's pension funds. Mr. Blankenburg is a former municipal reformer, but a strong devotee of woman suffrage. Mrs. Blankenburg has long been headquarters in Pennsylvania for lecturers in behalf of equal suffrage and for many other good causes. At present Mrs. Blankenburg is auditor of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

A SUFFRAGETTE lecturer recently brought down the house with the following argument: "I have no vote, but my groans have. I have a great voice, but I should use it as a trumpet, and I say, John, will you exercise the franchise which horse is in?"

MRS. ALICE WEISTER, chairman of the art department of the Portland Women's club, spent the past week in Pendleton, the guest of the Tuesday Afternoon club, who had invited her to give a series of talks on art with stereoscopic illustrations. The subjects chosen by Mrs. Weister were "The Art of the Nineteenth Century," "Early Italian Art of the Renaissance" and one lecture on Psychology. During the week Mrs. Weister visited a number of the public schools and gave talks on art to the children. The first lecture which was given on Monday evening, was an open meeting and "Spain and Spanish Art" was chosen as a popular topic for that evening.
