ENABLES THEM TO BUILD ROAD

Central Railway of Oregon People Secure Additional Backing.

Through the reorganization of the Central Railway of Oregon into the Central Railroad of Oregon, the group of Boston and New Haven capitalists, who own this line, have placed themselves in a position where they are able at once to begin the financing of an extension through the Blue mountain country of Union and Umatilla counties.

Articles of incorporation for the new company have been filed at Salem by Chester V. Dolph, the attorney in fact. The company is reorganized with a capital stock of $2,000,000 under the laws of Maine.

The new company takes over the property of the Central Railway of Oregon which has a line in operation from Union on the O. R. & N. to Cove, near the edge of the Innahna forest reserve, as the result of a suit to foreclose a mortgage on the property heard before Henry C. Berry and Chester V. Dolph commissioners on March 27 of this year.

There are extensive tracts of timber in Union and Umatilla counties which will be tapped by the proposed extension of the Central railroad. It is the purpose of the owners to extend the line north through the Hunt pass near Pendleton and probably to connect with the Washington and Columbia river, a Hill line running south from Pendleton. An old company was bought in by Charles E. Graham, acting as agent for the Boston and New Haven men who own the road.

STORY OF SMUGGLED COOLIES DISCREDITED (United Press Special Wire) Los Angeles, May 12.—To a rancher on San Clemente is attributed a report set afloat that a mysterious tram schooner, whose decks were swarming with Chinese coolies, had been sighted in the harbor there. Three men are said to have landed in a boat but returned to the ship as soon as it was found no water could be obtained.

Inquiries were made at the office of the United States collector of customs and at the immigration office here to disclose the fact that no report of the strange craft had been received at either place. As the official report is silent that if any such ship had called at San Clemente, it has since departed, no investigation is being made. They are more inclined to believe that the vessel, which is said to have flown the Dutch flag, had a crew composed of Chinese than that any attempt at smuggling Chinese into the United States was to have been attempted.
