"Uncle Sam, Publisher," is the hero of Mr. Haskin's next story.
That busy old gentleman is never busier than when he is spreading printer's ink around all over everything. The wonders of the government printing office will be described, and some notion of the enormous volume of its output will be conveyed.

Washington, May 15.—In the great spread of humanitarianism and altruism that has marked the early part of this twentieth century a salient feature is that protecting, physicking and housing of the dumb creatures that roam the streets and country-ways and that adorn the domestic fireside. Societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals, hospitals, private and public, for their treatment, and shelters, temporary and permanent, have arisen with the needs of the times, but they are few as yet that they are a mere drop in the bucket when compared with the need of such.

There are three homes in the United States for aged and worn-out horses, patterned, doubtless, after the one that was established in Acton, England, in 1882, the pioneer institution of its kind in the world. The ideas on which the Acton work was based were that board and feed for horses should be given on terms until they had recuperated, and if the owner of the horse could not afford to pay, the animal would be cared for anyway. Temporary homes would be made to the owners of horses taking the rest cure at the farms, and old favorites or family driving and riding horses would find a permanent home wherein to spend their last days.

First American Horses' Home.
The first home for horses on American soil was established near Philadelphia in 1889, the sum of $7,000 having been left for such a purpose by the bequest of Mrs. Mary Byers of Philadelphia. A beautiful farm near Fox Phase, 15 miles from Philadelphia, was bought for the home, the 12-acre tract being part woodland, part in grain fields and part used for raising vegetables. The superintendent lives in a two-story old stone house, and the nearby barns have room for 30 horses a time. Here are brought the overworked and worn-out horses, the old ones and the ones that are permanently disabled by strain or accident.
The Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals having supervision of such work, and it is all done in the name of the humane society.
A temporary home for the overworked, a permanent one for the aged and disabled.

Massachusetts Takes the Lead.
Six years ago the second farm of the kind was established in the United States near Stone, Mass., 23 miles from Boston. Miss Harriet Bird gave the farm and left for such a purpose the sum of $10,000. The idea was that some organization raise means for supporting the institution. The idea was first brooded by the humane minded people of Boston, and the farm of 90 acres was incorporated under the name of Red Acre farm and devoted to the immediate refuge of the flotsam and jetsam of horsefodder from Boston.
Formerly in that city the old horses, worn out in the service of the fire department or other municipal work, were auctioned off. Now, by enactment of the state legislature, they are taken to the farm to end their days in peace.
By a law enacted in Massachusetts in 1907 the officers or agents of the Humane Society may take possession of and have condemned old work horses, a reasonable price being named for the horse, and its purchase made by the society. Maine and Ohio have similar laws. The ones so condemned in Boston are sent to the Red Acre farm and the average price paid for these docile is about $4.

The Horse That Came Back.
The lame, the sick, the overworked, the injured, the fouled and mistreated very old, and those suffering from blood poison or disease find refuge at the farm, 182 being cared for the first winter alone. These owned by the humane association are given the best medical attention, fed, pastured and given a good rest, then if they have recovered sufficiently to do light work, some are placed with masters of guaranteed goodness of character and others remain as pensioners on the bounty of the farm. There is a tale told of a pitifully thin, half-starved, half-sick mare brought to the farm for treatment and rest that had so far recuperated in a month's time that her temper was good and her strength restored, but so fond had she grown of the farm that she promptly came back after her owner had taken her back to the city, and in kindness of heart he left her there permanently.

In 1907 the third home for horses was established at Pine Ridge, near Wed-dell, Massachusetts, within 10 miles of Boston, being a part of the work of the Animal Rescue League of Boston.
A 10-acre organization that has also cared for 17,000 homeless dogs and cats during its existence. The Pine Ridge farm is used as a vacation home for horses, taking about a dozen out at a time.

For the Horses of the Poor.
A most excellent branch of this organization's work is that which has taken the form of a club for men owning one, perhaps two, horses, but not over two.
This is called the "Horse and Rider's Club," and the chief of the conditions named for its members is that each will bring his horse and outfit for inspection at least once a month. Horse harness and blanket are carefully examined, and advice given where needed.

POISON OAK POISONING.
Hallard's Snow Liniment cures it. Mr.
O. H. P. Cornelius, Turner, Ore., writes:
"My wife has discovered that Snow Liniment cures 'Poison Oak Poisoning,' a very painful trouble. She not only cured a case of it on herself, but on two of her friends who were poisoned by this same ivy. Price, 25c, 50c and $1. Sold by Skidmore Drug Co."

RAILROAD WOULD MAKE BURNS CENTER OF WHEAL HORN AREA

By Addison Bennett.
Burns, Or., May 10.—It is an even hundred days since I left Burns after my first visit last winter and a wonderful change has come over the town.
Many business changes have taken place and many improvements have been made or are now going forward, and the town is still outside, the number being augmented upon the arrival of every stage, aside from those coming in by automobiles and private conduits. The Bear valley country from Portland in Phil Metehan's big touring car came in yesterday and left this morning for the Bear valley country.
Fred Krebs is at the head of this party.
So I suppose they are in some way interested in the town. It is interesting themselves in some lumber deal.

Burns Has Many Hotels.
The first improvement to attract my attention was the doubling in size of the French hotel. Burns is well equipped with hostilities now and they are all said to offer good accommodations, some of them at very low rates.
They are the Burns Hotel, the French and French. I stopped at the latter last winter and was so well treated that I will not only be kept up to its present standard but enlarged and improved as fast as the trade demands.

Many Improvements Projected.
Improvements are now being forward here in the immediate future will be the erection of a handsome stone block, 60x100 feet, on Main street. The block will be used by the town for purposes and the lower floor will contain a number of small stores, which are already rented.

The Masons here have purchased a 50 x100 site on the same street, and they will also erect a fine stone block at an early day.

Indeed, the town seems to be having a great growth in business. It is said, has never been better and the people all seem secure in their faith that Burns is the biggest little city in Oregon.

I tried yesterday and again today to get a journal from a newsboy, but he was not to be had. However, I had no trouble in finding one to read, for about 100 men in town are subscribers, and it is the best paper in the valley. It is the latest news, as it reaches its subscribers on the same train as the first of the morning. It is a paper of other words, its news is 12 hours later than can be gained elsewhere. Connections.

Each member is entitled to free veterinary service, and in case of illness, if cannot afford a blanket for his horse, one is loaned him. The more prosperous, the more they help. The very poor who need help are given a horse and saddle. The horse is given a good feed and a good rest. The horse is
