

HUMAN NATURE SHOWN IN FACES

Marie Von Stross, Lady Ringmistress Sells-Floto Circus.

Did you ever study people? Did you ever think of the philosophy of a face? "Circus life provides an opportunity to study human nature that is not offered in any other avenue of earthly existence," says the press agent of the Sells-Floto circus, who was in the city recently.

An experienced circus man can tell the mean, cross husband, who passes his wife and yells at her when she asks for money to go to the circus. He can pick the young couple who will be happy in the matrimonial sphere from those who will seek the divorce court.

"The funny side of human beings crop out extravagantly in the crowds at a circus. For example, I noticed an individual who was having one big time. His mood is a large field of study to those interested in faciology. When I first saw him he got near the elephant 'Fifty Green,' the chief of the herd. She stole his cigarettes, his new straw hat and a box of candy he had in his coat pocket, and ate them. His face took on the look of sorrow and anger. But he caught sight of a French professor manhandling the toe-malls of the elephant's foot. He called the guide of the bunch, and his face changed from sorrow to a sly look of 'Well, I'll be hanged!'

"But the climax of his facial expression came when Lon Moore, the world's premier clown, led his automobile, clown band, barber shop, Indian comic opera stunts and walking over elephants, camels and horses on his fingers. The man's slides shook and he laid over and rolled out of the reserved seats into the hippodrome track, almost bursting with laughter.

By the way, the Armour dapple grays are with the Sells-Floto circus, and come to Portland next Monday and Tuesday.

HARRIMAN'S AGENT BUYS ODESSA RESORT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Klamath Falls, Or., May 21.—Odessa, the largest public resort on the upper Klamath lake, has been purchased by Colonel W. B. Holladay and will be closed to the public. The resort embraces 480 acres of timber land and meadow, with a large waterfront. Odessa creek, formed by large springs, flows through the grounds. It is but five miles distant from the Harriman resort. Mrs. Mary Griffith has owned the place for several years. It is reported that she received $50,000. Colonel Holladay is the special agent of E. H. Harriman. It was he who purchased Pelican lodge, although it is common knowledge that it is the property of Harriman. Colonel Holladay declares that he bought the Odessa property for himself. While at Pelican lodge last summer Harriman suspected the Odessa property and also made an offer for the place. Colonel Holladay states that for the present at least the resort will be closed to the public. He says further that when the proper time comes a large hotel may be built for non-accommodation of tourists. It is, however, feared by the people of this section, that this popular resort, the same as Pelican lodge, is lost to them forever.

ONLY ONE "BEST"

Portland People Give Credit Where Credit is Due

People of Portland who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Portland. Here's Portland testimony: H. R. McCarver, living at 286 Holladay street, Portland, Or., says: "Some years ago Doan's Kidney Pills proved of great benefit to me and I publicly recommended them. Since that time I have advised many of my fellow workmen to give them a trial and the results of their use have been satisfactory in every instance. I believe kidney trouble in my case was brought on by a cold contracted. I had backaches and other marked symptoms of disordered kidneys, which caused me much suffering. I had always been somewhat skeptical regarding proprietary medicines but somehow the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills impressed me in favor of this remedy and I began its use. Relief soon followed and I have had no serious return of kidney complaint since."

PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Written for The Journal by Rev. William Hiram Foukes, D. D., Pastor First Presbyterian Church, Portland, Now Enroute to Denver.

Pocatello, Idaho, May 19.—The one hundred and twenty-first assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America is about to convene. The official title of this body as just given is quite imposing, but all the phrases in the superscription are needed. The number of this particular gathering awakens historical interest even in the casual observer and gives the bona fide antiquarian solid food for thought. The Presbyterians appear to have ground for boasting that their supreme tribunal in America is practically coextensive with the government of the United States itself.

The general assembly is composed, as many of The Journal's readers already know, of representatives called commissioners, chosen by the various Presbyteries all over the land. Every Presbytery is entitled to send at least one minister and one elder as commissioners to the assembly. The larger Presbyteries send more representatives, the ratio being that for every 24 ministers or fraction of 24 not less than 12, belonging to a particular Presbytery, an additional ministerial and lay commissioner may be sent. Under this rule Portland sends two ministers, the Rev. D. A. Thompson, pastor of the Sellwood church, and the Rev. I. K. Lindbergh, of the Oregon City church; also commissioning two elders, E. W. Amersbury, of Westminster church, and C. C. Shroy, of Mount Tabor church, Los Angeles Presbytery being a much larger body on account of the number of ministers who are entitled to send out of California, sends five each of ministerial and elder commissioners.

But the title is essential. Alluding again to the official title, the words "The United States of America" are all essential. The so-called Southern Presbyterian church, which separated from the northern or general Presbyterian church on the issue of the Civil war, and which today is noted for its intense conservatism in doctrine, has for its title, "The Presbyterian Church of the United States." There would be a tangle in the ecclesiastical tangle indeed, should the stated clerk so far forget himself as to forget to say "of America." The stated clerk will not forget, however. In Presbyterian circles generally he has the reputation of being the most astute and competent ecclesiastical politician or statesman that the church has produced for many a day. It is a real pleasure even to a novice to hear the Rev. William Henry Roberts, D. D., LL. D., who is the aforesaid clerk, utter the felicitous phrases with great gusto. He enjoys it so thoroughly that the audience does too.

Trains From All Quarters. Anyway, the general assembly is about to convene. At the hour of this writing special cars and even special trains are converging toward a point some 5200 feet above sea level, called in our geographical nomenclature, "Denver."

This Rocky mountain metropolis stretched out very alluring hands to the previous assembly which met in Kansas last May. The call of the Pacific northwest voiced by Seattle and reinforced by Portland's approving echo in behalf of her sister city was not strong enough to silence the appeal of Denver. This year is the semi-centennial of Presbyterianism in the Rocky mountain region. Colorado Presbyterians wanted the assembly very keenly. The assembly usually goes where it is wanted the most urgently. Upon the invitation of Denver, some 800 Presbyterians are gathering. New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey will be on hand with large delegations. Presbyterians being especially strong in those states. Besides the commissioners from the various metropolises will come the secretaries of the various missionary boards, to mingle with the commissioners, and to see that their particular interests are properly represented and presented before the assembly. They come also to feel the pulse of the church to find out how she is getting on in the various fields of her various missionary offerings, and if she appears to be faint-hearted, to see that she is supplied with new vigor. The general assembly is usually, if not always, an enthusiasm producing agency.

Will Be Host of Onlookers. In addition to the commissioners and the secretaries of the various boards, there will be a host of onlookers. Most but this is said to have subsided after the plant was put in operation as the anticipated smells did not arrive. The committee on municipal affairs of the chamber of commerce took up the question of remedying present conditions last year. S. H. Gruber, chairman of that committee has collected a large amount of data on the question, and with the backing of the chamber of commerce he put the wheel in motion that resulted in the submission of the charter amendment that will appear on the ballot in June.

Many Distinguished Delegates. On the special trains now speeding Denverward are several distinguished men whose candidacy for the office of moderator, the highest in the gift of the church, is in the hands of water and it is to be hoped, by friends. Manifestly not all of these excellent men will be elected. The delegation from the north Pacific coast sees eye to eye with the great Presbytery of Chicago on this matter and intends to do all in its power to see that the Rev. Dr. Edgar Hill is clothed with the toga. Dr. Hill's decade of splendid and abundant labors on the coast, his present labor in the city of Chicago, where he is bearing at least two men's loads, filling a chair at the McCormick seminary and exercising his executive talents in superintending the church extension work in Chicago, his eminent fitness of mind and personality; all of these things in the minds of many friends point to him unmistakably as the man for the goodly succession. This is not to be taken in any sense as a prophecy, however, because every assembly is sufficient unto itself, and in the last analysis, intensely democratic and respectful of all plans made for it that are not pleasing to it. The coast hopes, though it does not prophesy, that this latter letter is in press the assembly verdict will be read.

A Few Given Mention. Dr. Robert Mackenzie, formerly of California, later of Rutgers' church, New York city, and a soon to return to California, is to come with the eager support of New York and California. Dr. Mackenzie is a man of rare attainments, a modest, though brilliant, mind, and a great heart. His fellow Presbyterians, backed by many allies from elsewhere, are proposing the name of the Rev. Dr. William T. McEwan of the Third church, Pittsburg. Dr. McEwan is a splendid type of the man of vision and power who are swinging some of our eastern city churches into the line of progress. He, too, is a man of highest attainments along all churchly and personal lines. Detroit Presbytery comes forward for the first time in years (if its previous effort three years ago be not counted) and proposes again the name of the Rev. J. H. Barkeley, D. D., one of its stalwart and splendid pastors. Dr. Barkeley was a soldier in the Confederate army and in addition to the argument from all of his own good qualities, his supporters maintain that the time for his election has come. The name of the Rev. J. H. Barkeley, D. D., is also being mentioned on all sides, that the southern and northern churches may soon be reunited.

Much Work for Assembly. In any event, the assembly will gather tomorrow morning, May 20, to hear the moderator's sermon, after which (it is hoped, in a proper frame of mind) the different managers will tighten all the loose wires so that by the afternoon the assembly may proceed expeditiously and satisfactorily to the great event. It must not be forgotten, however, that when the moderator has been elected the assembly is not yet started; it has just begun.

MEASURES TO BE VOTED ON AT THE COMING CITY ELECTION

GARBAGE CREMATORY BONDS

Establishment of garbage incinerating plants that will take care of all of Portland's refuse, at the same time reducing the present expense of disposing of the same, is one of the measures to be voted on at the election in June, submitted by the city council. The council is directed to pay all expense connected with the purchase of land for sites, and the board of health is entrusted with the purchase, installation and management of such plants. The council is authorized to fix the rate to be charged for the collection and removal of garbage. In 1908, 10,069 tons of garbage were incinerated at the present plant at Guild's lake, and 36,000 tons were dumped nearby. It being impossible to run more than the quantity named through the crematory, although it was worked at full capacity. In other words, the capacity of the plant was equal to less than one fourth of the garbage collected. The plant was built to consume 25 tons per day, but by forcing it at an average of nearly 30 tons per day for every day in the year was attained.

Disease Breeding Dump.

The disease dump skirting the lake has become the breeding ground for millions of rats and therefore a place for the breeding of disease. The board of health has repeatedly pointed out the danger to the public health if the bubonic plague should appear here. The rats unquestionably scatter the germs that may cause the deadly contagion. This is the health side of the case. The element of cost is another important consideration. It cost Portland $1.56 per ton for the incineration of its garbage last year. With modern methods it costs Los Angeles 25 cents per ton, Minneapolis 20 to 25 cents, Atlanta 16 cents, and Seattle about 10 cents. The cost in Atlanta is attributed to cheap labor and the high cost in Seattle to the fact that the crematory there also takes care of 25 cents is considered a fair criterion of what Portland should do.

Greatly Lowered Cost.

If this be correct, it would cost $17,750 to incinerate the 45,000 tons of garbage collected in Portland last year. The sum actually paid for cremating only 10,069 tons was $15,707. The figures above given have nothing to do with the cost of hauling. At present the hauling is done by private contractors, who regulate their own charges. It is reliably estimated that the average cost of hauling is 42 cents per ton, or $135,000 last year for 45,000 tons. The charter amendment provides for regulation of charges by the city council, which it is believed may result in substantial reduction in cost. Another reduction in this expense will result if a crematory is established on the east side, thereby greatly shortening the hauling distance. The question of location is one that has already caused much discussion and delayed action by the city council.

NOTHING TO PAY

Hyomel Is Guaranteed to Cure Catarrh or Money Back

When you suffer horribly from catarrh and are constantly sniffling and sneezing, hawking and spitting, and doing other disgusting things, remember there is a certain cure, Hyomel (pronounced High-ome), which is guaranteed to cure. Hyomel will give joyful relief to any catarrh sufferer in five minutes and it gives remarkable relief to consumptives. Hyomel is medicated air prepared from the extract of the giant eucalyptus trees of inland Australia, where catarrh or consumption is never known. You breathe in this healing and anti-septic air through an inhaler and this air, with its peculiar soothing properties, passing over the inflamed and germ laden membrane (for catarrh is a germ disease), kills the germ, allays the inflammation and in short time completely cures the disease. A complete Hyomel outfit, which includes a hard rubber tube that will last a lifetime, and a bottle of Hyomel, costs only $1.00, extra bottles cost 50 cents. Sold by leading druggists everywhere and in Portland by Woodard, Clarke & Co., who guarantee it on the money back plan.

LEAVES PUBLIC SERVICE FOR FRUIT FARM

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) The Dalles, Or., May 21.—At a special meeting of the city council last night, P. B. Davis was elected city recorder to succeed J. M. Filion, resigned. Mr. Filion served the city as recorder for the past eight years, and resigned to move onto a farm which he recently bought at Fruit Lake, Wash. Mr. Davis, the new recorder, came here from Prineville about a year and a half ago, and for the past six months has been employed as bookkeeper in the salaried position of C. J. Stalling's wholesale liquor house. Journal want ads to a word.
