ROOF MAKES ENTRANCE; CHILDREN MAKE EXIT Not a broken sewer, but an ambitious root has been the cause of the report coming from Sellwood school during the past week that the cellar of the school building was flooded with sewage. Acting on this report, more than half of the pupils have been withdrawn from the school, some of them to attend other schools, others to be absent during the rest of the year. Principal Clifford L. Strong of the school was forced to give much of the time which he usually devotes to the school to the task of explaining the situation to angry parents who adopted a policy of visiting him en masse.
