FIND RIFLE RANGE IN FINE CONDITION

Nearly 100 national guardsmen, members of companies C and E initiated the new rifle range at Clackamas station yesterday with an all day target shoot. The soldiers were under the command Captain L. A. Bowman, company C, and were accompanied to the range by Adjulant General W. E. Finzer and Major F. S. Baker, state inspector of small arms practice, both of whom remained on the range all day and assisted the company officers and Range Officer White in familiarizing the men were confined in yesterday's practice to the 200 and 300 yard ranges. The forenoon was spent at the 200 yard range and the afternoon the 200 yard range was in use.

Owing to the fact that the long ranges had not been completed, the guardsmen were confined in yesterday's practice to the 200 and 300 yard ranges. The forenoon was spent at the 200 yard range was in use.

Adjutant General Finzer is of the opinion that the Qregon national guard now has one of the most serviceable of the ranges in the country. Yester day's target practice proves that the year department made no mistake in Saramento.

"Yesterday's target practice proves that the war department made no mistake in buying the land for the rifle range at Clarkamas station," said General Finzer. "While only using the shorter ranges, the work of the men showed that the range is practically free from the annoying imperfections found on most of the national guard ranges throughout the country."

Other Portland companies will be assigned to the range during June, and later on the Oregon City company will occupy it. It is not improbable that companies of the national guard in the Williamette valley cities will be ordered to the new range for target practice

WINTER WHEAT IN

SPLENDID CONDITION

Winter wheat in fine condition and spring wheat in need of rain is the burden of the report brought by Amos A. Morse, special representative of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company, who has just returned from a trip through eastern Oregon and Washington inspecting crops. He says that the ranchers are still wearing overcoats and keeping the stoves hot. It is cold and there is a high wind blowing most of the time.

Comparison of Fighters.

This is as far as a comparison of past performances can go, but a comparison of the two fighters, one against the other, is interesting. Nelson is 5 feet to the is inches and Hyland 5 feet 3 inches. Nelson is 27 years old and Hyland 24. Hyland is of stocky build, heavily muscled and Nelson is of the lathy, wirry type. On the score of strength it is about a standoff, but when it comes to question of endurance, the Dane probably wins. Hyland is the more scientiffe, is credited with having a more damaging punch and is every bit as game as the champion.

There is little if any difference in their style of fighting. Both are of the slow, plodding type, always willing to take two punches to land one. Infighting is their middle name. They don't know what it means to back up and are two men of the distinctive type that theyland and Nelson represent naturally would be expected to be a slow affair, but there is every reason to believe that the rule will be a desperate and savage one.

Nelson must fight hard to retain his

NOTES OF THE GAME

Spokane, now in second place, opens here today for a week's engagement with the Colts. At the present rate of traveling the Colts ought to get at least five of the nine games scheduled.

Those who know anything about a sprained ankle will pay a tribute to the excellent work of trainer Roger Cornell. Thursday Staton was carried off the field with a bum pin; yesterday he was able to take part in the game. Ordinarily a sprained ankle will keep one out for a week or 10 days.

One thing that the Colts have in large quantities is pluck. This is something that the Coast team didn't have last year; for example, the laying down of Raftery and Danzig on minor sprains. The crewd yesterday was twice as large as any that has turned out for Northwestern league baseball. And it saw a good game, too. The fine day brought out hundreds of fans.

mountains and the Mississippi river. In Oklahoma and western Dakota the rainfall was unusually heavy. The barometer continues relatively high over western Oregon and western Washington, and a large high pressure area is central over Cansua north of the great lakes. The temperatures continue below normal in western Oregon, the sound country and generally throughout the south Pacific and southern Rocky mountain states. Heavy frosts occurred this morning in Nevada and northern Arizona. It is warmer than usual in the northern Rocky mountain states, but over the Snake river drainage area the temperatures continue below normal. The indications are for fair weather in this district tonight and Tuesday, except in eastern Washington and northern Idaho, where the conditions are favorable for showers with lower temperatures tonight followed by fair weather Tuesday. eather Tuesday.
